PREFACE TO VOL. XVI

The preliminary matter and first chapter of the so-called Le Jeune's Relation of 1639 (Document XXXIV.) were published in Vol. XV. We herewith give the rest of Part I. (Le Jeune's own portion), and the two opening chapters of Part II., which was Lalemant's report to his superior, Le Jeune, of affairs in the Huron country. Following is a synopsis of the contents of the present volume:

XXXIV. Continuing his annual narrative, Le Jeune describes in detail the foundation of the Ursuline convent at Quebec by Madame de la Peltrie, and the arrival of these nuns (August 1, 1639), with the Hospital sisters and a reinforcement of Jesuit Fathers. The nuns are taken, for a visit, to Sillery; they are overcome with joy to see the Indians offering their devotions in the chapel, and still more when children, both French and Indian, come to the Ursulines for instruction; while the sick are brought to the Hospital sisters for care, even before their baggage arrives from the ship. As aid in this emergency, mattresses are loaned them by the Jesuits. Madame de la Peltrie "cannot contain herself; she wishes to be everywhere, wherever the Savages are in question; and she is already the godmother of several. She could not meet a little Savage girl without embracing and kissing her." The good sisters do the same, " without heeding whether or not these little Savage children were dirty, and without asking whether this were the custom of the country."

The superior then praises in high terms the devotion and charity of the Duchess d'Aiguillon, foundress of the hospital, and quotes one of her letters showing her pious intentions in its establishment,—also a letter from Father de Quen, describing the condition of the inmates of the hospital, and extolling their piety.

Le Jeune again explains the necessity of rendering the savages stationary; and recounts the assistance given for this purpose by many friends of the missions—not only private persons, but the Company of New France. He reports much progress in their mission, with more conversions than in preceding years. "Over 800 Algonkins, attracted by the report of our faith, and by the assistance given the sedentary savages at Sillery, have come down to Three Rivers; but they declare that they come only to acquire a knowledge of the true God." The missionaries still have to contend with the opposition of the medicine men, and the Algonkins "are much diverted from the good thoughts that God has given them," by a contest with their enemies and their defeat therein. Moreover, they are held in bondage to Satan, by their superstitions and by their unwillingness to observe single marriage. The missionaries console themselves, however, with the pious sentiments and behavior of their actual converts, upon which the superior dwells at much length.

Discouraging news comes from Three Rivers, of hostile feeling among the Indians, caused by the revival of the old story that the French had introduced the smallpox, then raging there. But the aboriginal families settled at Sillery are steadfast in their faith and religious duties. The missionaries are especially consoled by the discretion of some Indian girls, who refuse to marry men that are not baptized, and refer their suitors to the Fathers for answer. The baptized Indians so faithfully observe fast days and Lent, that they abstain from meat in the midst of others who are feasting thereon; and even pass two days without eating any food, while hunting during Lent, rather than eat meat. The writer describes the conversions, baptisms, pious acts, and family affairs of the earliest Indian settlers at Sillery, most of whom are now Christians. The missionaries are deeply grieved at the misfortune which befalls these families late in the summer of this year (1639),—an attack of smallpox; the disease was brought by some Indians who had been trading with the Abenakis of Maine. François Xavier Nenaskoumat and Noël Negabamat, the head men, are both stricken, and removed to the hospital at Quebec; while others of their followers are also afflicted with various diseases. But these trials appear only to strengthen the faith and resignation of all.

Le Jeune relates the conversion, and the pious sentiments expressed by several of his neophytes. One is a young Algonkin, “whose conversion alone more than sufficiently repays all the trouble and expense incurred for the salvation of the Savages.” So full of self-abnegation is he that, in the depth of winter, he goes in a thin, worn robe, refusing to wear the good one given him by the Fathers, for these reasons: “I fear that my body, if I supply it with comforts, and cover it warmly, will be always urging me to procure for it the same good things; and, if I cannot cover it by my own skill, it will gradually lead me to frequent your society for its own special benefit, rather than for the salvation of my soul. This has made me resolve not to make use of your presents. Secondly, if I show myself desirous of your gifts, I shall be continually importuned by a woman who has very little sense, who will urge me to get from you all that she will think your goodness can grant me. Hence, I have made a resolution to disregard my body, that I may better reflect upon the welfare of my soul." A dearly-loved sister of this convert dies without baptism; he decides that, since she has refused the friendship of God, he will no longer love her; and presently he loses all memory of her. Another neophyte is a chief who remains steadfast through both affliction and the ridicule of his countrymen. A third is the "sorcerer" or medicine man, who had formerly so hindered the missionaries. This last, Pigarouich, had sought to obtain baptism; but he fell from grace, engaging in gambling and debauchery, and was refused by the missionaries until, at the end of two years, he shows that "the Faith has taken possession of his soul;" and after many entreaties, he is granted the desired boon.

Le Jeune then relates the progress, during the past year, of his seminaries for Indian boys,—these now include Montagnais and Algonkins, as well as Hurons. Among those of the last-named tribe, the most satisfactory results were visible in a man of fifty years, whom the Fathers received most reluctantly; but this convert was snatched from them by death at the time when he gave most promise of usefulness to the mission cause. The Algonkin and Montagnais lads are exceedingly tractable and industrious, and surprise their preceptor by their intellectual acumen and quickness. There has been, however, much illness among them; so the missionaries decide to retain hereafter only a few of the younger boys.

The writer adds some interesting information in regard to the superstitious beliefs current among the aborigines—that each man has several souls; that the souls of the dead must not be allowed to enter the cabins of others; that sickness may be healed by a solemn gambling bout. He mentions also some of their customs—those connected with gambling; the resuscitation of a dead man, by conferring his name and responsibilities on another; and customs relating to marriage and burial. He closes his part of the Relation by mention of the frightful mortality caused among the savages of his district by the smallpox epidemic,—which has begun also to attack the French,—and the anxieties and labors thus laid upon the missionaries and the Hospital nuns, who labor to relieve the prevalent wretchedness.

The Relation of the Huron mission in this year is sent by Jerome Lalemant, who, in the first two chapters, given in the present volume, describes the physical aspects of that region, and the tribes dwelling therein; the difficulties attending the mission, and the hopeful prospect. He enumerates the priests who are laboring among the Hurons, and describes their daily occupations, their plan of work, and their intentions for the near future.

DES RELIGIEUSES NOUUELLEMENT ARIUÉES EN LA
NOUUELLE FRANCE, & DE LEUR EMPLOY.

C'A donc esté cette Année que Madame la Duchesse d'Aiguillon a dressé & fondé vne maison à Dieu en ce nouveau monde, pendant que Dieu luy en prepare vn autre dans les Cieux.: Et il s'est trouué vne Amazone qui a conduit & estable des Vrfulines en ces derniers confins du monde. Et c'est chose bien remarquable, qu'en mesme temps que Dieu touchoit à Paris le cœur de madame la Duchesse d'Aiguillon, & luy inspiroit de bastir vn Hostel-Dieu pour nos Sauuages qui mouroient dans les bois abandonnez de tout secours, & qu'elle iettoit les yeux pour [18] ce dessein fur les Religieuses Hospitalieres de Dieppe, il suscitoit en vn autre endroit de la France vne hōneste & vertueuse Dame, & l'inspiroit d'entreprendre le Seminaire des petites filles des Sauuages, & d'en donner le gouuernement aux Vrfulines; & a tellement disposé les affaires, que fans que l'vne fçeut rien du dessein de l'autre, il s'est trouué accomplly en mesme temps, afin que ces bonnes Religieuses eussent la consolation de trauerfer ensemble l'Ocean, & que les Sauuages receuissent en même temps ce double seruice également necessaire. Le ferois tort au desir raisōnable de plusieurs, si ie ne disois icy vn mot de la conduite de cette hōneste Dame dans toute son entreprise, elle est natuie d'Alençon, & se nomme Magdalaine de

OF THE NUNS RECENTLY ARRIVED IN NEW FRANCE, AND OF THEIR OCCUPATION.

IT was in this Year that Madame the Duchess d'Aiguillon erected and endowed a house in honor of God in this new world, while God is preparing another dwelling for her in Heaven. And there was found an Amazon, who has led the Ursulines, and established them on these outer confines of the world. It is indeed a remarkable fact that,—at the very moment when God touched the heart of madame the Duchess d'Aiguillon in Paris, and inspired her with the idea of building a Hostel-Dieu¹ for our Savages who were dying in the forests, abandoned and without any assistance, and while she was thinking [18] of the Hospital Nuns of Dieppe² for carrying out her project,—he raised up, in another part of France, a modest and virtuous Lady, and inspired her to undertake the Seminary for the little daughters of the Savages, and to confide its management to the Ursulines. And he so arranged affairs that, without the one knowing anything of the other's design, all was accomplished at the same time, so that these good Nuns might have the consolation of crossing the Ocean together, and that the Savages might benefit, at the same moment, by this double and equally necessary service. I would offend the reasonable desires of many, if I did not say here a word respecting the conduct of that virtuous Lady

Chauuigny, fille de feu Monsieur de Chauuigny, seigneur de Vanibegon, & Presidēt des Eleuz en l'Election d'Alençon: Dés son bas aage elle fit tout son possible pour entrer en Religion, & cōmēcoit deslors à practiquer les œuures de pieté & charité Chrestienne; Mais monsieur son pere l'obligea de se marier à vn honnesté Gentil-homme nōmé Monsieur de la Pelterie, qui la laissa veufue cinq ans & demy apres le mariage, & sans enfans, [19] n'ayant eu d'elle qu'une fille, qui mourut incontinēt apres le Baptesme: Si tost qu'elle se veit veufue, elle commença par la lecture des Relations que nous enuoyons tous les ans à penfer à bon escient aux moyens de contribuer à l'instruction des petites filles Sauuages, & fit faire à cette intention quantité de prieres: car ayant resolu de se sacrifier entierement elle mesme, & tout ce qu'elle pouuoit legitimement de son bien à la diuine Maiesté, elle desiroit sçauoir de Dieu s'il auroit agreable que ce fut à la Nouuelle France; comme elle estoit en ce doute, la prouidence de dieu se feruit d'vne forte maladie qui la mit si bas en peu de temps, que les Medecins desesperans de sa santé, l'abandonnerent: comme elle se veit en cēt estat, elle se sentit fortement inspirée de faire vœu, de consacrer ses moyens & sa personne à la nouuelle France sans en rien communiquer à personne. Vn peu apres le Medecin arriuant, la trouua en bien meilleur estat, & sans sçauoir ce qu'elle venoit de faire, ny chose aucune de son dessein, luy dit; Madame, vostre maladie est allée en Canada, il parloit mieux qu'il ne croyoit, & fit rire le malade, qui fut extremēmēt aise de voir [20] par cēt effect si extraordinaire que Dieu acceptoit son sacrifice: Estant donc reuenuë en pleine santé, elle ne fit plus que pen-throughout her undertaking. She is a native of Alençon; her name is Magdelaine de Chauvigny; she is the daughter of the late Monsieur de Chauvigny, seigneur of Vaubegon, and President of the Elected in the Election of Alençon.³ From her infancy, she did all in her power to enter the Religious life, and commenced even then the practice of works of piety and Christian charity. But her father obliged her to marry an honorable Gentleman, named Monsieur de la Pelterie, who, five and a half years after their marriage, left her a childless widow, [19] having had by her only one daughter, who died immediately after Baptism. As soon as she became a widow, she began, through the perusal of the Relations that we send over every year, earnestly to consider means of contributing to the education of the little Savage girls. With that intention, she caused many prayers to be said; for,—having resolved to sacrifice herself entirely, with all of her fortune that she could legally surrender, to the divine Majesty,—she desired to learn from God whether it would be agreeable to him that she should do so in New France. While she was in doubt, God's providence employed a violent illness which, in a short time, brought her so low that the Physicians despaired of her recovery, and gave her up. Seeing herself in this condition, she felt strongly inspired to vow that she would devote her wealth and her person to New France, without communicating aught of this to any one. Shortly after, the Physician came, and found her condition greatly improved; and—without knowing what she had done, or having any inkling of her design—he said to her: “ Madame, your disease has gone to Canada.” He spoke fer à l'execution de son dessein. Mais Mr son Pere, qui viuoit encore, la pressoit cependant de se remarier, iusques-là qu'il la menaça à bon escient de la desheriter si elle ne luy obeyssoit: comme elle veit que son Pere parloit à bon escient, & qu'à faute d'vfer de quelque cōdescendance elle se mettoit en danger de ruiner tout son pieux dessein; elle prit resolution de feindre qu'elle vouloit se remarier, & par ce moyen se remit en la bonne grace de son Pere, qui sur ces entrefaictes passa de cette vie à l'autre. Lors sans differer, ayant partagé son bien avec sa fœur, elle vint à Paris en Ianvier, & là ayant conferé de son entreprise avec plusieurs saints & doctes personnages qui l'approuuerent, s'en alla à Tours, où il y auoit vne Vrfuline de sa cognoissance fort vertueuse & tres-zelée, qui depuis long-temps foûpiroit apres la Nouuelle France. Il n'est pas croyable comme elle fut bien receuë de Monseigneur l'Illustissime & Reuerendissime Archevesque de Tours qu'elle alla faluer, & luy declara naïfument tout son [21] dessein. Ce venerable Prelat tres-affectionné au salut des Ames, admirant le courage & la vertu de cette Dame, & luy ayant fait paroistre les grandes affections qu'il auoit pour les missions de la Nouuelle France, luy promit tout le secours & l'assistance qui dépendoit de luy? Les Vrsulines d'autre part la receurent à bras ouverts, & passant par dessus mille difficultez, luy accorderent la Religieuse qu'elle demandoit, & pour compagne luy dōnerent vne autre Religieuse pleine de courage & de vertu, fille de Monsieur de Sauoniere, Seigneur de la Troche & de Sainct Germain en Anjou, qui ayant de premier abord resisté à ce choix qu'on auoit fait de sa fille pour ce dessein, y dōna par better than he knew, and made his patient laugh, who was very happy to see [20] by this so extraordinary effect, that God accepted her sacrifice. When her health was fully restored, she thought of nothing but the execution of her plan. But Monsieur her Father, who was still living, urged her to marry again, and went so far as to threaten, in good earnest, to disinherit her if she would not obey him. As she saw that her Father spoke in earnest, and that, if she did not show some compliance, she ran the risk of completely ruining her pious plan, she resolved to feign that she was willing to remarry; and, by this means, she regained the good graces of her Father, who in the meantime passed from this life to the other. Then, without delay, having divided her property with her sister, she went, in January, to Paris. Having there conferred about her enterprise with several holy and learned persons, who approved it, she went to Tours, where there was an Ursuline of her acquaintance, very virtuous and very zealous, who had long desired to go to New France.⁴ It is difficult to imagine the welcome she received from Monseigneur the Most Illustrious and Most Reverend Archbishop of Tours, to whom she paid her respects, and artlessly revealed all her [21] plans. That venerable Prelate, who took a great interest in the salvation of Souls,—admiring this Lady's courage and virtue, and having made known to her his great affection for the missions of New France,—promised her all the help and assistance in his power to give. On their part, the Ursulines received her with open arms, and, overcoming a thousand difficulties, they granted her the Nun whom she asked for, and gave her for companion another Nun, full of courage and apres son consentement avec Madame sa femme, par des lettres si pleines de pitié [sc. pieté] & de vertu Chrestiēne, qu'elles meriteroient d'estre cōmuniquées au public. Madame de la Pelterie ayant obtenu si heureusement à Tours ce qu'elle desiroit, s'en alla prendre congé de Monseigneur l'Archeuesque, & par son commandemēt, luy amena les deux Religieuses choisies pour ce dessein. Ce fut là qu'il receut vne singuliere cōfolation, contemplant ces trois charitables Ames comme [22] trois victimes qui s'alloient immoler à tant de croix iusques au bout du monde; Et comme à raison de son infirmité il ne pouuoit celebrier la Saincte Messe, il voulut cōmunier avec elles à la Messe qu'il fit dire en sa Chappelle particulière, & puis il leur donna sa faincte benediction, à laquelle il adiousta vne courte, mais tres feruente exhortation, entremeslée de larmes, pour leur recommander les vertus & la ferueur necessaire à cette entreprise: la Nouuelle France luy aura à iamais de tres-particulières obligations. Madame de la Pelterie bien contente s'en reuient à Paris, emmenant avec elles les deux Vrsulines, où estât arriuée, elle s'efforce d'obtenir vne troisième Vrsuline de la Congregation de Paris, qui differe vn peu de celle de Tours, afin de dōner moyen aux vnes & aux autres de trauailler au salut des Sauuages, & peut estre commencer l'vnion des deux Congregations tant souhaitée, mais elles ne peurent obtenir ce qu'elles desiroient, nous n'en auons pas encore pû fçauoir la cause, feulement fçayie bien qui ne tint point aux Vrsulines de Paris, qui depuis douze ans font dans vne ferueur incroyable pour la Nouuelle France, & qui au lieu d'une religieuse, [23] en eussent fourny plusieurs autres, & font virtue, the daughter of Monsieur de Savoniere, Seigneur of la Troche and of Saint Germain in Anjou. At first, he opposed the selection of his daughter for that object; but afterward, with Madame his wife, gave his consent by letters so replete with piety and Christian virtue that they deserve to be made public. Madame de la Pelterie having so fortunately procured at Tours what she desired, went to take leave of Monseigneur the Archbishop; and, by his command, introduced to him the two Nuns chosen for the enterprise. He thus received a singular consolation, in contemplating these three charitable Souls as [22] three victims who were about to sacrifice themselves to as many crosses, even at the end of the world. And as, owing to his infirmities, he was unable to celebrate Holy Mass, he wished to receive communion with them at the Mass which he caused to be said in his private Chapel. Then he gave them his holy blessing, to which he added a short but very fervent exhortation, interspersed with tears, commanding to them the virtues and the fervor necessary for this undertaking. New France will ever be under very special obligations to him. Madame de la Pelterie, well pleased, returned to Paris, taking with her the two Ursulines. Upon her arrival there, she tried to obtain a third Ursuline from the Congregation of Paris, which differs a little from that of Tours, in order to give both an opportunity of working for the salvation of the Savages, and, perhaps, to initiate the much-desired union of the two Congregations; but they were unable to obtain what they desired. We have not yet been able to learn the reason therefor; I only know with certainty that it did not depend upon the Ursulines of Paris, who, for the encore toutes prestes de les dōner, aussi furent elles bien mortifiées se voyant priuées de ceste occasion qu'elles auoiēt si long temps attendu. La bonne Fondatrice ne perd pas pourtant courage, mais continuant dans le dessein qu'elle auoit de mener vne Vrsuline de la Congregation de Paris, elle s'addresse à Monseigneur l'Ilustre & Reuerendissime Archevesque de Roien, le sollicitant par l'entremise, de quelque personne de vertu & de pieté de luy donner vne troisiesme Vrsuline du Conuent de Dieppe vny à celuy de Paris: ce qu'il accorda avec mesme zele qu'il auoit donné à Madame la Duchesse d'Aiguillon les trois religieuses Hospitalieres. C'est vne double obligation que la Nouuelle France luy aura à iamais. Ainsi la Mere Cecile de la Croix, Vrsuline, fut choisie dans le Conuent de Dieppe pour se ioindre aux deux autres qui en furent fort consolées, comme estant bien portées à l'vnion des deux Congregations. Et pour monsttrer que Madame de la Pelterie n'auoit pas plus d'affection pour les vnes que pour les autres, elle n'a iamais voulu contraicter avec aucune maifon d'Vrsuline de [24] France, mais seulement avec les Vrsulines qui ont leur Obedience pour la Nouuelle France, & a attaché sa donation à l'vnique maifon des Vrsulines erigée en la Nouuelle France. I'aurois icy à dire beaucoup de chofes de la vertu signalée, & du zele incōparable de la personne de laquelle s'est feruie ceste bonne dame pour la conduitte de toute fon entreprise qui rauiroit les cœurs de ceux qui le liroient, mais sa modestie ne me permet pas feument de le faire cognoistre, il se contente que Dieu se soit voulu feruir de luy pour affister en son dessein ceste Dame incomparable, qui feruira de modelle à past twelve years, have displayed an incredible zeal for New France, and who, instead of only one Nun, [23] would have supplied several others, and are still in readiness to give them. They were greatly mortified, therefore, when they saw themselves deprived of this opportunity, to which they had so long looked forward. The good Foundress, however, did not lose courage; but, persisting in her design to bring an Ursuline of the Congregation of Paris, she applied to Monseigneur the Most Illustrious and Most Reverend Archbishop of Rouen, begging him—through the intermediary of some virtuous and pious person—to give her a third Ursuline from the Convent of Dieppe, which is connected with that of Paris. This he granted with the same ardor as when he gave the three Hospital Nuns to Madame the Duchess d'Aiguillon.⁵ This is a double obligation, for which New France will ever be indebted to him. Mother Cecile of the Cross, an Ursuline, was therefore chosen in the Dieppe Convent to join the two others, who were greatly consoled thereat, being well disposed to the union of the two Congregations. And to show that Madame de la Pelterie had not more affection for one than for the other, she never would contract with any Ursuline establishment of [24] France, but only with the Ursulines, whose Obedience is for New France; and she has attached her donation exclusively to the Ursuline establishment in New France. I could have much to say here respecting the signal virtue and incomparable zeal of the person of whose services this good Lady has availed herself for the management of the whole undertaking,—which would greatly rejoice the hearts of whoever might read it. But his modesty does not even allow me to tous ceux qui auront le courage de l'imiter & ensuiure.

Reuenons à nostre Histoire.

Quand on nous vint donner auis qu'vne barque alloit surgir à Kebec, portant vn College de Iesuites, vne maison d'Hospitalieres, & vn Conuent d Vrfulines; la premiere nouuelle nous sëbla quasi vn fonge, mais en fin descendans vers le gräd fleue, nous trouuafmes que c'estoit vne verité. Cette faincte troupe fortant du vaisseau, se iette à deux genoux, beny le Dieu du Ciel, baisans la terre de leur chere patrie, c'est ainsi qu'ils appelloient ces contrées, [25] tout le monde regardoit ce spectacle dans vn silence: On voyoit sortir d'vne prison flotante ces vierges consacrées à Dieu, aussi fraiches & aussi vermeilles, que quād elles partirent de leurs maifons: Tout l'Ocean avec ses flots & ses tempestes n'ayant pas alteré vn feul petit brin de leur santé. Monsieur le Gouuerneur les receut avec tout l'accueil possible, nous le conduisimes à la Chappelle, on chanta le Te Deum laudamus, le Canon retentit de tous costez, on beny le Ciel & la terre, & puis on les conduit aux maifons destinées pour elles, en attendant qu'elles en ayent de plus propres pour leurs fonctions. Le lendemain on les mene en la Residēce de Sillery, où se retirent les Sauuages. Quand elles veirent ces pauures gens assemblez à la Chapelle faire leurs prieres, & chanter les articles de nostre creance, les larmes leur couloient des yeux; elles auoient beau se cacher, leur ioye se trouuant trop refferrée dans leur cœur, se respandoit par leurs yeux. Au sortir de là, ils visitēt les familles arrestées, & les Cabanes voisines. Madame de la Pelterie qui conduiftoit la bande, ne rencoôtroit petite fille Sauuage qu'elle n'ëbraffast & ne baifast, avec des signes d'amention him;⁶ he is satisfied that God should consent to employ him to further the plans of this incomparable Lady, who will serve as a pattern to all who may have the courage to imitate and follow her. Let us return to our History.

When we were informed that a bark was about to arrive at Kebec, bearing a College of Jesuits, an establishment of Hospital Nuns, and a Convent of Ursulines, the news seemed at first almost a dream; but at last, descending towards the great river, we found that it was a reality. As this holy band left the ship, they fell on their knees, thanked the God of Heaven and kissed the soil of their beloved country — for thus they called these regions. [25] All gazed in silence on this spectacle. From a floating prison were seen issuing these virgins consecrated to God, as fresh and as rosy as when they had departed from their homes. All Ocean, with its waves and tempests, had not injured their health in the slightest degree. Monsieur the Governor received them with all possible honor. We led them to the Chapel; the Te Deum laudamus was chanted; the Cannon thundered on all sides. Heaven and earth were praised, and then we conducted them to the houses set apart for them until such time as they should have others more suitable for their duties. On the following day, they were taken to the Residence of Sillery, where the Savages dwell.⁷ When they saw these poor people assembled in the Chapel, offering their prayers, and singing the articles of our creed, the tears fell from their eyes. In vain they tried to hide it,—their joy, too restrained within their hearts, showed itself in their features. On going thence, they visited the settled families and the neighboring mour [26] si doux & si forts, que ces pauures barbares en restoient d'autant plus estoonnez & plus edifiez, qu'ils sont froids en leurs rencontres; toutes ces bonnes filles faisoient le mesme sans prendre garde si ces petits enfans sauuages estoient sales ou non, ny sans demander si c'estoit la coutume du pays, la loy d'amour & de charité l'emportoit par dessus toutes les considerations humaines. On fait mettre la main à l'œuvre aux Peres nouvellement arriuez; on leur fait baptiser quelques Sauuages, Madame de la Pelterie est desia maraine de plusieurs, elle ne se pouuoit cõtenir, elle se vouloit trouuer par tout, quand il s'agissoit des Sauuages. Il luy arriua bien-tost apres qu'elle eut mis pied à terre, que se voulant communier, elle ne veit à la faincte Table que mōsieur le Gouuerneur, & des Sauuages, qui faisoient leurs deuotions ce iour-là: Elle se iette parmy eux, non sans larmes de consolation, voyāt la simplicité & la deuotion de ces bōs Neophites. En effect, c'est vn doux plaisir de voir ces bōnes gens s'approcher de Iesus-Christ parmy nos François. Il faut confesser que Dieu se fait sentir en ces rencontres, sa bonté veut que ceux qui cooperent au salut des Sauuages goûtent quelque petit [27] brin des faueurs qu'il fait à ces ieunes plantes de son Eglise. Ces visites bien-tost passées, on dresse des Autels dans les Chappelles de leurs maifons, on y va dire la faincte Messe, & ces bōnes filles se renfermēt dans leur closture. Dans l'Hospital, les trois Hospitalieres enuoyées par Monseigneur le Reuerendissime Archevesque de Roüen, tres-zelé au salut des ames, & tres-desireux de tesmoigner à Madame d'Aiguillon les inclinations qu'il a de contribuer de tout son pouvoir aux bonnes œuures

Cabins. Madame de la Pelterie, who led the party, could not meet a little Savage girl without embracing and kissing her, with marks of affection [26] so sweet and emphatic that these poor barbarians stood astonished and edified,—all the more that they themselves are cold in their greetings. All these good women did the same,—without heeding whether or not these little savage children were dirty, and without asking whether this were the custom of the country,—the law of love and charity overcoming all human considerations. The newly arrived Fathers were set to work; they were called upon to baptize some Savages. Madame de la Pelterie is already the godmother of several. She could not contain herself; she wished to be everywhere, whenever the Savages were in question. It happened, soon after she had landed, that, on going to receive communion, she observed at the holy Table only monsieur the Governor, and some Savages who were performing their devotions that day. She hastened into their midst, not without tears of consolation on seeing the simplicity and devotion of these good Neophytes. In fact, it is a sweet pleasure to see these good people approach Jesus Christ amidst our French. It must be confessed that God makes his influence felt in these meetings; his goodness desires that those who labor together for the salvation of the Savages should enjoy some little [27] share of the favors that he confers on these young plants of his Church. These visits being soon over, Altars were erected in the Chapels of their houses, holy Mass was said there, and these good women retired into their seclusion. Into the Hospital went the three Hospital Nuns sent by Monseigneur the Most Reverend Archbishop qu'elle fait, ne pouuant mieux l'obliger qu'en obligeāt les pauures Sa[u]uages leur dōnant pour secours vn des plus pretieux threfors de son Dioceſe; Car ces bōnes filles, outre qu'elles font tres-exāctes en la discipline & obſeruance reguliere, font sans doute excellentes au foin & traitemēt des malades, tant pour le temporel, que pour le ſpirituel. Les trois Vrfulines fe retirerent dans vne maifon particuliere, apres s'estre mutuellement embrassées les vnes & les autres. Bien-toſt apres nous fimes dōner fix filles fauuages à Madame de la Pelterie, ou aux Vrfulines; & quelques filles Frācoifes commencerent de les aller voir pour eſtre instruittes: Si bien que les [28] voila defia dans l'exercice de leur institut, mais fi iamais elles ont vne maifon biẽ capable, & bien dequoy nourrir les enfans fauuages, elles en auront peut-eſtre iusques à fe laſſer; Dieu veuille que les grands frais ne retardent leur deſſein, les deſpences qu'on fait icy font fort grandes, mais Dieu l'eſt encore plus.

Pour l'Hôpital, les Religieuses n'eſtoient pas encore logées, leur bagage n'eſtoit pas encore arriuée, qu'on leur amena des malades, il fallut preſter nos paillaffes & nos mattelats pour exercer cette premiere charité. O que i'ay fouuent souhaitté que Madame la Ducheffe d'Aiguillon veiſt ſeulement pour trois iours ce qu'elle a commencé d'operer en ces contrées; les filles qu'elle nous a enuoyé ne fe pouuoient contenir d'aife, elles auoient des malades, & n'auoient pas dequoy leur donner, mais la charité de Monsieur noſtre Gouuerneur eſt rauifante. Si fallut-il refuſer de pauures Sauuages affligez, on ne peut pas tout du premier coup, nous esperōs que Madame la Ducheffe faſtant croiſtre le ſecours, fera croiſtre la miſericorde of Rouen, who — full of zeal for the salvation of souls and very anxious to show Madame d'Aiguillon how willing he was to contribute, to the best of his ability, to the good works she had undertaken — could not better oblige her than in obliging the poor Savages, by giving for their aid one of the most precious treasures of his Diocese. For these good women, besides being very strict in discipline and in regular observance, are, beyond a doubt, excellent in the care and treatment of the sick, both in temporal and in spiritual matters. The three Ursulines withdrew to a private house,⁸ after having mutually embraced the other nuns. Soon afterwards, we had six savage girls given to Madame de la Pelterie or to the Ursulines; and some French girls began going to them for instruction; so that they [28] already perform the duties of their order. But if ever they have a house with sufficient accommodation, and the means to feed the savage children, they will perhaps have so many of these as to weary them. God grant that the heavy expenses may not thwart their designs; the outlay to be made here is very great, but God is still greater.

As for the Hospital, the Nuns were not yet lodged, and their baggage had not yet arrived, when sick people were brought to them. We had to lend our straw beds and mattresses that they might perform this first act of charity. Oh, how often I have wished that Madame the Duchess d'Aiguillon might see, even for three days, what she has commenced to effect in these countries! The nuns whom she has sent us could not contain themselves for gladness. They had sick persons to nurse and had nothing to give them; but the charity of Monsieur our Governor is delightful. Even if it is necessary to refuse some enuers les pauures malades de sa maison, difons plutoft de la maison de Dieu. Si les Sauuages sont [29] capables d'estonnement, c'est icy qu'ils le pren-nent; car parmy eux on ne tient conte des malades, notamment si on les iuge malades à la mort, on les regarde desia comme des gens de l'autre monde, avec qui on n'a, ny commerce, ny paroles. Or comme ils voient les careffes & les soins qu'on a de leurs Compatriotes, cela leur fait conceuoir vne grande estime de celuy pour lequel on leur preste ces grands secours, qui est I E S V S - C H R I S T nostre Sauveur.

Mais voyons, s'il vous plaist, les desseins qu'a eu
Madame d'Aiguillon en la fondation de cette maison.
Voicy comme elle en parle dans la lettre qu'elle ref-criuit à la Mere Superieure des Hospitalieres qui sôt icy passées: Ma bonne Mere, ie louë Dieu de la resolution que vous auez prise de passer en la Nouuelle France, dont ie vous suis extrememēt obligée, & aux deux bonnes fœurs qui vous y accompagnent. I'ay aussi beaucoup de ioye de ce que Nostre Seigneur vous a choisie pour cela, ayant vne tres-particuliere estime de vostre merite, i'espere que cela reparera tous les māquements qu'il y a de ma part, & que Dieu par sa bonté aura plus d'égard à vos vertus, [30] qu'à mes defauts. Je vous veux dire le dessein que i'ay eu faisant cette fondation, c'est de dedier cet Hospital au Sang du Fils de Dieu, respandu pour faire miseri-corde à tous les hommes, & pour lui demander qu'il l'applique sur nos Ames, & sur celles de ce pauure peuple barbare. Je vous fais part de mes intentiōs, afin que vous les offriez à nostre Seigneur, & qu'al-lant faire la fondation, vous lui dediez selon cela, &

poor afflicted Savages, one cannot do everything at the first stroke. We hope that Madame the Duchess, by increasing the aid, will cause increased pity toward the sick people of her house,— let us rather say, of the house of God. If the Savages are [29] capable of astonishment, they will experience it here; for among them no heed is paid to the sick, especially if they are considered sick unto death; they are looked upon as beings of another world, with whom is held no intercourse, no conversation. Now, when they witness the tender care and attention that is given to their Countrymen, it causes them to entertain a high esteem for the person for whose sake this great help is given them, who is JESUS CHRIST, our Savior.

But, if it please you, let us consider what designs Madame d'Aiguillon had in founding this institution. Observe how she speaks of it in the letter that she wrote to the Mother Superior of the Hospital Sisters who have come hither: "My good Mother, I give praise to God for the resolution you have taken to go over to New France, for which I am deeply obliged to you and to the two good sisters who accompany you. I also greatly rejoice that Our Lord has chosen you for this, as I have a very special esteem for your merit. I hope that this will compensate for all failings on my part and that God, in his kindness, will be more regardful of your virtues [30] than of my imperfections. I wish to tell you of the object that I have had in founding this institution. It is to dedicate this Hospital to the Blood of the Son of God, that was shed in order that mercy might be granted to all men—and to ask him to apply it to our Souls, and to those of these poor barbarous people. I inform you of my intentions so that you may offer them que vous faciez mettre sur la porte: Hospital dédié au Sang du Fils de Dieu, répandu pour faire misericorde à tous les hommes. Si on ne trouue pas à propos que ceste Inscription soit sur la porté, ie desire que toutes les Religieuses sçachent que c'est-là mon intention dans la fondation, & qu'elles s'employent au seruice des pauures avec ceste intention. Ie desire de plus, que le Prestre qui dira tous les iours la Messe ait pareille intention. I'ay bien du regret de ne vous pouuoir embrasser & vos bonnes Sœurs qui passent avec vous, & vous prier moy mesme de demander à nostre Seigneur qu'il me face misericorde. Ce m'a esté vne grāde consolation de voir ces bonnes Vrfullines qui vont aussi à Kebee avec Madame de la Pelterie, on m'a [31] promis que vous ferez toutes en mesme va[i]sseau. (Et plus bas) Asseurez-vous, ma Mere, que ie vous feruiray en vostre particulier avec beaucoup de passion, & vostre maifon nouuelle, & que ie feray toute ma vie,

Ma bonne Mere,

Vostre tres affectionnée à vous
faire seruice,

Dv PONT.

EN MARGE SONT ESCRITES CES PAROLES.

Ma bonne Mere, obligez moy de prendre soin de faire demander aux Sauuages que vous assisterez à la mort, le salut de Monseigneur le Cardinal, celuy de quelques personnes à qui i'ay de particulières obligations, & le mien, & que toutes vos Reli[gi]euses me facent la mesme charité.

De Paris, ce 10 d'Auril 1639.

to our Lord, and that, in effecting the foundation, you may dedicate it accordingly, and place on its door: ‘ Hospital dedicated to the Blood of the Son of God, shed in order that mercy might be granted to all men.’ If it be not deemed advisable that this Inscription be placed upon the door, I desire that all the Nuns should know that such is my purpose in the foundation, and that they devote themselves to the service of the poor with that object. I further desire that the Priest who says Mass every day shall have the same intention. I regret exceedingly that I cannot embrace you, and your good Sisters who are going with you, and in person entreat you to pray Our Lord to have mercy on me. It was a great consolation to me to see those good Ursulines who are also going to Kebec with Madame de la Pelterie. I was [31] promised that you would all be in the same ship.” (And lower down) “ Rest assured, my Mother, that I shall serve you personally, and your new house, with eager affection, and that I shall remain all my life,

My good Mother,

Yours, most delighted to render you service,

DU PONT.”

IN THE MARGIN, THE FOLLOWING WORDS ARE WRITTEN:

“ My good Mother, oblige me by taking care to ask the Savages whom you shall attend at the hour of death, for the salvation of Monseigneur the Cardinal, for that of some persons towards whom I have special obligations, and for mine; and that all your Nuns do the same act of charity for me.

Paris, the 10th of April, 1639.”

[32] Les Lettres dont il luy a pleu m'honorer font remplies de semblables affections, ie n'ay que ces deux mots à luy dire pour Responce.

Madame, que toute la France vous honore pour cette belle Couronne Ducale qui enuironne vostre Chef: ie vous affeure que tous les diamants qui l'embellissent ne frappent ny mon cœur, ny mes yeux; leur esclat est trop foible pour trauerfer la grādeur de l'Ocean, mais ie vous confesse que vostre cœur qui honore puissamment le Sang de IESVS-CHRIST me touche au vif, vous allez à la source de la vie, & personne ne peut aimer IESVS, qu'il n'aime ceux qui cherissent & qui honorent son Sang. Saincte Terefe ayant rendu quelque seruice a Nostre Seigneur, ce bon Prince luy dit ces belles paroles couchées à la fin du liure de sa vie: Ma fille, ie veux que mon Sang te profite, & que tu n'aye point de peur que ma misericorde te manque, ie l'ay respandu avec beaucoup de douleurs, & tu en ioüis avec de grandes delices comme tu vois. Ce font, Madame les paroles que ie souhaitte, que ce Roy des cœurs addresse à vostre cœur; feroit-il bien possible qu'une Ame qui honore [33] si amoureusement le Sang de IESVS-CHRIST, n'en ressentist point les effects. O! mon Seigneur, ne le permettez pas Amen, Amen.

Ceste grande Dame est desia payée de ses aumosnes dés l'heure que i'escris cecy, plusieurs Sauuages ont desia prié pour elle dans son Hosptial, plusieurs y sont desia morts, le premier auoit vescu comme vn Sainct depuis son Baptefme, il y est mort comme vn Sainct. Ce bon homme regardoit la vie cōme vne prifon, & la mort comme vn paſſage à la vraye liberté. La parole luy manqua par vne grande oppression de [32] The Letters with which she has been pleased to honor me are full of similar affectionate wishes. I have but these few words to say to her in Answer:

"Madame, all France honors you for that noble Ducal Coronet that encircles your Brow. I assure you that all the diamonds which embellish it have no effect on either my heart or my eyes; their lustre is too weak to shine across the vast extent of the Ocean. But I confess that your heart, which so deeply honors the Blood of JESUS CHRIST, touches me to the quick. You go to the source of life, and no one can love JESUS without loving those who cherish and honor his Blood. Saint Theresa having rendered some service unto Our Lord, that good Prince said these beautiful words to her, which are inscribed at the end of the book containing her life: 'My daughter, I desire that my Blood may benefit thee and that thou mayst have no fear that my mercy will fail thee. I have shed it with much suffering, and thou enjoyest it with much pleasure, as thou seest.' Such, Madame, are the words I should wish the King of souls to say to your soul. Could it be possible that a Soul which so lovingly honors [33] the Blood of JESUS CHRIST, should not feel the effects of it? O, my Lord, permit it not! Amen, Amen."

This excellent Lady is already repaid for her alms, at the very moment that I write these lines. Many Savages have already prayed for her in her Hospital; several have already died there. The first one had lived like a Saint, since his Baptism; he died there like a Saint. This good man looked upon life as a prison, and upon death as a transition to true liberty. His utterance failed him, owing to a great oppression on his chest,—at least, we could hardly la poictrine, du moins on ne l'entendoit quasi plus: mais quand on luy eut recommandé de prier pour ceux qui le secouroient si charitablement, s'efforça si bien, qu'il pria tout haut pour Môseigneur le Cardinal, & pour Madame la Duchesse d'Aiguillon, la mort luy couppa la parole du corps, mais ne pût arrester la priere de l'ame qu'il alla continuer dedâs les Cieux. Ie voulois faire porter son corps à Sillery comme vn pretieux deposit, & comme vne Relique, mais les vents & la marée me contraignirent de le laisser à Kebec. Voicy vn [34] mot de Lettre du P. de Quen, qui fait voir le bien qu'on fait à l'Hôpital.

BARNABÉ Mistikomā s'en retourne à Sillery, fain du corps & de l'ame, cōme ie croy, il s'est confessé & communié le matin en action de grace de santé, cela est venu de luy mesme. Nous enterrâmes hier lvn des deux Algonquins que ie baptisay auant hier, c'est celuy qui auoit vne playe en la poictrine, son compagnon se porte vn peu mieux qu'à l'ordinaire. Marie femme de Noël Negabamat penfa mourir hier au foir d'vne grosse colique, & d'vne forte fièvre qui la trauaille encor, ie l'ay confessé ce matin en intention de la communier, mais la faignée l'en a empesché; Noël son mary se porte mieux, il s'est confessé & communié, ie croy qu'il vous retournera voir dans peu de iours. Estienne Pygaroüich voulant aller à la chasse aux Castors vous a esté chercher iusques à Sillery pour se confesser, ne vous ayant point trouué, il m'est venu voir, ie l'ay confesse avec vne grande satisfaction & contentement de mon ame. Les autres malades vont à l'ordinaire, souuenez-vous à l'Autel de celuy [35] qui vous est, &c. Ne diroithear him; but when he was requested to pray for those who so charitably succored him, he made such an effort that he prayed aloud for Monseigneur the Cardinal and for Madame the Duchess d'Aiguillon. Death cut short his physical speech, but could not stop the prayer of his soul, which he went to continue in Heaven. I wished to have his body taken to Sillery, as a precious deposit and as a Relic; but the winds and tide compelled me to leave it at Kebec. Here is [34] part of a Letter from Father de Quen, which shows the good done at the Hospital:

“BARNABÉ Mistikoman returns to Sillery, sound in body and soul, as I believe. He, of his own accord, made his confession and received communion this morning, in thanksgiving for the restoration of his health. Yesterday, we buried one of the two Algonquins whom I baptized the day before,—the one who had a wound in his breast; his companion is doing a little better than usual. Marie, wife of Noël Negabamat, nearly died last night of a severe attack of colic and a high fever which still troubles her. I heard her confession this morning, with the intention of giving her the communion, but the bleeding administered to her prevented it. Noël, her husband, is better; he has made confession, and received communion; I think he will return to see you in a few days. Estienne Pygarouich, wishing to go Beaver hunting, went as far as Sillery, seeking you to hear his confession; but, not finding you there, he came to me. I heard his confession with great satisfaction and content in my soul. The other sick persons are doing as usual. When at the Altar, remember him [35] who is yours,” etc. Would not on pas que cét Hosptial qui ne fait que de naistre est dreffé depuis cent ans dans le cœur de la Chrestienté. Si la France voyoit la ioye, la modestie, & la charité des bonnes Religieuses qui le gouuernēt dans vne parfaicte closture & regularité, les Dames accourent à leur fecours: c'est l'exercice des Emperieres & des Reines de fecourir les pauures de IESVS-CHRIST. Or il faut que ie dise en passant que voicy quatre grands ouurages liez par ensemble d'un mesme nœud; l'arrest des Sauuages, l'Hosptial, le Seminaire de petits garçons, & le seminaire des petites filles Sauuages. Ces trois derniers dépendent du premier. Faites que ces barbares soient tousiours vagabonds, leurs malades mourront dedans les bois, & leurs enfans n'entreront iamais au seminaire; rendez les fedentaires, vous peuplez ces trois maifons qui ont toutes befoin d'estre puiffamment fecouruës.

MESSIEVRS de la Compagnie de la Nouuelle Frâce, pour inciter les Sauuages à s'arrester, ont accordé mesme faueur en leur magazin aux Chrestiens fedentaires, qu'aux François; ils ont encore [36] ordonné qu'on donneroit quelques terres défrichées aux ieunes filles qui se mariroient; de plus ils ont destinié tous les ans vne somme d'argent pour faire quelques presens aux Hurons Chrestiens qui viendront se fournir de marchandises en leurs magazins. Veritablement ces actions sont loüables, & dignes d'estre honorées des hommes & des Anges.

Vn autre a bien fecouru le seminaire des petits garçons, & ceste année il s'est trouué vne personne qui faisant vne aumosne de cent escus, la fait employer en étoffes, & en quelques viures, qui semblent one say that this Hospital, which is but newly founded, had been erected for a hundred years in the heart of Christianity? If France but saw the joy, the modesty, and the charity of the good Nuns who manage it, in perfect seclusion and order, the Ladies would hasten to their assistance. To succor the poor of JESUS CHRIST is the service of Empresses and Queens. Now, I must state, in passing, that here are four great works bound together by a single tie—the settlement of the Savages, the Hospital, the Seminary for little Savage boys, and the seminary for little Savage girls. These last three depend upon the first. Let these barbarians remain always nomads,—then their sick will die in the woods, and their children will never enter the seminary. Render them sedentary, and you will fill these three institutions, which all need to be vigorously aided.

THE Gentlemen of the Company of New France, in order to induce the Savages to settle, have granted the same favor in their store to the sedentary Christians as to the French. They have also [36] ordered that some cleared land be given to the young girls who marry; they have, moreover, set apart every year a sum of money to make presents to the Christian Hurons who come to supply themselves with goods at their stores. Verily, these are praiseworthy actions, deserving to be honored by men and by Angels.

Another has greatly helped the seminary for little boys; and, this year, a person, giving an alms of a hundred écus, spends this sum in purchasing cloth and food, which seem to have been sent this year by a most special providence of God.

auoir esté enuoyez ceste année par vne tres particuliere prouidence de Dieu.

Vne personne de merite & de pieté a fait donner cent escus pour le mariage d'vne ieune fille Sauuage recherchée d'vn ieune homme François d'vn fort bon naturel.

Meffieurs de la Congregation de Nostre Dame erigée à Paris donnent tous les ans pour la nourriture d'vn Sauuage. Ainsi Dieu va tousiours disposant quelque ame d'élite pour cooperer à son ouu[r]age.

Ie ne dis rien de la mission des Hurons & des autres peuples fedētaires où la moiffon [37] est plus abōdante: Toutes choses viendront en leur temps; ny le seminaire des filles, ny des garçons, ny l'Hospital, ny l'arrest des Sauuages, ny les missions és nations plus esloignez, ne manqueront point d'affistance. Bien-heureux ceux desquels le Dieu du Ciel se voudra feruir pour ces grands ouurages, soit y employāt leurs personnes, soit y contribuant de leurs biens, ou procurant que d'autres y contribuent.

A worthy and pious person has given a hundred écus for the wedding of a young Savage girl sought in marriage by a young Frenchman of very good character.

The Gentlemen of the Congregation of Nostre Dame, founded in Paris, give a sum every year for the support of a Savage. Thus, God ever induces some chosen soul to coöperate with his work.

I say nothing concerning the mission of the Hurons and other sedentary nations, where the harvest [37] is more abundant. All things will come in their time. Neither the seminary for girls, nor that for boys, nor the Hospital, nor the settlement of the Savages, nor the missions to more distant nations, will fail to receive assistance. Happy those whom the God of Heaven shall choose to make his instruments for these grand works,—whether employed therein personally, or by contributing their wealth, or by inducing others to contribute.

CHAPITRE III.

DES BONNES DISPOSITIONS DES SAUAGES POUR LA FOY.

TOVT ce que nous difmes l'an pafé des benedictions que Dieu donne à ceste nouuelle Eglife, s'est augmenté sensiblement depuis ce temps-la malgré toutes les oppositions & tous les obstacles des Demons, & de leurs fuppôts. Nous auons baptisé plus de Sauages que les années precedentes. Les familles Sedentaires ont perfeueré dans l'exercice du Christianisme, [38] & en ont disposé d'autre à les imiter: Les prières fe font publiquement par tout. Les chants & les Tambours des forciers ou des jongleurs perdent leur credit. Le Nom de IESVS-CHRIST fe va respandant comme vn baume odoriférant, qui fe fait sentir bien loing dans ces vastes contrées. Le bruit de nostre creance, & le secours qu'on a commencé de donner à ceux qui fe font arrestez, a fait descendre iusques aux trois Riuieres plus de huict cens Algonquins, lesquels ont témoigné qu'ils ne s'approchoient de nous que pour entrer dans la connoissance du vray Dieu, si bien que ie puis dire que nous auons veu des Sauages de plus de dix sortes de Nations fléchir le genouïl devant IESVS-CHRIST, prestans l'oreille à vn langage qu'ils n'auoient iamais entendu: Ie ne dy pas qu'ils foient tous conuertis, mais du moins ont-ils commencé à rendre quelque hommage à leur Dieu, assistans aux prières que leurs

OF THE FAVORABLE DISPOSITIONS OF THE SAVAGES
TOWARDS THE FAITH.

ALL that we said last year of the blessings which God grants to this new Church, has been perceptibly increased since that time, in spite of all the opposition and obstacles of the Demons and of their tools. We have baptized more Savages than in previous years. The Sedentary families have persevered in the practice of Christianity, [38] and have inclined others to imitate them. Prayers are publicly said everywhere. The chants and Drums of the sorcerers or jugglers are losing their influence. The Name of JESUS CHRIST is spreading like a fragrant balm, making itself felt far away in these vast countries. The rumor of our faith and the assistance that we have commenced to give to those who have become settled, have induced over eight hundred Algonquins to come down as far as the three Rivers,—who have declared that they approached us merely for the purpose of acquiring knowledge of the true God. So indeed I may say that we have seen Savages of more than ten different Nations bend the knee before JESUS CHRIST, lending ear to a language they had never heard. I do not say that they are all converted, but, at least, they have commenced to render some homage to their God, being present at the prayers which their Countrymen or allies offer up into his hand. Now, that we may observe some Compatriotes ou alliez luy presentēt en sa main. Or afin de garder quelque ordre, voyons premierement les obstacles que nous auōs eu en l'instruction des vns & des autres, & puis nous verrons le bien que Dieu en a tiré.

[39] Il ne faut pas penfer que le Diable se rende, ny ses fortresses, sans combat. Quoy que les Sauuages témoignent qu'ils desirerent estre instruits, ils n'ont pas tous vn mesme sentiment, ny la volonté également bonne. Les meilleurs d'entre eux sont preuenus dés le berceau de beaucoup d'erreurs, qui ne se déracinent que petit à petit, à proportion que la lumiere & la grace entrent dans leurs ames. Comme ils ont esté affligez depuis quelques années de grandes maladies, & qu'ils s'imaginent quasi tous qu'ils ne meurent que par des fortileges. Deux étourdis d'entre eux voyans que tout le monde preftoit l'oreille à nostre creance, s'opposerent à nous, crians que les prières les faisoit mourir. Lvn deux vfa de menace enuers les Peres qui appelloient les Sauuages pour estre instruits en la Chappelle. Depuis, disoient-ils, que nous prions, nous voyons par experience que la mort nous enleue par tout; d'autres adioustoient que les François estoient vindicatifs au dernier point, & qu'on nous auoit mandé de France que nous tirassions vengeance par vne mort generale de tous les pays de quelques François qui ont esté tuez par les [40] Sauuage il y a desia quelques années.

Vn certain forcier, ou plustost charlatan, homme de quelque credit parmy eux, voulut prouuer par nostre doctrine que nous leur causions la mort: Les François enseignent, disoit-il, que la premiere femme qui fut iamais a introduit la mort dedans le monde, order, let us consider, in the first place, the obstacles that we have met in the instruction of both classes, and then we shall see the benefit that God has caused to be derived therefrom.

[39] It must not be imagined that the Devil surrenders, either himself or his fortresses, without a struggle. Although the Savages declare that they wish to be instructed, they are not all animated by the same spirit, nor are they all equally willing. The best of them are imbued from the cradle with many errors, which are eradicated only little by little, in proportion as light and grace enter into their souls. As they have been afflicted for several years with serious diseases and as nearly all imagine that their deaths are due solely to witchcraft, two headstrong fellows among them—seeing that every one listened attentively to our explanation of our belief—undertook to oppose us, publicly declaring that the prayers caused death among them. One of these used threats against the Fathers who called upon the Savages to receive instruction in the Chapel. “Since we pray,” said they, “we see by experience that death carries us off everywhere.” Others added that the French were vindictive to the last degree, and that we had received orders from France to take revenge—through a general mortality among all the people of the country—for some Frenchmen who were killed by the [40] Savages several years ago.

A certain sorcerer, or rather charlatan, a man of some standing among them, sought to prove by our doctrine that we caused their death. “The French teach,” said he, “that the first woman who ever lived brought death into the world; what they say is true,—the women of their land are capable of such ce qu'ils disent est vray, les femmes de leur païs font capables de ceste malice, & c'est pour cela qu'ils les font passer en ces contrées pour nous faire perdre la vie à tous tant que nous sommes, si le peu qu'ils ont desia fait venir a tant tué de monde; celles qu'on attend perdront tout le reste, (le Diable fentoit desia la venuë des Hospitalieres & des Vrsulines.) Tous ces mauuais bruits retardēt grandement la gloire de Nostre Seigneur, & le falut de ces pauures peuples, ç'a tousiours esté le dessein du malin esprit de décrier tant qu'il a pû ceux qui s'efforcent de tirer les ames des tenebres & du peché. La guerre qui est furue-nuë lors que ces bruits sembloient assoupis, & la défaite des Algonquins, a puissamment diuerty les esprits des bonnes pensées que Dieu leur donnoit; neantmoins comme pas vn de ceux qui sont baptisez n'a esté pris ou tué [41] dans le combat, ceste bénédiction en a confirmé plusieurs dans leur bonne volonté.

Bref, le peché ou l'accoûtumance au vice est vne chaisne tres-difficile à rompre. Nous [en] entendons tous les iours qui nous disent que nostre doctrine est bonne, mais que la pratique en est fascheuse. Les vns ont deux femmes qu'ils ayment, ou qu'ils leur font vtiles pour leur ménage; les autres font en credit par quelque superstition, qu'il faudroit quitter s'ils se faisoient baptizer. Les ieunes gens ne pensent pas pouuoir perfeuerer dans le mariage avec vne mauuaise femme, ou avec vn mauuaise mary; ils veulent estre libres, & se pouuoir repudier s'ils ne s'entr'ayment. Voila les principaux empêchemens exterieurs que nous auons eu dans l'exercice de nos fonctions; Voyons maintenant comme les forces des wickedness, and that is why they bring them into these countries—to make us all lose our lives. If the few they have already brought here have killed so many, those whom they expect will destroy all that remain." (The Devil was already affected by the coming of the Hospital Sisters and the Ursulines.) All these evil reports greatly retard the glory of Our Lord, and the salvation of these unfortunate peoples. It has ever been the object of the evil spirit to decry, to the best of his power, those who endeavor to extricate souls from darkness and from sin. The war that suddenly occurred when these rumors seemed quieted, and the defeat of the Algonquins, have greatly diverted their minds from the good thoughts that God had bestowed upon them; nevertheless, as not one of those who were baptized was taken or killed [41] in the fight, this blessing has confirmed many of them in their good intentions.

In a word, sin or the habit of vice is a chain, very difficult to break. Every day we hear some who tell us that our doctrine is good, but that its practice is difficult. Some have two wives whom they love, or who are useful to them in their housekeeping; others are held in estimation on account of certain superstitions which they would have to abandon if they were baptized. The young people do not think that they can persevere in the state of matrimony with a bad wife or a bad husband; they wish to be free and to be able to divorce the consort if they do not love each other. Such are the chief outward impediments we have encountered in the performance of our duties. Let us now see how the forces of the Demons are but as straws, and, like thorns, do not prevent the budding of the roses.

Demons ne font que des pailles, & comme les épines n'empeschent pas la naissance des roses.

Premierement, tous les Sauuages qui ont esté instruits, excepté fort peu, ont vne grande opinion de nostre creance: ils cr[o]yent qu'estre Chrestien, & ennemy des vices, c'est la même chose: C'est pourquoy [42] quand on leur demande s'ils n'ont point commis quelque mal, ils répondent: ie prie Dieu, & par consequent ie ne commets point ces actions: s'ils voyent quelque vice en vn François, ils disent fort bien, qu'il ne croit pas, & qu'il descendra dans les Enfers.

Ils viennent aux prières publiques, apportent leurs enfans pour estre baptisez, demandent ce Sacrement avec affection; i'entends ceux qu'on enseigne plus particulieremēt; Bref on cognoist déjà par leur déportemēs que la Foy opere dedans leurs ames. Quand ces Algonquins arriuerent aux trois Riuieres au nombre de plus de cent canots, ils estoient extrememēt superbes & arrogans, notamment ceux de l'Isle. Ayans oüy la doctrine de IESVS-CHRIST, on les a veu tellement changez, que nos François mesme s'en estonnoient.

Vn certain de la petite Nation des Algonquins ayant assisté aux prières, & oüy chanter les Letanies des attributs de Dieu, s'imprima cela si biē dans l'esprit, qu'il les demanda par escrit; ce que luy estant accordé, il faisoit grand estat du papier qui les contenoit: arriue que ce bon homme retournant en son pays fit naufrage, toutes [43] ses marchandises furent perduës, luy & ses gens eurent la vie sauve; ce qui l'atristoit le plus, à ce qu'il dit par apres, estoit la perte de son papier, si bien qu'encor qu'il fut grandement éloigné de celuy qui luy auoit donné, il pensa retour-

In the first place, the Savages who have received instruction have, with very few exceptions, a very high opinion of our belief; they think that to be a Christian and a foe to vice is one and the same thing. Therefore [42] when they are asked whether they have not done something wrong, they answer: "I pray to God, and consequently I do not commit those actions." If they notice any vice in a Frenchman, they very properly say that he does not believe, and that he will descend into Hell.

They attend the public prayers, bring their children to be baptized; ask for that Sacrament with affection—I mean those who are more thoroughly instructed. In short, we know already by their conduct that the Faith is working in their souls. When these Algonquins arrived at the three Rivers—to the number of over one hundred canoes full—they were very haughty and arrogant, notably those from the Island. Having heard the doctrine of JESUS CHRIST, they were seen to be so changed that even our Frenchmen were astonished.

One of the petite Nation of the Algonquins,—having been present at the prayers, and heard the singing of the Litanies of the attributes of God—impressed these so fully on his mind that he asked for them in writing. When this was granted to him, he highly valued the paper containing them. It came to pass that, this good man, in returning to his own country, was wrecked; all [43] his goods were lost, but he and his people saved their lives. What caused him the most sorrow, as he told us afterward, was the loss of his paper,—so much that, although he was far distant from him who had given it to him, he decided to retrace his steps, to ask him for ner sur ses brizées pour luy en demander vn autre; mais il fut bien estonné quand il vit ce papier tout fain & entier entre les varangues de son canot réchappé du danger; il admiroit cela comme vn prodige, & le racontoit comme vn miracle à ses gens. Estant de retour en son pays, il assembloit tous les iours ses voisins dans vne grande cabane, pendoit ce papier à vne perche, & tous se mettans à l'entour, chantoient ce qu'ils sçauoient de ces Litanies, s'escrians tous à Dieu Chaserindama8inan ayez pitié de nous: Dieu prit plaisir à leur demande; car la maladie qui les affligeoit cessa entierement. Ce pauure homme reuenant voir nos Peres rapporta ce papier, & puis se retirant l'hyuer dans les bois pour faire sa prouision d'Elan, en demanda vn autre qu'il respectoit en la mesme façon; & comme il ne sçauoit pas encor par cœur les prières qu'il faut presenter à Dieu, il luy offroi[t] ce papier, & luy disoit avec tous ses gens [44] si nous sçauions ce qui est dans ce papier, nous te le dirions tous; mais puisque nous sommes ignorance, contente toy de nos coeurs, & nous faits misericorde, toy qui est nostre grand Capitaine. Estant par apres de retour vers nos Peres, il leur dit que rien ne luy auoit manqué, & que Dieu l'auoit mis dans l'abondance.

Le Sorcier mesme, dont i'ay parlé cy-deffus, lequel au commencement crioit contre la venuë des femmes Françoises, voyât sa petite fille malade, n'eut point de recours à son art, mais au Baptefme, qu'il procura à son enfant; & la santé du corps luy estât renduë avec la faincteté de l'ame, ce charlatan ne cessoit de nous preconiser, & nostre doctrine; mais il faisoit comme les cloches qui appellent le monde à l'Eglise, & n'y entrent iamais.

another one. But he was greatly astonished when he saw the paper, quite sound and whole, under the ribs of his canoe, recovered from the danger. He wondered at this as a prodigy, and related it to his people as a miracle. Having returned to his own country, he assembled his neighbors every day in a large cabin, hung this paper to a pole, and all stood around it, singing what they knew of these Litanies, all crying out to God: "Chawerindamawinan, have pity on us." God took pleasure in their entreaty, for the disease that afflicted them entirely disappeared. When this poor man came back to see our Fathers, he brought the paper with him; and, as he had to spend the winter in the woods to procure his supply of Elk meat, he asked for another, which he regarded with the same veneration. As he did not yet know by heart the prayers to be offered to God, he offered him the paper, saying, with all his people: [44] "If we knew what is in this paper, we would all say it to thee; but since we are ignorant, be content with our hearts and have pity on us, thou who art our great Captain." Afterward, when he came back to our Fathers, he told them that nothing had failed him, and that God had given him abundance.

Even the Sorcerer,—whom I mentioned above, and who, at the beginning, exclaimed against the coming of the French women,—when his little girl became ill, did not have recourse to his art, but to Baptism, which he obtained for his child; and, bodily health having returned with the holiness of the soul, this charlatan ceased not to extol us and our doctrine. But he acted like the bells that call the faithful to the Church, and never enter it themselves.

One incident in connection with the arrival of these Vne chose nous attrista à la venuë de ces Algonquins: Vn Capitaine Nipicirinien venant aussi pour se faire instruire, tomba si fort malade à la riuiere des Prairies, enuiron trête lieuës au dessus des trois Riuieres, qu'il en mourut: devant que de rendre l'ame, il dit à ses gens; Vous direz aux François que ie les allois voir pour apprendre le chemin du Ciel, ie suis bien marry que ie [45] ne puis mourir aupres d'eux, ie me suis presé tant que i'ay pû, mais la maladie ne me permet pas de passer outre, pour vous ne laissez pas de continuer vostre dessein apres ma mort.

Vn autre Algonquin entendant parler de Dieu, s'écria: Voila ce que ie desirois entendre il y a long-temps, & venant trouuer le Pere, il le pria de l'instruire plus particulieremēt, & pour ce faire, il venoit tous les iours à nostre maison. A peine auoit-il commencé cet exercice, que son fils tōba fort malade, cela ne l'étonne point; il luy pend au col vn chapelet, & venant voir le Pere qui l'instruifloit, luy dit: Ie n'ay rien de si cher au monde que mes deux enfans, voila desia mon fils malade, & en danger de mort, quand luy & sa sœur mouroient, ie ne quitteray point la resolution que i'ay prise de prier Dieu, ie fçay bien qu'il est le Maistre de nos vies; Ma femme & mes enfans, & moy, adioustoit-il, estans tous ensemble tombez dans vne grande maladie, il me vint vne pensée qu'il failloit qu'il y eut quelqu'vn au monde qui eut soin des hommes, ie l'inuoquay sans fçauoir son nom, il nous guerit tous, quoy que nous ne le cognussions pas, maintenant que nous [46] commençons à le cognoistre, il ne nous abandonnera pas; en effect son fils guerit bien tost apres, & il fut baptisé avec sa petite sœur, & leur grande mere. Ce pauure Algonquins caused us sorrow. A Nipicirinien Captain who was also coming to receive instruction, fell so ill at the river des Prairies, about thirty leagues above the three Rivers, that he died. Before giving up his soul, he said to his people: "Tell the French that I was going to see them to learn the road to Heaven. I am much grieved that I [45] cannot die near them; I have hurried on as fast as I could, but illness does not allow of my going any further; as for you, do not fail to carry out your design after my death."

Another Algonquin, on hearing God spoken of, exclaimed: "This is what I have long wished to hear;" and, seeking the Father, he begged him for more special instruction, and, for that purpose, he came every day to our house. Hardly had he begun this practice, when his son fell dangerously ill. This did not startle him; he hung a rosary about the boy's neck, and going to the Father who was instructing him, he said: "I have nothing so dear in the world as my two children; here is my son very sick, and in danger of death; even if he and his sister were to die, I would not abandon the resolution I have taken to pray to God. I know well that he is the Master of our lives. My wife, my children, and myself," added he, "having all fallen seriously ill together, it occurred to me that there must be some one in the world who had a care for men. I prayed to him without knowing his name; he cured all of us, although we knew him not. Now that we [46] are beginning to know him, he will not abandon us." In fact, his son was cured soon afterward, and was baptized with his little sister and their grandmother. This poor man, seeing that he would have to go homme voyant qu'il falloit partir fans Baptesme, la faim les pressât à cause qu'on ne leur pouuoit vendre de viures au magazin, disoit au Pere qui les auoit instruit, pourquoi me refusez vous le biè que vous auez accordé à mes enfans & à ma mere? Toutes chofes ont leur tēps, il ne se faut pas precipiter en chofes de telle importance. C'est vne coûtume parmy ces peuples de faire festin à tout manger pour la guerison des malades: Or pour détourner petit à petit ceste superstition, vn de nos Peres ayât préché contre ces festins, dit publiquemēt que Dieu les haïffoit, mais qu'il se plairoit aux œuures de charité, & par consequent qu'il falloit donner aux pauures veufues & orphelins ce qu'on donnoit aux jongleurs & aux charlatans. Vn vieillard fe souuenāt de cét enseignement, & voyant sa fille malade, dit à son gendre qu'il s'en allast à la chasse, & qu'il demandast vn orignac à Dieu pour donner à manger aux pauures, son gēdre obeit, tua ce grād animal; le bon vieillard fit son aumosne, & sa fille guerit.

[47] Vne bande de Sauuages nous quittant pēdant l'Automne pour aller hyuerner dedans les bois, nous racontoit au Printemps comme Dieu les auoit fecouru. Nous le prions tous les iours, disoient-ils, fans y manquer, si tost qu'on auoit tué quelque animal, on l'en remercioit sur la place même, comme celuy qui nous l'auoit donné; en effect il nous sembloit que nous tirions nostre nourriture comme d'vne dépence piece apres piece: par exemple, ayans trouué vn Ours, nous estiōs quelque temps fans rien rencontrer, l'Ours estant mangé, nous disions à Dieu, nous n'aurons plus rien, donne-nous nostre nourriture, tu es nostre Pere; aussi-tost nous trouuions dequoy viure, &

away without Baptism — they were pressed by hunger, because provisions could not be sold to them at the store — said to the Father who had taught him : “ Why do you refuse me the gift that you gave my children and my mother ? ” All things have their time ; one ought not to be hasty in matters of such importance. It is a custom among these peoples to give for the cure of the sick, a feast at which all must be eaten. Now, to do away gradually with this superstition, one of our Fathers, preaching against these feasts, stated publicly that God abhorred them ; but that he was pleased with charitable works, and, consequently, that what was given to jugglers and charlatans should be given to poor widows and orphans. An old man, remembering this precept, and seeing his daughter ill, told his son-in-law to go out hunting and to ask God for a moose, so that he might give food to the poor. The son-in-law obeyed, and killed the great animal ; the good old man bestowed his alms, and his daughter was cured.

[47] A band of Savages, who left us in the Autumn to winter in the woods, told us in the Spring how God had helped them. “ We prayed to him every day,” they said, “ without fail. As soon as we killed an animal, we returned thanks to him on the spot, as the being who had given it to us ; in fact, it seemed to us as if we were taking our food from a store-house, one piece after the other. For instance, having found a Bear, we remained some time without finding anything ; the Bear being eaten, we said to God : ‘ We have nothing left ; give us our food ; thou art our Father.’ Immediately we found something to live on ; and God kept us for a long time like that,—so that we were astonished, and said that if Dieu nous a tenu fort long-temps comme cela, de sorte que nous nous en étonnions, & disions que quād il n'y auroit plus rien dans nos facs que Dieu en feroit venir. Si quelqu'vn de nous faisoit quelque mal, aussi-tost les autres luy disoient; Fay ce que tu voudras, mais il faut que les Peres fçachent tout ce que nous faifons. De faiët quand ils furent arriuez, ils nous declarerent sans le demander tout le bien & le mal qu'ils auoient fait, se confessans tout haut devant que d'estre baptizez.

[48] I'ay fait mention cy-deffus des mauuais bruits & de la guerre qui retardoient le cours de l'Euangile. Monsieur nostre Gouverneur mōtant aux trois Riuieres avec vne barque, & quelques chaloupes bien armées, leua ces obstacles; car encor biē que la contrariété des vents, & la precipitation des Sauuages luy eussent osté l'occasion de deffaire leurs ennemis qu'il alloit trouuer, neantmoins voyans la bōne volonté qu'vn homme d'vn tel merite auoit pour eux, ils se r'assemblerēt, & tindrent plusieurs conseils entr'eux, dans lesquels ils conclurent d'embrasser la foy Chrestienne, & de s'habituer aupres des François; en effect ils firent de bonnes & longues cabanes tout auprés de nostre habitatiō des trois Riuieres, nous dōnans vne belle occasion de les instruire. Les affaires de Dieu sont tousiours contrariées, tout procedoit heureusemēt, ils se rendoient assidus aux prières qu'on leur faisoit faire à la Chappelle, & à l'explication du Catechisme qu'on faisoit le matin aux femmes, & le foir aux hommes. Quand la famine les contraignit d'aller chercher leur vie, qui deça, qui delà dans les riuieres & dans les bois; le retardement des vaiffeaux fut cause de ce mal-heur. Ce [49] nous fut vne douleur there should be nothing left in our pouches, God would put something therein. If any of us did any evil thing, the others at once said to him: ‘ Do what thou wilt; but the Fathers must know all we do.’ ” In fact, when they arrived they told us, without our asking them, all the good and all the evil they had done, confessing their sins aloud before being baptized.

[48] I have mentioned above the evil reports and the war that delayed the course of the Gospel. Monsieur our Governor went up to the three Rivers with a bark and some shallopss, well armed, and removed these obstacles. For, although contrary winds and the precipitation of the Savages robbed him of the opportunity of defeating their enemies against whom he was proceeding — nevertheless, seeing the good will which a man of such merit had for them, they met and held several councils among themselves, at which they decided to embrace the Christian faith and to dwell near the French. In fact, they erected good and long cabins quite close to our settlement at the three Rivers, giving us a fine opportunity of teaching them. The affairs of God are always opposed. Everything was proceeding happily and they were assiduous in attending the prayers that they were made to recite in the Chapel, and the explanations of the Catechism,—given to the women in the morning, and to the men in the evening,—when famine compelled them to seek their living here and there, on the rivers and in the woods. The delay in the arrival of the ships was the cause of this misfortune. It [49] was a sore grief for us to see a large number of very well disposed persons depart from our vicinity, through inability to provide for bien sensible de voir partir d'aupres de nous bon nombre d'ames tres-bien disposées faute de pouuoir secourir leurs corps. Enfin les vaiffeaux ayans paru, apres auoir esté long-temps attendus, ces pauures oüailles égarées se r'assemblerēt petit à petit aupres de nous.

Comme ie finissois ce Chapitre, lvn des Peres de nostre Compagnie, qui sont aux trois Riuieres m'a r'écrit ce qui fuit.

LA perfecution recommence contre nous, la petite verolle, ou ie ne sçay quelle maladie semblable, s'estant iettée parmy les Sauuages, le Diable leur fait dire que c'est nous qui leur caufons ceste cōtagion; ils disent tout haut que le Pere le Ieune est infailliblement l'autheur de la mort de Mant8etehimat qui ne luy voulut pas obeir; ils disent encor qu'il a fait mourir sa femme. Ils font icy bon nombre de cabanes, & quelques vnes bien affligées, K8ik8iribab8g8ch me prefse de le baptizer auant que de partir d'icy, la crainte de mourir dans les bois luy fait desirer le Baptefme, luy donneray-ie? Tous les Sauuages qui font icy disent que c'est faict d'eux, & que pas vn ne verra le Printemps, [50] Vostre Reuerence fera-elle icy bien-tost? les meres Hospitalieres font-elles venües? le bruit court icy qu'elles font arriuées; si les malades des trois Riuieres demandent d'estre portez à Kebec, que leur diray-ie? Pourra on secourir ceux de là bas, & ceux d'icy haut tout ensemble? Vn petit mot de reponse, s'il vous plaist.

Voila vne Lettre bien bigarrée. Dvn costé on nous accuse de causer la mort, & de l'autre on nous demande le Sacrement de vie.

their bodily wants. Finally, when the ships made their appearance after having been long expected, these poor scattered sheep again gradually gathered around us.

As I was about to close this Chapter, one of the Fathers of our Society who is at the three Rivers, wrote me the following:

“ THE persecution against us is again commencing; the smallpox, or some other similar disease unknown to me, having broken out among the Savages, the Devil makes them say that we are the cause of this contagion. They openly assert that Father le Jeune is certainly the author of the death of Mantwetehimat, who would not obey him; they also say that he caused the death of this man’s wife. There are a good many cabins here, and some are greatly afflicted. Kwikiribabougouch presses me to baptize him before he leaves here; the dread of dying in the woods makes him desire Baptism. Shall I grant it to him? All the Savages who are here say that all is over with them, and that not one of them will see the Spring. [50] Will Your Reverence soon be here? Have the Hospital mothers arrived? It is reported here that they have come. If the sick at the three Rivers ask to be taken to Kebec, what shall I say to them? Can those who are there and those who are up here be cared for all together? A word in reply, if you please.”

This is, indeed, a variegated Letter. On the one hand, we are accused of causing death; and, on the other, we are asked for the Sacrament of life.

I may say, in passing, that this Mantwetchimat was a wicked Apostate, to whom—as he would not

Le diray en passant que ce Mant8etchîmat estoit vn meschant Apostat, lequel ne se voulant pas ranger à son deuoir, ie luy dy que s'il s'attaquoit à Dieu, il ne seroit pas long-temps impuny; il me promit qu'il descendroit avec moy à Kebec, car i'estois pour lors aux trois Riuieres, ie croy qu'il auoit quelque bône volonté, mais il ne tint pas sa parole; à peine estois-je party que luy & sa femme, qui estoit aussi baptisée, & qui ne valoit pas mieux que son mary, moururent; cela fit dire aux Sauuages que ie leur auois caufé la mort.

Il arriua quasi en mesme temps qu'un Sorcier ou Iongleur soufflant un malade sur les dix heures de nuit, pource qu'il ne l'osoit [51] faire de iour, ie l'entendy, i'y couru avec un de nos Peres, ie le tançay, & le fis cesser, le menaçant de la part de Dieu. Deuant qu'il fut iour, ce miserable fut frappé de la cōtagion ou petite verolle, qui le rendit fort horrible; cela estonna les Sauuages, & fit croire à quelques vns que nous souhaittions leur mort, & que Dieu obeïffoit à nos desirs; i'auois beau leur dire que Dieu se fascheroit contre nous, & nous puniroit si nous voulions mal à quelqu'un. Quand vous tuériez quelqu'un de nous, nous disoient-ils, dieu ne vous diroit rien car vous le priez soir & matin, & à tout heure; & nous autres nous ne le fçauons pas prier, voila pourquoi il nous laissera mourir.

Pour ce qui touche l'Hospital, ie respondy que nous auions assez de malades à Kebec, & qu'il falloit attendre qu'on fût mieux accommodé, & qu'on eut plus de forces pour secourir tant de pauures miferables. Au reste, toutes ces contradictions sont les vrays arguments de la conuersion de ces peuples, submit to his duty—I said that if he attacked God, he would not remain long unpunished. He promised that he would go down to Kebec with me, for I was then at the three Rivers. I think that he had some good will, but he did not keep his word. Hardly had I left than he and his wife—who was also baptized, and was not much better than her husband—both died. This made the Savages say that I had caused their death.

It happened, almost at the same time, that a Sorcerer or Juggler was breathing on a sick person, at about ten o'clock at night, because he dared not [51] do it in the daytime. I heard of it and, hastening there with one of our Fathers, I upbraided him and made him cease, threatening him in God's name. Before day broke, this miserable man was attacked by the contagion or smallpox, which rendered him horrible to look at. This astonished the Savages, and led some of them to think that we wished their death and that God granted our wish. In vain I told them that God would be angry with us and would punish us, if we wished evil to any one. "Even if you killed one of us," they said, "God would say nothing to you, for you pray to him morning and evening, and at all hours; and we do not know how to pray to him; that is why he will leave us to die."

As regards the Hospital, I replied that we had enough sick people at Kebec and that it would be necessary to wait till there were better accommodation and more adequate means for succoring so many poor unfortunates. However, all these vexations are true proofs of the conversion of these peoples; we are beginning to observe this truth so often, that they no longer cause us any fear. They are like the nous commençons à si bien remarquer ceste verité, qu'elles ne nous font plus trembler: elles ressemblent aux froidures & aux vents, qui font prendre [52] de bonnes racines aux bleds & aux arbres, lors qu'ils paroissent devoir tout rompre & tout perdre.

cold and the winds, which cause [52] wheat and trees to throw out strong roots, while appearing about to break and destroy everything.

CHAPT. IV.

DES CHRESTIENS OU SAUUVAGES BAPTISEZ EN GENERAL.

NOVS auons de deux sortes de Chrestiens en ces contrées; les vns ont esté baptisez en extremité de maladie avec vne instruction assez legere, mais suffisante pour receuoir ce Sacremēt en cét estat, les autres ont esté baptisez en pleine santé apres auoir esté bien instruits és principaux & plus necessaires articles de nostre creance: les vns & les autres montent iusques au nombre de quatre cent cinquante ou enuiron, comprenant les Hurons qui font bien la plus grāde partie. Or pour parler de ceux d'icy bas, ie diray en premier lieu que ie n'en fçay aucun de ceux qui ont esté baptisez en maladie, qui méprise aperte-mēt son Baptefme, il y en a bien deux ou trois qui se font mariez à des femmes Sauuages non [53] Chrestiennes, pource qu'ils n'en trouuent point de baptisées qui les vueillent épouser, on agit doucement avec eux, on les laisse venir aux prières, mais on ne les reçoit pas encor aux Sacrements: Lac potum vobis dedi, on leur donne du laict à boire comme à des enfans. L'experience nous apprend qu'il ne faut desesperer de personne.

Pour tous les autres, c'est vne benediction bien sensible de les voir assister aux prières & aux instructions qu'on leur fait; se trouuer à la Messe les Festes, & les Dimanches, & quelques-vns les iours ouuriers; venir à Vespres quand on les chante en nostre Chap-

CHAPTER IV.

OF THE CHRISTIANS OR BAPTIZED SAVAGES IN GENERAL.

WE have two kinds of Christians in these countries: some have been baptized when very ill, after rather slight instruction but sufficient to allow of their receiving that Sacrament in that condition; the others have been baptized in full health, after having been well instructed in the principal and most necessary articles of our creed. Altogether, they number four hundred and fifty or thereabout, including the Hurons, who constitute by far the majority. Now, to speak of those down here, I may say, in the first place, that I do not know a single one of those baptized when ill, who openly scorns his Baptism. There are two or three of them who have married Savage women who are not [53] Christians, because they were unable to find any baptized women willing to marry them. We deal leniently with them, allowing them to come to prayers, but we do not yet admit them to the Sacraments. Lac potum vobis dedi; we give them milk to drink, as unto babes. Experience teaches us that we should not despair of any one.

As for all the others, it is a blessing deeply felt to see them attending prayers and the instructions that we give them; present at Mass on Festivals and Sundays, and some on working days; coming to Vespers when they are sung in our Chapel at Sillery, in the residence of Saint Joseph; chanting the Pater and pelle de Sillery, en la résidence de Saint Ioseph, chanter le Pater, & le Credo, les Commandemens de Dieu, & quelques Hymnes composés en leur Langue, se confesser avec vne candeur admirable, se communier avec deuotion & respect, reciter tous les iours leurs Chappelets à l'honneur de la sainte Vierge. C'est vne consolation bien sensible de voir des Sauuages dans ces saintes exercices. Il y en a qui viennent demander à Nostre Seigneur sa sainte bénédiction dans la Chappelle, quand ils veulent [54] entreprendre quelque voyage; & au retour luy viennent aussi rendre graces de les auoir conserué. En vn mot, ie reïtere ce que i'ay dit cent fois, si nous auions moyen de secourir fortement les Sauuages & les arrêter, nous verrions vne grande bénédiction sur ces peuples beaucoup plus dociles aux chofes de la Foy, que nous n'eussions osé esperer, comme on verra des remarques que ie vay faire.

I'ay fceu de bonne part que quelques femmes impudentes s'approchans la nuit de quelques hommes, les ont follicitez à mal en secret, elles n'ont eu pour responce que ces parolles: Je croy en Dieu, ie le prie tous les iours; il defend ces actions, ie ne les fçaurois commettre.

On louë tant la responce de ceste feruante Chrestienne de l'Eglise de Lion, laquelle inuitée au peché par son maistre encor Payen, respondit; Christianæ ego sum, nihil sceleris admittunt Christiani: Je suis Chrestienne, les Chrestiens ne commettent point de crimes si enormes. I'ay appris que quelques ieunes femmes veufues Sauuages, & quelques filles follicitées & pressées de s'abandonner à des Sauuages qui les secouroient & aydoient à viure, ont [55] respondu the Credo, the Commandments of God and some Hymns composed in their Language; making their confessions with admirable candor; receiving communion with devotion and respect; reciting the Rosary every day in honor of the blessed Virgin. It is a heartfelt consolation to us to see Savages engaged in these holy exercises. There are some who come to ask Our Lord for his holy blessing in the Chapel, when they wish [54] to undertake a journey; and, on their return, come also to give him thanks for having preserved them. In a word, I repeat what I have said a hundred times,—if we had the means to give considerable assistance to the Savages, and to induce them to become sedentary, we would see a great blessing overspread these peoples, who are much more docile in matters of the Faith than we had dared to expect, as will be seen by the remarks that I am about to make.

I have heard on good authority that some shameless women, who had approached some men at night and solicited them to do evil in secret, received for answer, only these words: “I believe in God, I pray to him every day; he forbids such actions,—I cannot commit them.”

Much praise is given to the answer of that Christian servant of the Church in Lyons, who, when urged to sin by her still Pagan master, replied: “Christiana ego sum, nihil sceleris admittunt Christiani; I am a Christian; Christians do not commit so great sins.” I have heard that some young widowed Savage women and some girls, solicited and urged to abandon themselves to Savages who gave them assistance and helped them to live, [55] replied that they were baptized and never committed such of-qu'elles estoient baptisées, & qu'elles ne commett[er]oient iamais de telles offences: Cela n'est-il pas étonnant au pays de la barbarie?

Il y a vne tres-méchante coustume parmy les Sauuages: Ceux qui recherchent vne fille ou vne femme en mariage, luy vont faire l'amour la nuit, il y a bien du mal dās ces visites, mais non pas tousiours, car les femmes Sauuages de ces quartiers font assez retenuës, craignant de ne point trouuer party si elles se rendent communes. Or pour exterminer vne si méchante façon de faire, nous recommandons aux filles Chrestiennes de ne donner aucune responce à ceux qui les recherchent en ce temps-là, il s'en est trouué qui l'ont tres-bien gardé, rebutans ceux qui les venoient visiter, iusques à nous venir prier de leur defēdre semblables visites, croyans que ces ieunes gens nous obeïroient plustost qu'à elles. D'autres leur disoient feulement ce peu de paroles; Allez vous-en trouuer les Peres, faites-vous instruire, & baptiser, puis ie vous parleray, non pas la nuit, mais le iour. Trois ieunes Algonquins de l'Isle estant descendus à Kebec, & voulāt faire l'amour selon leur coustume, [56] s'adresserent à des filles Chrestiennes, ils furent bien estonnez quand ces filles leur dirent qu'ils s'adressassent à nous pour cét affaire, & qu'elles ne concluroïent rien sans nostre avis. Ces bonnes gens vindrent à la fin nous trouuer, & nous demanderent si nous gouernions les filles Sauuages, au commencement nous ne scauions pas ce qu'ils vouloient dire, enfin l'ayant conceu, nous leur fismes entendre que ces visites ne valoient rien, & qu'ils ne pouuoient pas pretendre d'épouser aucune fille Chrestienne qu'ils ne fussent baptisez. Si toutes auoient la retenuë de fenses. Is not this astonishing in the land of barbarism?

There is a most evil custom among the Savages. Those who seek a girl or a woman in marriage go to her to make love at night. There is much wrong in these visits, but not always, for the Savage women of these parts are sufficiently reserved, fearing that they may not find a husband if they make themselves common. Now,—in order to extirpate so mischievous a usage,—we counsel the young Christian girls to give no answer to those who seek them at such times. Some have followed this advice very well, spurning those who came to visit them and even coming to beg us to forbid such visits to them, thinking that the young men would obey us better than them. Others only said these few words to them: “Go and see the Fathers; be instructed and baptized; then I will speak to you,—not at night, but in the daytime.” Three young Algonquins from the Island, having come down to Kebec, and wishing to make love according to their custom, [56] addressed themselves to Christian girls. They were greatly astonished when these girls told them to apply to us about the matter, and that they would decide nothing without our advice. These good people finally came to us and asked us if we governed the Savage girls. At first, we did not know what they meant; but, having at last comprehended it, we gave them to understand that these visits were of no avail, and that they could not expect to marry any Christian girl unless they were baptized. If all had the reserve of those I have just mentioned, it would be a great consolation; but unfortunately some of them, when far away from our settlements, marry at celles dont ie viens de parler, ce feroit vne grande consolation; mais le mal-heur est que quelques-vnes estant éloignées de nos habitations, se marient à la follicitation de leurs parents, & tous leurs mariages n'estans pas felon Dieu, se rompent aussi ayfément qu'ils ont esté legerement contractez.

Nous en auons confirmé quelques vns dans leurs mariages depuis leur Baptesme; ceux-là, comme nous esperons, feront fermes & constans. I'entendois vne fois vne femme instruire son mary sur la Confession, i'estois consolé de voir la candeur de [57] ces bons Neophytes. Donne-toy bien de garde, disoit-elle, de cacher aucun de tes pechez, recherche les dans ta conscience, & les dy tous à Dieu, c'est à luy que tu parle, le Pere n'est là que pour tenir sa place, à cause que Dieu ne se fait pas voir en terre, mais sur tout fois bien marry de l'auoir offensé, car si tu n'as douleur de tes offenes, il ne se fera rien.

Voicy vn poinct qui m'a fort consolé. Les Hiroquois ayant paru proche des trois Riuieres, les Sauvages furent conuoquez de tous costez: estant r'affemblez, ils firent plusieurs festins de guerre, où il faut chanter, dancer, hurler, & tout cela par superstition pour auoir de l'avantage sur leurs ennemis, comme ils dancent les vns apres les autres, ils se donnent le signal, choisissant celuy qu'ils veulent faire dancer apres eux: Il arriua que lvn de ces danseurs porta le bouquet ou le signal à François Xauier, vn de nos nouueaux Chrestiens; luy le reiette, renonçant à ces dances superstitieuses: on le presente à Ignace Amiskape, il en fit de mesme: on le presente à quelques autres Chrestiens, tous imiterent la hardiesse de ces braues Athletes, se mocquans des badineries de [58]

the solicitation of their relatives, and all these marriages, not being according to God, are broken off as easily as they were heedlessly contracted.

We have confirmed some in their marriages since their Baptism. These, we hope, will remain firm and constant. I once heard a woman instructing her husband upon Confession. I was comforted at seeing the candor of [57] these good Neophytes. "Be very careful," she said, "not to hide any of thy sins; seek for them in thy conscience, and tell them all to God; it is to him that thou speakest,—the Father is there but to take his place, because God does not make himself seen on earth. But, above all, be very sorry for having offended him; for, if thou hast no sorrow for thy sins, nothing will come of it."

Here is a matter which has afforded me much consolation. The Hiroquois having made their appearance near the three Rivers, the Savages were gathered from all sides. Having met together, they made several war feasts, at which they must sing, dance, and yell,—all this through superstition, to obtain advantage over their enemies. As they dance, one after another, they give each a signal, selecting him whom they wish to have dance after them. It happened that one of these dancers gave the bouquet or signal to François Xavier, one of our new Christians, who refused it, renouncing these superstitious dances. It was tendered to Ignace Amiskwape, who did the same. It was presented to some other Christians who all imitated the courage of these brave Athletes, deriding the follies of [58] their Countrymen who placed their hopes in these ridiculous actions.

On another occasion, one of our Fathers having been informed that a great Feast of meat was being leurs Compatriottes, lesquels mettoient leurs espérances en ces actions ridicules.

Vne autrefois quelqu'vn de nos Peres ayant eu aduis qu'on faisoit vn grand Festin de viande vn iour de Vendredy dans vne cabane, demanda aux femmes qui en fortoint, si les Chrestiens n'estoient pas des conuiez, elles respondirent qu'ils en estoient en effect, mais qu'ils ne mangeoïent point, qu'ils se trouuoient là feulement pour s'entretenir & discourir avec les autres. Le Pere entrant dans la cabane sur la fin du banquet, trouua tous les Chrestiens avec leurs plats remplis de viands sans y auoir touché, ils la reçoiuient pour la donner à ceux qui ne sont pas encor baptisez; bref, toute l'assemblée pria le Pere de leur faire rendre graces à Dieu, & de leur declarer quelques pointēs de nostre creance.

Ayant quitté la Residence de S. Ioseph pour quelques affaires, le Pere à qui i'en laissay le foin, me récriuit en ces termes;

On cognoist bien depuis vostre depart ceux des Sauuages qui veulent croire en verité, & ceux qui n'ont que de l'apparence: Ceux-là sont assidus aux prières, [59] & ceux-cy n'y viennent quasi point depuis que vous estes party. Pour les Chrestiens ils donnent tres-grande edification, ils ne manquent pas aux prières publiques, & quelques-vns d'eux assistent tous les iours à la faincte Messe dés quatre heures du matin; ce qui cōfond & encourage nos François qui font icy.

Vne autre Pere laissé au mesme endroit, me manda ces parolles.

I'ay ce matin entendu de confession vingt-deux Sauuages Chrestiens, il aborde icy tous les iours des held on a Friday in a cabin, asked the women coming out of it whether there were not some Christians among the guests. They replied that, in truth, there were some; but that they were not eating, being there only to chat and converse with the others. The Father entered the cabin towards the end of the banquet, and found all the Christians with their dishes filled with meat which they had not touched, receiving it only to give it to those who were not yet baptized. In short, the entire company asked the Father to return thanks to God for them, and to explain some points of our doctrine to them.

Having left the Residence of St. Joseph to attend to some matters, the Father whom I left in its charge wrote me as follows:

" We easily recognize, since your departure, those Savages who really wish to believe and those who only feign to do so. The former attend prayers regularly [59] and the latter hardly come at all since you went away. As for the Christians, their conduct is very edifying; they never fail to attend the public prayers, and some of them are present at holy Mass every day, as early as four o'clock in the morning. This rebukes and incites our French who are here."

Another Father, left at the same place, wrote me the following words:

" This morning, I heard the confession of twenty-two Christian Savages. Canoes put in here every day. I cannot, alone, suffice for them all. Hasten your return, if you please," etc.

The Savages love their children above all things. They are like the Monkeys,—they choke them by embracing them too closely. They have, however, a great fear of what others may say about them and canots, ie ne puis moy feul suffir à tous, pefsez vostre retour, s'il vous plaist, &c.

Les Sauuages ayment vniquement leurs enfans, ils ressemblent au Cinge, ils les estouffent pour les embrasser trop estroitemeht, ils ont encor vn grand respect humain, n'ofans donner leurs enfans de peur d'estre blasmez de leurs Compatriotes. Voyant vne bonne femme Chrestienne proche de la mort; ie luy demanday vne sienne petite fille pour la faire esleuer chez les Reuerendes Meres Vrfulines, dōt nous auions eu nouuelle de Tadouffac; ceste bonne femme me dit: Pour moy i'en suis bien contente, ie fçay bien q̄e vous auez [60] vn grand soin des pauures orphelins; mais fçachez vn petit de son Oncle s'il en sera content: de bonne fortune cét Oncle estoit Chrestien, ie luy demanday s'il feroit content que nous fissions éléuer ceste petite fille avec ces bonnes Religieuses, il me repartit que c'estoit l'enfant de son propre frere, & qu'il ne la pouuoit quitter sans estre blasmé des siens. Alors ie luy repliquay, que i'estois bien aise qu'elle fust avec luy, & qu'il la feroit esleuer en la Foy, mais ie craignois seulement que Dieu ne luy demandast compte de cét enfant, à raifon que sa femme ne la conseruoit pas comme il faut, & que pour moy ie m'en deschargeois sur luy: Ce bon homme estonné me l'a donna sur l'heure pour la preferer à ces bonnes Meres à leur arriuée; ceste action me fit cognoistre que la crainte de desplaire à Dieu s'enracinoit dans l'ame de ces pauures Neophytes.

Vn François voulant faire trauailler vn iour de Feste vne femme Sauuage Chrestienne sans fçauoir qu'elle fust baptisée, ceste bonne femme luy dit: T'est-il permis de trauailler aujourd'huy? le Fran-are afraid to give their children, lest they be blamed by their Countrymen. Seeing a good Christian woman at the point of death, I asked her for one of her little girls, to have her brought up by the Reverend Ursuline Mothers, of whose arrival we had received news from Tadoussac. The good woman said to me: "For my part, I am well pleased at this; I know very well that you take [60] great care of poor orphans; but question her Uncle a little, whether he will agree to it." By good fortune, this Uncle was a Christian. I asked him whether he would be satisfied if we had the little girl brought up by these good Nuns. He replied that she was the child of his own brother, and that he could not give her up without being blamed by his relatives. I then answered that I was glad that she should be with him, and that he should have her reared in the Faith; but I only feared that God would require from him an account of the child because his wife did not take proper care of her; and that, for my part, I transferred to him my responsibility. The good man was astonished and gave her to me at once, to be handed over to the good Mothers on their arrival. This incident showed me that the fear of displeasing God was becoming rooted in the souls of these poor Neophytes.

A Frenchman wished to make a Christian Savage woman work on a Feast day, not knowing that she had been baptized. The good woman said to him: "Is it permitted to thee to work to-day?" The Frenchman having replied that it was not, "Why then," said she, "dost thou wish to make me work, since [61] I believe, and pray to God, and wish to go to Heaven as well as thou?"

Non requiritur in Christiano initium, sed finis, a great çois ayant respondu que non; pourquoy donc, dit elle, me veux-tu faire trauailler puisque [61] ie croy, & que ie prie Dieu, & que i'ay enuie d'aller au Ciel aussi bien que toy?

Non requiritur in Christiano initium, sed finis, dit vn grand Sainct, Ce n'est pas tout de bien commencer, tout gist à bien conclure le dernier periode de fa vie. I'ay parlé és Relations precedentes d'un ieune homme appellé Paul Aniskaask8sit deuenu aueugle depuis son Baptesme; ce bon Neophyte est mort comme il auoit vescu depuis sa conuersio[n], c'est à dire, fort sainctement. Quand nous luy donnaimes le Sacrement de l'Extrefme-Onction, il prenoit le Crucifix qu'on luy presentoit, le baifoit, l'apostrophoit tendrement; c'est toy qui m'a donné la vie, ie te la rends maintenant, tu es bon, ayez pitié de mon ame, ie ne te demande point la santé, tu es le maistre, fay comme tu voudras. Ce pauure ieune homme a souffert avec la patience d'un Job depuis son Baptesme, & nous a fait dire à sa mort, qu'il n'y a cœur si dur, que le feu du Ciel n'amolisse.

Ie vay coucher icy le bout d'une Lettre qui nous apprend que la Foy a bien de la force dans un cœur, quoy que barbare. L'an passé nous baptisaimes un ieune garçon [62] aagé d'enuiron quatorze ans, nous estoions bien en doute si nous luy accorderions ceste faueur, car il estoit assez peu instruit, mais comme il s'en retournoit en son pays, où se retire la nation des Atikamegues, nous le fîmes Chrestiens, il fut nommé Iacques; ce pauure ieune homme estât tombé malade, a instruit son pere le mieux qu'il a pu, l'a fait prier Dieu, & devant que de rendre les derniers soupirs, luy a recommandé de se venir faire baptifer

Saint has said. To commence well is not all; but everything consists in bringing the final period of our lives to a good conclusion. In the previous Relations I have spoken of a young man called Paul Aniskawaskousit, who became blind shortly after his Baptism. This good Neophyte died as he had lived since his conversion,—that is, in a most holy manner. When we administered to him the Sacrament of Extreme Unction, he took the Crucifix that was presented to him, kissed it, and lovingly addressed it: “It is thou who hast given me life, I now return it to thee; thou art good, have pity on my soul. I do not ask thee for health; thou art master; thy will be done.” The poor young man had suffered with the patience of a Job, ever since his Baptism, and, at his death, caused us to say that there is no heart so hard that Heaven’s fire does not soften.

I shall here insert the end of a Letter which teaches us that Faith has great power in the heart, even of a barbarian. Last year we baptized a young lad, [62] about fourteen years of age. We were in great doubt whether we should grant him that favor, for he was but little instructed; but, as he was about to return to his own country, where the nation of Atikamegues takes refuge,⁹ we made him a Christian, and he was named Jacques. This poor youth, falling ill, instructed his father to the best of his ability, made him pray to God, and, before drawing his last breath, advised him to go to the three Rivers to be baptized, which he did. This is what was written to me about it:

“The Attikamegues, or white fish—such is the name of that nation—came down to the three Rivers. I instructed them a little, and they gave me aux trois Riuieres, ce qu'il a fait: Voicy ce qu'on m'en escrit.

Les Attikamegues ou poisssons blancs, c'est le nom de ceux de ceste nation, sont descendus aux trois Riuieres; ie les ay vn peu instruictz, ils m'ont fort contentez; Vn vieillard entre autres nous a si bien presseé, que nous luy auons accordé le Baptesme; c'est le pere de Iacques 8Passeigā, que nous baptisâmes l'an passé, ce pauvre garçon a perfeueré en la Foy, encor qu'il fut bien esloigné de nous, il a enseigné son Pere, & se voyant surpris d'vne grosse maladie, il luy recommanda à la mort de nous venir trouuer pour se faire instruire, il m'a estonné; il estoit attentif [63] à merueille: Voila, disoit-il par fois, ce que ie deuois sçauoir il y a long-temps, iusques icy ie n'ay pas ves-cu, ie ressemblais à vn mort, mon fils a commencé à me donner la vie; haste toy mon fils, disoit-il au Pere, de m'instruire, & de me baptiser, car ie ne veux pas aller dans le feu.

much satisfaction. An old man, among others, pressed us so urgently that we granted him Baptism. He is the father of Jacques Oupassewigan whom we baptized last year. That poor boy persevered in the Faith; although he was very far away from us; he taught his Father, and, finding himself attacked by a serious illness, he advised him, on his deathbed, to go to us to receive instruction. He surprised me; he was attentive [63] to a wonderful degree. ‘This,’ he would sometimes say, ‘is what I should have known long ago; hitherto I have not lived; I was like a dead man, my son commenced to give me life.’ ‘Hasten my son,’ he would say to the Father, ‘to instruct and baptize me, for I do not wish to go into the fire.’ ”

CHAPITRE V.

DES PREMIERES FAMILLES RENDUËS SEDENTAIRES.

CLVVY qui a commencé de donner secours à nos Sauuages pour se loger, & defricher la terre, a ietté, comme nous esperons, les fondemens d'vne bourgade Chrestienne, qui est toute remplie de benedictions en sa naissance. Les deux premieres Familles qui ont feruy de premieres pierres à cét edifice, ou à ceste nouvelle Eglise, non seulement ont perfeueré dans leurs desseins, mais elles en ont encor attiré d'autres qui commencent de les imiter, tout gist à les ayder. Monsieur [64] Gand hōme vrayemēt charitable, voyant le grand bien qu'on opere dans leur ames, a augmenté nostre secours de quelques hommes qu'il a gagé pour ceste année, & la suiuante. Il voit de ses yeux les difficultez du pays, le peu d'auance qu'on fait dans la longueur & la rigueur des hyuers, & cependant pour ioüir du fruct qu'on recueille de ces nouvelles plantes, il faut de grands frais pour les cultiuer. Voicy les premices des deux premieres Familles qui se font arrestées, & qui donne le branle aux autres: Ie les dédie de bon cœur à celuy qui leur a donné le premier secours & à tous ceux qui fauorifent ce grand dessein.

Premierement, tous ceux qui composent ces deux Familles sont regenerez dans le Sang de IESVS-CHRIST. Secondement, quoy qu'ils soient en bon nombre tous logez dans vne mesme maison, hommes, CHAPTER V.

OF THE FIRST FAMILIES THAT BECAME SEDENTARY.

H E who has begun to give assistance to our Savages to enable them to house themselves and to till the soil has laid, we hope, the foundations of a Christian village which is filled with blessings at its birth. The first two Families who served as foundation stones for this edifice or this new Church, have not only persevered in their intentions but have also attracted others, who begin to imitate them. It is all-important to help them. Monsieur [64] Gand, a truly charitable man, seeing what a good effect we are producing on their souls, has increased our help by several men, whom he engaged for this year and for the next. He sees for himself the difficulties of the country, and the little progress that can be made, owing to the length and severity of the winters; while, meantime, in order to enjoy the fruit we gather from these new plants, great expense is incurred in cultivating them. Behold the first fruits of the first two Families that have become sedentary, and that give the impulse to the others. I cheerfully dedicate them to him who has given them the first assistance, and to all who favor this great undertaking.

In the first place, all who compose these two Families are regenerated in the Blood of JESUS CHRIST. In the second place, although they are, to a considerable number, all lodged in the same house,—men.

femmes & enfans, n'ayans qu'un même foyer, & vne même table, si est-ce que iamais nous n'auons remarqué en eux aucun different, la paix qui loge si profondement chez eux, nous est vne marque asseurée que Dieu n'en est pas loin: Factus est in pace locus eius. Ils font leurs prieres [65] en particulier, soir & matin à genouil, & ne laissent pas de venir aux publiques: Ils entendent pour l'ordinaire tous les iours la saincte Meffe, & quelques-vns des quatre heures du matin. Ils frequentent les Sacrements avec amour & respect, & quelques-vns d'eux ont la conscience si tendre, qu'aussi-tost qu'ils pensent auoir commis quelque offense, ils s'en viennent accuser au Pere qui les gouerne avec vne candeur nompareille.

Quelqu'un de nous fans estre veu entendoit vn iour les Chefs de ces deux Familles fe donner courage l'un à l'autre d'accomplir la Loy Chrestienne. Ne perdons point cœur, disoient-ils, nous ne feront pas feuls, les principaux d'entre nous veulent croire & demeurer aupres de nous, quittons nos anciennes façons de faire pour prendre celles qu'on nous enseigne qui sont meilleures que les nostres.

Ils se trouuerent bien en peine comme ils pourroient garder l'abstinence des viande les Vendredis & Samedis; car lors que nous ferons dans les bois pour faire nostre prouision d'Elan, disoient-ils nous n'aurons rien que de la chair à manger, que ferons-nous? l'autre respondit, nous voila [66] bien en peine, puisqu'il n'y a que deux iours la sepmaine, il les faut passer sans rien manger, & par ce moyen nous garderons l'abstinence de viande: Ce conseil fut trouué bon, mais non pas du Pere qui les gouerne, lequel les instruisit de ce qu'ils deuoient faire en telle occasion; Descendons plus en particulier.

women, and children, with but one and the same hearth and the same table,—nevertheless, we have never heard a single dispute among them. The profound peace that dwells in their midst is, to our minds, a sure indication that God is not far away. Factus est in pace locus ejus. They say their prayers [65] in private, evening and morning, on their knees, and do not fail to attend public prayers. As a rule, they hear holy Mass every day, and some as early as four o'clock in the morning. They receive the Sacraments with affection and respect; and some have so tender a conscience that, as soon as they think they have committed some sin, they come at once to confess it, with incomparable frankness, to the Father who has charge of them.

One of us heard one day, unseen, the Heads of these two Families encouraging one another to observe the Christian Law. "Let us not be disheartened," said they, "we shall not be alone; the leading men among us wish to believe and to dwell near us; let us abandon our old ways to adopt those which are taught us, and which are better than ours."

They were in great anxiety whether they could observe abstinence from meat on Fridays and Saturdays. "For," said one, "when we shall be in the woods, making our provision of Elk, we shall have nothing but meat to eat, and what shall we do?" The other replied: "What [66] trouble we are giving ourselves! Since there are only two days in each week, we will pass them without eating anything, and thus observe our abstinence from flesh." This advice was considered good, but not by the Father in charge of them, who taught them what was to be done in such circumstances. Let us enter into further details.

Ces deux Familles estant partis pour aller chercher leur prouision de chair d'Elan, François Xauier, iadis nommé des siens Nanask⁸mat, retourna avec la plus grande partie de ses gens deux iours auant la faincte Quarantaine; comme il n'auoit que de la chair & de l'anguille boucanée, nous ne luy parlaſmes point de l'abſtinence de viande qu'on garde en ce temps là, mais luy l'ayant appris par la communication de nos François, nous dit qu'il desiroit garder ceste loy, puis qu'il estoit Chrestiē; nous luy répondimes, que n'ayant ny pain ny pois, en vn mot, n'ayāt pour tous mets qu'vn peu d'anguille feiche, qu'il n'estoit pas obligé à ceste rigueur: Il repartit, que les mesmes raisons qui nous induisent à ne point manger de viande, l'y obligeoient; puis qu'il n'auoit qu'vne même créace avec nous, & qu'il auoit aſſez de force pour fe [67] pouuoir paſſer à vn peu de poiffon fumé. Ceste reſpoſe nous toucha le cœur, & nous fit refoudre de le foulager luy & fa fille du peu que nous auions, c'eſt à dire, d'vn peu de pain & de pois, & quelquefois d'vn peu de moluë. Voila donc le pere & la fille dans l'abſtinence, & par fois dans le ieufne, pendant que le reſte de la Famille qui n'estoit pas encor toute baptifiée, mangeoit de fort bonne viande. Entrant vn iour qu'ils ieufnoient dans leur chambre, ie les trouuay tous deux retirez à part, faifans collation fur le foir avec vn peu de pain, puis me tournant de l'autre coſté, i'apperceu vne grāde marmite remplie de langues & de mufles d'orignac, qui rendoient vne fort bonne odeur, ces viandes les plus delicates de la beſte estoient préparées pour ſes gens: Je vous confeſſe que ce ſpectacle m'étonna; en effet c'eſt vne choſe étonnante de voir vn homme chef de fa Famille, apres

These two Families having gone to secure their supply of Elk flesh, François Xavier, formerly called Nanaskoumat by his friends, came back with most of his people two days before holy Lent. As he had nothing but meat and smoked eels, we said not a word to him about the abstinence from meat that is observed at that time. But he, having learned it through communication with our Frenchmen, told us that he wished to observe the law, as he was a Christian. We replied that, as he had neither bread nor peas,—in a word, no food but some dried eels,—he was not obliged to follow this strict rule. He answered that the same reasons which induced us not to eat meat obliged him to do the same, since he had but one and the same faith with us; and that he was strong enough to [67] be able to do with a little smoked fish. This answer touched our hearts, and made us resolve to assist him and his daughter out of the limited supply we had,—that is to say, a little bread and peas, and, sometimes, a small quantity of codfish. Here, therefore, were the father and daughter observing abstinence, and sometimes fasting, while the remainder of the Family, who were not yet all baptized, ate very good meat. Entering their room one day while they were fasting, I found both sitting apart from the others, making a light evening repast on a little bread. Then, turning to the other side, I saw a large pot filled with the tongues and upper lips [moufles] of moose, which gave out a delicious smell. These, the most delicate parts of the animal, were being cooked for his people. I must confess that I was greatly surprised at this sight. In fact, it is an astonishing thing to see a man, the head of the Family,—after having underauoir bien peiné & sué à tuer tels animaux, en voir manger deuāt ses yeux les plus frians morceaux, & se reduire au ieufne fans obligation ny contrainte; & pour collation se contenter d'vn morceau de pain. Mais ce qui m'estōne dauantage, c'est qu'vne ieune fille aagée d'enuiron dix-huit à vingt ans, [68] imitant son pere passe ces quarante iours, partie en ieufne, & tousiours en abstinenēce, & fort mal nourrie dās l'abondance. Nous luy demandasmes vne fois si ce tēps ne luy sembloit pas bien long, & si elle n'auoit pas beaucoup de peine de se priuer des viandes qu'elle voyoit manger à ses cōpagnes; elle nous confessa qu'en effect elle en auoit eu vn peu au commencement, mais que cela s'estoit bien-tost passé. Vne autre fois cōme on faisoit vn bon festin en leur maison pour recevoir quelques vns de leurs amis, ie demanday à son perc s'il n'estoit pas tenté de goûter vn peu de ce festin, composé de fort bōnes pieces d'Elan, sur lesquelles il iettoit les yeux; il me respondit en fouriant; Nikanis, au commencement du Carefme ie mis mon cœur sous ceste table, c'est pourquoi mes yeux ont beau voir de la chair, ils n'en souhaittent pas; car ils n'ôt plus de cœur, & puis ne faut-il pas que nous souffrions vn petit aussi bien que les autres Chrestiens, nous voulons contenter Dieu aussi bien que vous autres. O Dieu qui eut iamais pensé que ces paroles deussent sortir de la bouche d'vn barbare! & que ceste abstinenēce eut deuē estre practiquée par vn Sauuage qui s'est autrefois repeu de chair [69] humaine! Dieu est Dieu, & sa bonté n'a pas de limites, elle se répand sur qui il luy plaist.

Voicy qui est encor dans le mesme étonnement: Ce bon homme s'estant engagé trop auant dans fa gone great hardships and fatigue in killing such animals,—witnessing others eating the choicest morsels before his eyes, and constraining himself to fast without being obliged or compelled thereto, and contenting himself with a piece of bread for his sole repast. But what surprised me still more was that a young girl about eighteen or twenty years of age [68] should, in imitation of her father, pass these forty days partly fasting and always abstaining, and ill-fed in the midst of abundance. We asked her once whether she did not think this time very long, and whether she did not find it very difficult to deprive herself of the meat that she saw her companions eating. She admitted that she had, indeed, found it somewhat difficult at first, but that had soon passed away. On another occasion, as a good feast was being given in their house in honor of some of their friends, I asked her father whether he were not tempted to taste a little of the feast—consisting of very fine pieces of Elk meat—which was before his eyes. He smilingly replied: “Nikanis, at the beginning of Lent, I put my heart under that table; that is why my eyes see the meat in vain,—they do not wish for any, because they no longer have any heart. And then, should we not suffer a little as well as the other Christians? We wish to please God, as well as you people.” O God! who would ever have thought that such words would issue from the lips of a barbarian, and that such abstinence would be practiced by a Savage who formerly gorged himself with human [69] flesh! God is God, and his kindness knoweth no bounds; it extendeth to whomsoever pleaseth him.

Here is something more, equally astonishing: This chaffe, n'ayant porté qu'un peu de pain que nous luy auïōs donné, se trouua sans autre viure que les Elans qu'il auoit tué, il ayma mieux passer deux iours sans manger, que de rompre son abstinençe de viande; & quoy que nous luy eussions dit qu'il n'estoit point obligé à ceste austérité, il ne laissa pas vne autrefois en semblable occasion de faire le mesme.

Sa fille estant allée, suiuant la coustume du païs, avec quelques-vnes de ses compagnes pour tirer des bois la viande des animaux que so pere auoit tué, fut retenuë du mauuais tēps plus de iours qu'elle ne pensoit, si bien qu'ayant consommé sa petite prouisiō de Carefme, elle se trouua sans autre nourriture que de la viâde; il restoit encor enuirō deux iours de grand traueil devant que d'arriuer à la maison, il falloit tirer à viue force de grosses traifnes de chair dessus les neiges; on la pressa fort d'en māger, mais ceste pauure fille, suiuant l'exemple de son pere, n'en voulut iamais goustter. [70] Ceux qui cognoissent plus particulierement les Sauuages, & qui voyēt ces actions font contraints de cōfesser que la grace est plus forte que la nature. Quelques-vns de nos François voyans ceste coustume, disoient que si iamais ils repassoient en France, qu'ils reprocheroiient cent & cent fois aux Heretiques & aux mauuais Catholiques que les Sauuages gardoiēt le Carefme, cependāt qu'ils mangioient de la chair comme des chiens. Au reste, ces pauures gens ne sont nullemēt obligez aux loix du ieufne, car ils n'ont le plus souuent que du poissō tout seul sans pain, ni autre faulce que de l'eau, ou de la viande toute seule, & le plus souuent ils n'ont rien du tout: Les deserts qu'ils ont commencé à défricher, les tireront avec le temps de ces grandes miseres.

good man having ventured too far during a hunt, and having taken with him only a small quantity of bread that we had given him, found that he had nothing else to eat than the flesh of the Elks that he had killed. He preferred to remain two days without eating, rather than break his abstinence from meat; and, although we had told him that he was not obliged to practice such austerity, he nevertheless did likewise on a subsequent similar occasion.

His daughter having, according to the custom of the country, gone with some of her companions to bring out of the woods the flesh of the animals that her father had killed, was detained by bad weather for a longer time than she expected; and when she had consumed her meagre Lenten provision, she found herself with no other food but meat. She still had two days of hard work before reaching home; and it was necessary to drag, by sheer strength, heavy sleighloads of flesh over the snow. She was strongly urged to eat meat; but this poor girl, following her father's example, would not taste it. [70] Those who especially understand the Savages, and who see these acts, are constrained to admit that grace is stronger than nature. Some of our Frenchmen, observing this practice, said that, if ever they returned to France, they would reproach Heretics and bad Catholics a hundred times over by telling them that the Savages observed Lent, while they ate meat like dogs. Besides, these poor people are in nowise bound by the laws of fasting; for they most often have only fish without bread,—and with no other sauce than water,—or only meat; and more frequently they have nothing at all. The natural meadows¹⁰ which they have begun to cultivate will,

Ie ferois trop long si ie voulois remarquer toutes les bônes qualitez de cét homme vrayemët Chrestien: Il nous entretient quelquefois des regrets qu'il a de voir les finistres opiniôs que quelques-vns de sa nation ont de nous autres: Il deplore la dureté du cœur de ceux qui ne prestent point l'oreille à l'Evangile: Du reste il est homme adroit, fort industrieux, bien éloigné de la paresse & de la faineantise naturelle [71] aux Sauuages; s'il estoit secondé, il se tireroit bientost de la misere commune à ses barbares, mais il a fait rencontro d'vne femme de fort peu de cõduite, le secours qu'on luy donne maintenant, le fera reüssir. Il admire nos façons de faire. C'est chose étrange, disoit-il vn iour, que vous fçachiez tout ce que vous deuez faire par le son d'vne cloche sans qu'on vous die rien, & sans vous parler les vns aux autres: Si tost que vous entêdez ceste cloche, les vns fortent, les autres entrent; les vns vont au trauail, les autres vont prier, elle vous fait leuer & coucher, & sans parole elle fait par vn mesme son tous les commandemens qu'il faut faire: Il n'en est pas de mesme parmy nous autres, si ie veux induire mes gens au trauail, il faut bien dire des paroles, & apres tout cela ie ne suis guieres obey.

Vn ieune homme de fa nation luy demandât fa fille en mariage, il luy dit; maintenant que ie suis Chrestien, ie respecte Dieu, ie luy veux obeyr, or il ne veut pas que ie donne ma fille sinon à vne personne qui croye en luy, & qui se resoluë de ne la quitter iamais s'il l'épouse: regarde si tu as affez de courage pour te resoudre à ces deux conditions, le ieune homme répôdit, qu'il [72] n'auoit pas affez d'esprit pour retenir tout ce que nous enseignons; & qu'il in time, relieve them from this great destitution.

I would be too diffuse were I to point out all the good qualities of this truly Christian man. He sometimes tells us of the regret that he feels at seeing the bad opinion that some of his nation have of us. He deplores the hardness of heart of those who do not listen to the Gospel. Moreover, he is a dexterous and very industrious man, far from being addicted to the sloth and idleness natural [71] to Savages. If his efforts were seconded, he would soon extricate himself from the misery common to these barbarians; but he happened to marry a woman who has very little executive ability. The help we now give him will enable him to succeed. He admires our way of doing things. "It is strange," he said one day, "that you should know everything you have to do by the sound of a bell,—without anything being said to you, and without speaking to one another. As soon as you hear the bell, some go out, others enter; some go to work, others to pray; it makes you rise and go to bed; and it gives, without a word, and with the same sound, all the commands that have to be given. It is different with us; if I wish to persuade my people to work, I must speak many words; and, after all, they scarcely obey me."

A young man of his nation having asked him for his daughter in marriage, he said to him: "Now that I am a Christian, I honor God; I desire to obey him. Well, he does not wish me to give my daughter to any one but a person who believes in him, and who is resolved never to leave her if he marries her. Consider whether thou hast enough courage to fulfill these two conditions." The young man replied that he [72] had not sufficient mind to retain all that we n'osoit quasi esperer le Baptefme. Le Neophyte luy repartit? Ce n'est pas le defaut de ta memoire qui t'empêchera de ioüir de ce bonheur; au commencement i'estoist dans le mesme erreur, mais i'ay recognu par apres que quand on prioit Dieu, il donnoit de l'esprit, & qu'il aydoit à fçauoir ce qui est necessaire pour estre baptisé: on me dit aussi qu'il n'estoit pas besoin que ie fçeuiffe tât de choses, mais que i'eusse vne bonne volonté, & vne grâde affection de bien obeïr à Dieu, & ne le point offenser, Ce n'est pas le defaut d'esprit que i'apprehende en toy, mais la refolution de feruir Dieu toute ta vie, & de iamais ne quitter ma fille pour en espoufer vn autre; regarde si tu as assez de constâce pour ce poinct. Ce pauure ieune homme feigna du nez, comme on dit, il ne pût iamais se refoudre à se ietter dâs le lien d'vn mariage indissoluble. Or remarquez que ce n'est point le Neophyte qui nous a raconté de ce procedé, c'est le ieune hōme mesme, lequel a tâché depuis de renoüier ceste affaire, mais il n'en a encor pû venir à bout. O que les mariages des Sauuages no⁹ donneront de peine! C'est assez parlé du [73] pere, disons deux mots de ses enfans. Cét homme de bien en auoit plusieurs, il luy en estoit resté quatre; Dieu a pris pour foy ceste année les deux plus ieunes, si bien qu'il n'a plus qu'vn fils âgé de vingt à vingt deux ans, & vne fille, dont nous venons de parler, aagée d'enuiron dix-huit ans. Ce ieune homme estant môté aux trois Riuieres cét hyuer dernier, pour aller à la guerre contre leur ennemis, s'en alla tout droit loger chez nos Peres, fans que personne luy eut donné ce conseil; Il leur dit, que s'il se retroit dans les cabanes des Sauuages, il se mettoit en danger d'offenser Dieu, taught, and that he hardly dared to hope for Baptism. The Neophyte replied: "It is not lack of memory which prevents thee from enjoying that happiness; at first, I was in the same error; but I afterwards found that, when one prays to God, he gives understanding, and helps one to know what is necessary in order to be baptized. I was also told that there was no need of my knowing so many things, but that I must have good will and a great desire to truly obey God and not to offend him. It is not want of understanding that I fear in thee, but the resolution to serve God all thy life, and never to leave my daughter to marry another; consider whether thou hast sufficient constancy for this." The poor young man bled at the nose, as they say; he could never bring himself to enter the bond of an indissoluble marriage. Now, observe that it was not the Neophyte that related to us this proceeding, but the young man himself, who afterwards sought to renew the affair, but he has not yet succeeded therein. Oh what trouble these marriages of the Savages will give us! We have said enough of the [73] father; let us now add a few words about his children. This worthy man has had several; four remained to him. This year, God has taken to himself the two youngest,—so that he now has but one son, from twenty to twenty-two years of age, and a daughter, of whom we have just spoken, aged about eighteen. This young man having gone up to the three Rivers last winter, to go to war against their enemies, went straight to stay with our Fathers, without any one having advised him to do so. He told them that if he were to dwell in the cabins of the Savages, he would run the risk of offending God; that the ex-que l'exēple de la ieunesse fort dissoluë le peruer tiroit, & par consequent qu'il les supplioit de luy dōner le couvert: De plus que deuāt bien-tost partir pour aller en guerre avec ses Compatriotes, il souhaittoit qu'on luy conferast le fainct Baptesme, pour ne mettre son ame dans les dangers où il alloit engager son corps. Nos Peres le receurent à bras ouuerts, le trouuerent bien instruit, & ayant consideré de près ses deportements, iugerent qu'ils ne pouuoient en faine consciēce luy refuser ce Sacrement, qu'il demandoit avec tant d'instance. Le voila donc fait Chrestien, & nommé Vincent; [74] son pere en ayant eu la nouuelle, s'en réioüit fort, mais non pas moy; car i'auois resolu de ne le point baptiser qu'il ne fust marié, pour la difficulté que ie preuoiois, & dans laquelle ie le vois de trouuer vne femme Chrestienne qui luy agrée, ou qui ne fait pas sa parente; Neantmoins Dieu m'a fait cognostre iusques à maintenant que sa grandeur passoit la petitesse de mon cœur, peut-estre trop étroit & trop estrecy dans ces rencontres; car ce ieune homme assisté des graces qu'il tire des Sacrements, a perseueré dans la resolutiō de n'épouser aucune fille iusques à maintenant qui ne fust Chrestiēne; s'il se conferue dans la netteté de conscience que Dieu luy a donnée depuis son Baptesme, ses paroles feront trouuées veritables: nostre Seigneur luy en fasse la grace.

Quant à l'autre Famille, dont le Chef se nommoit Negabamat; mais il porte maintenant le nom de celuy qui les a secouru, & qui les secoure encor puissamment; il a pris pour son Parain Monsieur Gand, en ceste consideration l'a nommé Noël, il fut baptisé avec sa femme & son fils aifné le iour de 1 immaculée Cōception de la faincte Vierge; ils estoïēt tous vestus à ample of the young people, who were very dissolute, might pervert him; and he therefore begged them to give him shelter. Moreover, as he would soon leave to go to war with his Countrymen, he wished to have holy Baptism conferred upon him, so that his soul might not be imperilled by the dangers to which his body would be exposed. Our Fathers received him with open arms, found him well instructed, and, after having closely inquired into his conduct, considered that they could not conscientiously refuse him that Sacrament for which he asked so earnestly. He was therefore made a Christian and named Vincent. [74] When his father received the news, he was greatly rejoiced,—but not so I, for I had resolved not to baptize him until he was married, owing to the difficulty which I foresaw—and which I still see for him—of finding a Christian wife who will suit him or who is not related to him. Nevertheless, God has, up to the present, shown me that his greatness surpasses the littleness of my heart, which is perhaps too narrow and too contracted in such matters; for that young man, assisted by the graces that he derives from the Sacraments, has thus far persevered in the resolution not to marry any girl who is not a Christian. If he preserves the stainless conscience that God has given him since his Baptism, his words will be found true. May Our Lord grant him this grace.

As to the other Family, its Head was named Negabamat; but he now bears the name of the person who has assisted and who still greatly aids them. He took Monsieur Gand for his Godfather, and, on that account, he was named Noël. He was baptized, with his wife and his eldest son, on the day of the la Francoise des [75] liberalitez de celuy qui les presentoit au Baptefme; sa femme fut nommée Marie, & son fils Charles; il auoit trois enfans de soy, & deux adoptez; tous ont esté regenerez en I E S V S - C H R I S T , nous en parlerons maintenant.

Cét homme est bien fait, & d'vn bon naturel; comme on l'interrogeoit en son Baptefme, & sur tout qu'on luy recommandoit de ne mettre son esperance qu'en Dieu, & non pas au secours temporel des hōmes, il repondit d'vne voix haute: I'ay passé vne bonne partie de mon aage, ie ne fuis pas pour viure long-temps en ce monde: c'est pourquoi ie n'appuye ma croyance ny ne fonde mon esperance sur les hommes qui ne me fçauroient prolonger la vie, mais sur celuy qui a tout fait, lequel m'en peut donner vne éternelle. Quoy que les femmes soient naturellement honteuses, la sienne ne parut iamais s'étonner, encor qu'elle se veit dans vn habit à la Frāçoise, qu'elle n'auoit iamais porté, la prefence de nos François qui remplissoient l'Eglise ne l'émeut point; elle répondait aux interrogatiōs qu'on luy faisoit d'vne voix forte, & d'vn visage remply de ioye: Nous luy demandasmes par apres d'où prouenoit qu'elle ne s'étoit pas [76] montrée craintive devant tant de monde, elle répondit: Je ne penfois pas du tout à ceux qui me regardoient, ie disois seulement en mon cœur? Je n'iray pas en Enfer, i'iray au Ciel, tous mes pechez vont estre pardonnez, & puis il ne faut pas, disoit-elle, que ceux qui croient en Dieu soient honteux de dire leurs creances. Cette bonne femme a de grandes marques de sa predestination; elle prie Dieu volontiers, entend volontiers sa parole, ayme la fréquentation des Sacremens; elle est par fois retournée de bien loin tout exprés immaculate Conception of the blessed Virgin. They were all clad in French garb through the [75] generosity of him who presented them for Baptism. His wife was named Marie, and his son, Charles. He had three children of his own and two adopted ones; all have been regenerated in JESUS CHRIST. We will now speak of them.

This man is well built, and of a good disposition. When he was questioned regarding his Baptism, and especially when he was exhorted to place his trust in God alone, and not in the temporal assistance of men, he answered in a loud tone of voice: "A good part of my life has passed,—I cannot live long in this world; therefore, I do not rest my belief nor base my hope on men, who cannot prolong my life, but in him who has made all, who can grant me eternal life." Although the women are naturally bashful, his wife never seemed surprised, even when she saw herself in a French dress which she had never worn. The presence of our French, who filled the Church, did not disturb her; to the questions put to her, she replied in a loud voice, and with a face beaming with joy. We asked her afterward how it happened that she was not [76] abashed before so many people, and she replied: "I did not think at all of those who were looking at me. I merely said in my heart: 'I shall not go to Hell, I shall go to Heaven; all my sins are pardoned;' and," she added, "those who believe in God should not be ashamed to say what they believe." This good woman shows abundant signs of predestination; she prays to God gladly, hears his word with pleasure, and loves to receive frequently the Sacraments; she has sometimes come back from a great distance for the express purpose pour se cōfesser & communier, s'ennuyant fort quand elle est empeschée d'entendre la Messe. Estant dās les bois pour faire feicherie d'Orignac & voyāt qu'elle retardoit trop long temps, elle s'en vint à Kebec pour communier; le Pere qui l'entēdit de Confession, par mēgarde, ou pour l'éprouuer, la laissa là fans la faire approcher de la faincte Table: Cette pauure femme luy disoit; Je suis venuë de si loin, & avec tāt de peine, pour ioüir d'un si grand bien, & vous m'en priuez: ay-ie donc fait quelque offense qui merite ce châtiment? Elle s'en alla trouuer vn autre Pere, & luy fit ses plaintes avec vn telle candeur, qu'il en demeura tout edifié. Il [77] faut confesser que ces deux bonnes ames m'ōt trōpé, ie ne croyois pas que la Foy fut si fortement engraciée dans leurs cœurs; à peine estoient-ils Chrestiens, que Dieu les a visité ou esprouué fort rudement. Ce nouveau Chrestien parlāt vn iour à vn sien pârēt de nostre doctrine, & du secours que nous dōnions aux Sauuages pour les reduire dans vne bourgade, luy dit que le sentiment commun de la pluspart de ceux de sa nation, estoit que tout ce que nous en faisiōs n'étoit qu'un voile pour couurir nostre malice, & que nous ne pretendions que la ruine du pays, & la mort de tous les habitans: Et qu'ainsi ne soit, dit-il à Noël, tu verras bien-tost tes enfans mourir devant tes yeux, tu fuiuras par apres, & si nous leur prestons l'oreille aussi bien que toy, nous passerons par le mesme guichet. Voila le bruit qui court, disoit ce causeur. Noël me vint raconter tout cecy sans se troubler, m'exhortāt à précher fort & ferme contre cēt erreur. Or fait que le Diable congnut la disposition du corps de ses enfans, ou que dieu voulut tirer sa gloire de la foy & de la cōstance de of making her confession and receiving communion, being greatly troubled when she is prevented from hearing Mass. Being in the woods, occupied in drying Moose flesh, and finding that she was delayed too long, she came to Kebec to receive communion. The Father who heard her Confession—either through inadvertence, or in order to try her—left her without having her approach the holy Table. The poor woman said to him: “I have come from a great distance, and with great hardships, to enjoy so great a blessing, and you deprive me of it. Have I then committed any sin that deserves such punishment?” She sought another Father and complained to him, with such candor that he was greatly edified. It [77] must be admitted that these two good souls have deceived me; I did not think that Faith had so strongly taken root in their hearts. Hardly had they become Christians when God visited or tried them very sorely. This new Christian was speaking one day, to a relative, of our doctrine, and of the assistance that we gave the Savages, that we might gather them into a village; and his friend told him that the general feeling of the majority of his nation was that all that we were doing was but a cloak to cover our evil intentions, and that we desired nothing but the ruin of the country and the death of all its inhabitants. “And,” said he to Noël, “rest assured of what I say; thou wilt soon see thy children die before thine eyes; thou wilt follow afterward, and, if we, like thee, listen to them, we shall pass through the same gate. Such is the rumor that prevails,” said this gossip. Noël came and told me all this, without being disturbed, urging me to preach strongly and firmly against that error. Now,—whether ces nouueaux Chrestiēs: Quoy que s'en fait, de cinq enfans qu'ils auoient, les voila quasi reduictēs à vn. Bien-toſt [78] apres ce discours, l'vn de fes enfās fut pris d'vne fiebure etique qui luy oſtera la vie dans peu de iours, car il n'a plus que les os qui luy percent la peau en plusieurs endroictēs. A quelque temps de là vn autre qui estoit au ſeminaire, fut ſaisi d'vne autre maladie qui luy a duré depuis cinq mois, & pour le prefent on ne luy donne plus que peu de iours de vie. Son fils aifné, âgé d'enuiron quatorze ans, qui estoit aussi nostre Seminariste, luy feruoit de conſolatiō dans fes aduersitez, car en verité c'eftoit vn enfant bien fait, & d'vn excellent esprit: vne defluxiō ou vne pleuresie le faſit inopinément, & apres luy auoir fait ſouffrir de grandes douleurs, l'emporta dans peu de iours dans nostre Maifon, où on l'auoit apporté pour eſtre penſé plus commodemēt. Son pere ne bougea d'aupres de luy tandis qu'il fut malade; fa mere le venoit viſiter tous les iours de plus d'vne grande lieue. C'eſt dans cette maladie que nous reconnusmes la foy du pere & de l'ēfant, la fiévre eſtant deuenue ſi chaude & ſi violente, qu'elle le faifoit par fois extrauaguer. Si-toſt que ce pauure enfant auoit quelque relâche, fon pere no⁹ appelloit, & nous prioit de luy parler de Dieu pour bien diſpoſer [79] fon ame à la mort. Ie l'ay veu par fois fe ietter à genoux auprēs de ſō liet pour prier Dieu, & le faire prier à fon fils; fa mere prioit de fon coſté, & tous deux firent vn vœu à Dieu pour la fante de leur enfant, mais avec vne tres-grande resignation à la volonté de Dieu: Ce n'eſt pas nous, diſoient-ils, qui commandons à la vie, ſi tu preuois, ô grand Capitaine du Ciel, que nostre enfant venāt fur l'aage, ne te vueille pas

the Devil knew the physical condition of his children, or whether God wished to derive his own glory from the faith and constancy of these new Christians,—at all events, the five children that he had are almost reduced to one. Soon [78] after this conversation, one of his children was seized with a hectic fever which will deprive him of life in a few days,—for he is but a skeleton, and his bones pierce through his skin in many places. Some time afterward, another child, who was at the seminary, was seized by another disease, which has lasted five months, and, at present, he is not expected to live more than a few days. His eldest son, about fourteen years old, who was also a pupil of our Seminary, gave him consolation in the midst of his afflictions, for indeed he was a well-behaved child, and of an excellent mind. He was suddenly seized with a defluxion or pleurisy which, after causing him great suffering, carried him off in a few days at our House, where he had been brought that he might be more conveniently nursed. His father did not stir from his side while he was sick; his mother came to see him every day, from a distance of over a league. It was during this illness that we were convinced of the faith of the father and child. The fever became so high and so violent that it sometimes made him delirious. Whenever the poor child had a little rest, his father would call us, and beg us to speak to him of God, in order suitably to prepare [79] his soul for death. Sometimes, I saw him fall on his knees near his bed to pray to God, and to have his son pray; his mother prayed, on her part; and both made a vow to God for the recovery of their child, but with the utmost resignation to God's will. "It is not we," said they, "who comobeyr, nous ne te demandons point sa santé; mais comme tu es bon, donne luy secours, & pour son corps & pour son ame. L'enfāt de son costé estoit fort bien disposé, témoignant qu'il ne craignoit point la mort; il fe cōfeffa, receut le Corps de Nostre Seigneur, & l'Extrême-Onction avec bon iugement, se remettant à la volonté de Dieu, fans luy demander la vie, si on ne luy faisoit demāder. Sa priere ordinaire estoit, IESVS ayez pitié de moy, fay moy misericorde, ie suis marry de t'auoir offensé: En fin se fentant proche de la mort, il nous dit; ie n'en puis plus, tenez, touchez mō corps, il est desia froid, ie me meurs; on le fit confesser derechef, & l'absolution receuë, fa défluxion l'étouffa tout dvn coup: Estant mort, i'aduersty Frācois Xauier, qui se trouua [50 i.e., 80] present de consoler son pere, craignant que ce coup ne l'ébranlaſt, mais François me dit, Noël a le cœur bon, si toſt qu'il a veu expirer son fils, il m'a dit que pendant qu'il le voyoit fouffrir, la tristesse affligeoit son ame, mais que le voyant mort, & hors de tout secours humain, son cœur s'estoit sēty foulagé. En effect, ce bon homme me vint trouuer, & me dit; Nikanis, tu diras à nostre Capitaine, il parloit de Monsieur le Gouverneur, que ie le remercie de ce qu'il a visité mon fils dās fa maladie, & tu l'affeureras que mon cœur est tout libre, & que ie me souuiens bien de la parole que i'ay donné à Dieu de le feruir toute ma vie; ie ne suis pas vn enfāt pour la reuoquer; ie le prieray touſiours, c'est luy qui dispose de nos vies, nous n'en ſommes pas les maiftres. Ces paroles confolerent grandement Monsieur le Cheualier de Montmagny, que ie nommerois volontiers le Cheualier du S. Esprit, mand life. If thou foreseest, O great Captain of Heaven, that when our child grows older, he will not obey thee, we do not ask thee for his restoration to health; but as thou art good, grant him help both for his body and for his soul." On his side, the child was very well disposed, showing that he did not fear death. He made his confession, received the Body of Our Lord, and Extreme Unction, with full understanding, resigning himself to God's will, without asking for his life unless he were made to ask for it. His usual prayer was: "JESUS have pity on me, have mercy on me; I am sorry for having offended thee." At last, feeling that he was near death, he said to us: "I have no more strength. Here, feel my body; it is already cold; I am dying." He made a confession again, and, when he had received absolution, the defluxion suddenly suffocated him. When he was dead, I told François Xavier who was [50 i.e., 80] present, to console the father, fearing that this blow might unsettle him; but François said to me: "Noël has good courage. As soon as he saw his son expire, he told me that, while he saw him suffering, his soul was filled with sorrow; but that when he saw him dead, and beyond human aid, his heart felt relieved. Indeed, the good man came to me and said: "Nikanis, thou shalt say to our Captain"—he spoke of Monsieur the Governor—"that I thank him for having visited my son during his illness, and assure him that my heart is quite free, and that I remember well the promise that I have given to God, to serve him all my life,—I am not a child, to recall it. I will always pray to him; it is he who disposes of our lives; we are not masters of them." These words afforded much consolation to tant ie le vois porté aux actions faintes & courageuses, & r̄plies de l'esprit de dieu.

Apres ceste mort, il fe trouue que sa fille adoptive a vne toux dangereuse, & que son plus petit fils s'en va mourant: en verité ce bon hōme peut bien dire: Probasti me, & cognouisti me: C'est ce qu'on luy inculquoit [71 i.e., 81] souuent que Dieu vouloit prouuer sa foy. Ces coups de fleches luy estoient tirées du Ciel par amour. Ce n'est pas tout, sa femme subsistoit parmi toutes ces maladies, & secourroit ses enfans: Dieu la voulut affliger aussi bien que les autres, elle fut prise de la petite verole qui courroit, & fut la premiere qui entra dans l'Hospital nouuellement étably à Kebec. Deuant ces grandes atteintes, son mary auoit desia receu quelques attaques de ses gens: car estant descēdu à Tadoussac, les Sauuages se mocquoient de luy, sçachant qu'il prioit Dieu, disans qu'il vouloit deuenir Iefuite; qu'il vouloit paroistre auoir de l'esprit, & que tout ce qu'il en faisoit, n'estoit que pour viure long-temps çà bas en terre, mais qu'il se troueroit trompé. Vn de ses Compatriotes luy dit vn iour ie ne sçay quoy qu'il auoit veu en fonge, luy enioignant de l'executer s'il ne vouloit bien-tost mourir; Cela ne l'estonna point, il répondit qu'il demanderoit au Pere qui le gouernoit si la chose estoit permise, qu'en ce cas il l'accompliroit, autremēt non. On luy deffendit de la faire, il obeit sans scrupule, & sans replique: Voila ce qu'opere la grace dans vn cœur qu'on appelle barbare, [82] difons plus tost dans les enfans de Dieu, puis qu'ils sont réduis tels par le Baptesme.

Le penfois finir le discours de ces deux Familles, mais puis que les vaisseaux me donnent encor loisir

Monsieur the Chevalier de Montmagny, whom I would gladly call the Knight of the Holy Spirit, so ready do I find him to perform saintly and courageous deeds and actions replete with the spirit of God.

After this death, it happens that his adopted daughter has a dangerous cough, and his youngest son is dying. In truth, the good man may well say: Probasti me et cognovisti me. This we have often impressed [71 i.e., 81] upon his mind—that God wished to try his faith. These arrows were shot at him from Heaven through love. This is not all. His wife kept her strength throughout all these illnesses, and attended to her children. God wished to afflict her as well as the others; she was taken ill with small-pox, which then prevailed, and was the first to enter the Hospital recently established at Kebec. Before these heavy strokes, her husband had already suffered some attacks from his people; for, when he went down to Tadoussac, the Savages laughed at him,—knowing that he prayed to God,—saying that he would become a Jesuit; that he sought to appear clever, and that all he did it for was to live long on earth; but that he would find himself deceived. One of his Countrymen one day told him something—I know not what—that he had seen in a dream, and insisted that he should do it, unless he wished to die soon. This did not startle him; he replied that he would ask the Father who was his director whether the action were permitted,—in which case, he would perform it; otherwise he would not. He was forbidden to do it, and he obeyed without hesitation, and without a reply. Behold how grace operates in a heart that is called barbarian,—[82] or rather, let us say, in God's children, since they are rendered such by Baptism.

de parler, il faut que la douleur & la ioye qui partagent maintenant mon cœur, foient la conclusion de ce Chapitre. Quelques Sauuages de l'Isle retournant du païs des Abnaquiois, ont rapporté icy vne petite verole extrémement contagieuse; Ce mal qui tuë par tout ces pauures peuples, est descendu iusques à Sillery, c'est à dire, en la Residence de Saint Ioseph, où nous r'assemblons les Sauuages. Apres nous en auoir enleué quelques-vns, apres nous auoir rauy vn vray Apostre de ces contrées, il s'est ietté sur les Chefs de ces deux premières Familles Sedentaires avec vne telle fureur, que nous n'en fçauons pas encor le fucez. Frâcois Xauier iadis Nenaskmat a esté pris le premier, on le fit incontinent porter à l'Hospital pour y estre promptement fecouru: à peine y estoit-il entré, que Noël Negabamat se fentit assailli du mesme mal; comme ie me disposoisois pour l'emporter à Kebec dans vn canot, afin de le loger avec les autres malades, [83] on m'escriuit que François Xauier me demâdoit, & que si ie le voulois voir pour la dernière fois, que ie me depefchasse. A mesme temps, voicy quatre Familles de Sauuages qui arrivent à Sillery à dessein de se rendre Sedentaires, & de grossir nostre Bourgade encommencée. Les conseils de Dieu sont estranges; il oste, il donne, il destruit, il bastit; en vn mot il est le Maistre, il fait ce qu'il veut, qu'il soit beny à iamais, s'il n'eust affligé le bon Job, iamais ce grand flambeau n'eust esclairé le monde; s'il n'eust fecoüé les premières Colomnes de ceste nouvelle Eglise, & de cét arrest ou reduction des Sauuages, on n'en eut pas veu la fermeté. Il me fallut ioüer vn estrange personnage, car faisant profession d'arrester les Sauuages, il me fallut chasser

I thought that I had finished speaking of these two Families; but—since the ships still leave me time to write—the sorrow and joy which at present divide my heart, must form the conclusion of this Chapter. Some Savages of the Island, on their return from the country of the Abnaquiois,¹¹ brought here a very contagious epidemic of smallpox. This disease, which kills off these poor people everywhere, has come down as far as Sillery, that is, to the Residence of Saint Joseph, where we are collecting the Savages. After having taken some of them from us, after having snatched from us a true Apostle for these countries, it attacked the Heads of these first two Sedentary Families, with such fury that we do not yet know the result. François Xavier, formerly Nenaskoumat, was the first seized; he was at once carried to the Hospital, that he might be promptly aided there. Hardly had he entered it, when Noël Negabamat felt himself attacked by the same disease. As I was preparing to take him to Kebec in a canoe, to lodge him with the other sick, [83] I received a letter saying that François Xavier was asking for me, and that I must hasten, if I wished to see him for the last time. At the same moment, four Families of Savages arrived at Sillery, with the intention of becoming Sedentary and of increasing the population of our incipient Village. The designs of God are mysterious; he takes away, he gives; he destroys, he constructs;—in a word, he is the Master; he does what he wills; may he be forever blessed. If he had not afflicted the good Job, never would that great light have illumined the world. If he had not shaken the first Columns of this new Church, and of this settlement or reduction of the Savages, we would ceux qui se prefentoient. Allez, mes chers amis, leur dis-je, retirez-vous, autrement la maladie vous pourra esgorger: l'amour que ie vous porte me fait vous donner ce conseil; ne vous esloignez pas neantmoins beaucoup, afin que nous puissions auoir de vos nouuelles, ils me promirent de m'obeir de poinct en poinct, & là dessus se r'embarquent & s'en vont, me nommant le lieu où ils se retireroient. Cela [84] fait, ie m'en vay dire à toutes les autres Familles arrestées aupres de nous, qu'il feroit bon qu'il s'esloignassent pour vn temps; Ie ne fçay pas quels estoïent les mouuemens de mon ame, mais ie fçay bien que Dieu ne veut pas que le cœur de l'homme s'attache à quoy que ce soit. Ayant donc chafisé, pour ainsi dire, & banny pour vn temps ces pauures brebis bien defolées, le Pere Vimont qui nous estoit venu voir à Sillery, & moy & vn ieune Sauusage, prenons nostre malade dans vn canot, & le portons en la maison de charité & de misericorde, c'est à dire, à l'Hosptial, si tost qu'il fut placé ie m'approche du liet de Frâcois Xauier, & le voyant en vn tres-pitoyable estat, ie me couure la face de mon mouchoir, & m'appuye la teste sur son cheuet sans luy pouuoir parler.

Ceux qui trauailent au salut des ames, ont des tresses pour leurs Neophytes aussi bien que les meres pour leurs enfans. Ce bon Sauusage vrayement Chrestien, se tournant vers moy, me dit; Nikanis, ne t'attriste point, ie meurs fort volontiers, ie ne crains point la mort, ie m'ennuye sur la terre, i'espere que i'iray au Ciel: Ie vous laisse à penfer si ces paroles me perçoient [85] le cœur, le voyant fort oppresé: ie prie nos Peres qui estoient presents de luy apporter le faint Viatique, pendant qu'on l'alloit querir, ie never have seen the firmness thereof. I had to play a strange part; for, professing to render the Savages stationary, I had to send away those who presented themselves. "Go, my dear friends," I said to them; "withdraw, for otherwise the disease may slay you; the affection that I feel for you leads me to give you this advice; however, do not go very far away, so that we may have news of you." They promised to obey me in every particular, and thereupon they reembarked and went away, naming to me the place whither they would retire. This [84] done, I went to tell all the other Families settled near us that it would be advisable for them to go away for a while. I do not know what were the impulses of my soul; but I know well that God does not wish man's heart to become attached to anything whatsoever. Having therefore driven away, as it were, and banished for a while, these poor lambs, disconsolate indeed,—Father Vimont, who had come to see us at Sillery, and myself, with a young Savage, took our sick man in a canoe and carried him to the house of charity and mercy, that is, to the Hospital. As soon as he was placed there, I approached the bed on which François Xavier lay; and, finding him in a very pitiful condition, I covered his face with my handkerchief and leaned my head on the pillow, unable to speak to him.

Those who labor for the salvation of souls have as tender an affection for their Neophytes as mothers have for their children. This good and truly Christian Savage, turning towards me, said: "Nikanis, do not grieve; I die quite willingly. I do not fear death; I am weary of earth; I hope I shall go to Heaven." I leave you to imagine how these words le confessay. Monsieur le Gouuerneur, Monsieur le Cheualier de l'Isle, & quantité de nos François, se trouuerent presents à ceste action: Le malade ayant receu son Createur, ie priay encore qu'on allast querir les fainctes Huiles pour luy donner l'Extréme-Onction; pendant cés allées & venuës, ce bon Neophyte fit son action de grace à Dieu, & comme ie luy eut declaré qu'une Dame d'eminente qualité, Niepce dvn des plus grands du Royaume, auoit enuoyé ces bonnes Religieuses pour le secourir & tous les siens; ie ne pouuois luy faire entendre la grandeur de Monseigneur le Cardinal, & de Madame la Duchesse d'Aiguillō sous autres termes, il s'écria: Vous qui auez tout fait, donnez vostre Paradis à ce grand Capitaine, & payez bien au Ciel tous les biens que nous fait sa Niepce en terre. Vous estes tout bon, ayez encore pitié de celuy qui nous a logé, & tous nos enfans. Apres qu'il eut fait ses prières, ie luy demanday s'il fe souuenoit bien de cette grande veüe du Paradis, & de l'Enfer, qu'il auoit eu vn peu apres son Baptefme [86] il y a plus dvn an: ie luy recommanday sur tout qu'il fe donnast bien garde de mentir ayant l'ame sur le bord des léures, & nostre Seigneur encore present dans son cœur. Nikanis, il fe peut faire que ie n'ay pas dit vray, me fit-il, car ie t'ay dit que i'auois veu la demeure du grand Capitaine du Ciel; ie ne fçay pas si c'estoit sa mais-ō, mais ce que i'ay veu estoit si beau & si rauissant, que ie crû que c'estoit là la demeure, il n'y a rien de semblable en terre, i'ay encore ceste beauté si imprimée en l'esprit, que ie ne croy pas en perdre iamais la memoire. En fin nous luy donnafmes l'Extréme-Onction, qu'il receut avec de grands ressentimēts de douleur d'auoir offensé pierced my [85] heart. Seeing that he was greatly oppressed, I begged the Fathers who were present to bring him the holy Viaticum; and, while they went for it, I heard his confession. Monsieur the Governor, Monsieur the Chevalier de l'Isle, and many of our Frenchmen were present at this rite. The sick man having received his Creator, I again requested that the holy Oil be brought, to administer Extreme Unction to him. During all this going and coming, the good Neophyte said his act of thanksgiving to God; and when I told him that a Lady of high degree, the Niece of one of the greatest men in the Kingdom, had sent these good Nuns to succor him and all his people,—I could not make him comprehend the greatness of Monseigneur the Cardinal and of Madame the Duchess d'Aiguillon by any other terms,—he exclaimed: “ You who have made all, give your Paradise to that great Captain, and pay well in Heaven for all the gifts that his Niece has bestowed upon us on earth. You are all goodness; have likewise pity on him who has lodged us and all our children.” After he had said his prayers, I asked him if he remembered well the glorious vision of Paradise and of Hell that he had had shortly after his Baptism, [86] over a year ago. I advised him above all to be careful not to tell a falsehood, with his soul hovering on his lips, and our Lord still present in his heart. “ Nikanis,” he said to me, “ it may be that I did not tell the truth when I told thee that I had seen the dwelling of the great Captain of Heaven. I do not know whether it was his house; but what I saw was so beautiful and so ravishing that I thought it was his house. There is nothing like it on earth. That beauty is still so impressed

Dieu. Comme il voyoit bon nôbre de nos François prians Dieu pour luy à genoux à l'entour de son liet, il esleua sa voix, & leur dit: Mes amis, vous me faites plaisir de me visiter, & de prier Dieu pour moy; ie vous affeure que si ie vay au Ciel, comme i'espere, ie le prieray pour vous: Ces paroles & la deuotion de ce bon Sauvage en toucha plusieurs iusques aux larmes, nous n'attendions pas de voir ces cōuerstions de nos iours. Ce n'est pas tout, à quelque tēps de la, il fit venir ses enfans, qui se ietterent [87] à genoux aupres de son liet, luy demanderent pardon, & le prierent de leur donner sa benediction, il leur donna de tres bons conseils, leur recommanda la perseuerance en la Foy, leur enioignit de nous obeir, comme à luy-mesme, de viure en paix & en amitié lvn avec l'autre, & de ne rien mettre dans la fosse apres sa mort; puis faisant le signe de la Croix sur eux, il leur dit: Adieu mes enfans, ie prieray pour vous en Paradis.

Quelque temps apres, cōme ie le visitois, ie luy demanday ce qu'il pensoit; ie pense en Dieu, me fit-il, mon cœur est toufiours en luy, ie tasche de faire cōme vous; il me semble que vous pensez toufiours en luy, ie veux faire le même, quel subiect de confusion a vn cœur lâche comme le mien.

A même temps que cecy fe passoit, sa femme accoucha toute feule sâs ayde d'aucune personne, elle accoucha le matin, & fur le midy ie la vey trauailler, elle s'estoit retirée sous vne méchâte écorce qui ne l'abrioit d'aucun vent; à deux iours de là elle porta elle-mesme son enfant à Kebec pour estre baptisé, mais pour augmenter l'affliction de ceste Famille, ceste pauure creature tomba bien-tost apres en phrenesie, qui [88] luy dura quelque temps; de l'heure que upon my mind that I do not think I shall ever lose the recollection of it." Finally, we administered Extreme Unction, which he received with deep feelings of regret for having offended God. Observing many of our Frenchmen praying to God for him, on their knees around his bed, he raised his voice and said to them: " My friends, you do me a pleasure by visiting me and praying God for me. I assure you that if I go to Heaven, as I hope, I will pray for you." These words and the devoutness of the good Savage moved many of them to tears. We did not expect to see such conversions in our time. That is not all; some time afterward, he had his children brought; they fell [87] on their knees by his bed, begged his pardon, and asked him to give them his blessing. He gave them very good advice; counseled them to persevere in the Faith; enjoined them to obey us as they would himself, to live in peace and friendship with one another, and to put nothing in his grave after his death. Then, making the sign of the Cross over them, he said: " Adieu, my children; I will pray for you in Paradise."

Some time afterward, when I visited him, I asked him of what he was thinking. " I am thinking of God," he said; " my heart is ever with him. I try to do like you; it seems to me that you always think of him; I wish to do the same." What a source of confusion for a cowardly heart like mine!

At the same time that this was occurring, his wife was delivered of a child, all alone, and without the assistance of any one. She was confined in the morning, and at noon I saw her working.¹² She had withdrawn into a miserable bark hut, which did not shelter her at all from the wind. Two days afterwards, i'ecry cecy, elle eft en fon bon fens, mais nous fommes encor dans l'incertitude de la fanté ou de la mort de fon pauure mary.

Reuenons à nostre autre Neophyte Noël Negabamat, fi tost qu'il ne fe fentit frappé de la maladie, il me dit: Nikanis, ie m'en vais à la mort aussi bien que les autres, cōme ie l'exhortois à diuertir fon esprit de ceste pensée, il fe mit à rire; Cela feroit bon, dit-il, fi ie craignois la mort; nous autres qui croyons en Dieu ne la deuōs pas craindre: Tu fçais bien, adiousta-il, que plufieurs Sauuages croyent que vous eftes les Autheurs des maladies qui nous fōt mourir; fois affeuré que ceux qui ont la foy n'ont point ces penfées; souuiène toy feulement de tenir ta parole, & d'auoir pitié de nos enfans apres nostre mort, ie ne parle pas pour moy, car les miens font morts, ou peu s'en faut, mais pour François Xauier, il ne faut point perdre la refolutiō que tu as prié d'arrester les Sauuages: Là deffus, il me nomma vne Famille, & me dit, quand ie feray mort, ceste Famille prendra ma place. Pour les presēs que nostre Roy no⁹ a faits, le fils de Frāçois portera l'habit de fon pere quand on fera quelques prieres publiques [89] pour le Roy, & vn tel Sauuage qu'il me nomma portera le mien; cōferue touſiours ces habits, afin que nos descēdans fçachēt combien le Roy nous a aymez. Ie vous cōfesse que ie fus bien étōné quand i'entendis tenir ce langage à ce pauure homme; fa maladie n'a pas eſté fi forte ny fi preffante que celle des autres. Le Pere de Quen qui visite fouuentefois le iour les malades de l'Hofpital, me mande que ce bon Neophyte s'eſt confeffé & communié, & qu'on eſpere qu'il retournera bien-toſt en fa maison à Sillery, mais que fa femme eſt retom-

she herself carried her child to Kebec to have it baptized; but — to increase the affliction of this Family — the poor creature was shortly after seized with a frenzy, which [88] lasted some time. As I write this, she is in her right senses, but we are still in uncertainty regarding the health or death of her poor husband.

Let us return to our other Neophyte, Noël Negabamat. As soon as he felt himself attacked by the disease, he said to me, "Nikanis, I am going to my death, like the others." When I urged him to divert his mind from that thought, he began to smile. "That would do," he said, "if I feared death. We who believe in God should not fear it. Thou knowest well," he added, "that many Savages believe that you are the Authors of the diseases which cause our death; rest assured that those who have faith have not such thoughts. Remember only to keep thy word, and to have pity on our children after our death. I do not speak for myself, because mine are dead or nearly so, but for François Xavier. Thou must not abandon the resolution thou hast taken to make the Savages settle." Thereupon he mentioned to me a Family, and said: "When I am dead, that Family will take my place. As for the presents that our King has given us, the son of François will wear his father's coat when any public prayers are said [89] for the King, and such a Savage"—whom he named—"will wear mine. Keep these garments always so that our descendants may know how much the King has loved us." I must confess that I was indeed astonished when I heard the poor man use this language. His illness has not been as severe or as violent as that of the others. Father de Quen, who visits the sick in the Hospital several times a bée, & qu'elle est en danger de mort. Voila d'étranges épreuves, mais pour vne marque assurée que, Non eſt malum in Ciuitate, quod non fecerit Dominus, que Dieu eſt l'Autheur de ces afflictions: C'eſt que la foy de ces nouueaux Chreſtiēs que nous penſiōs deuoir eſtre ébrâlée dans les tempeſtes, a fait comme les arbres qui iettent de plus profondes racines, plus ils font combattus des vents; elle s'eſt affermie iufques à nous confoler ſenſiblement dans les plus viues fources de noſtre douleur.

Enfin nous esperons le calme apres ceste bourasque, dieu ne démolit point que pour mieux rebaſtir. Vous diriez que ces calamitez [90] attirent les Sauuages. Je me tiens desia comme assuré que nous en aurons au double & au triple l'an prochain, ſi nous auons de quoy les affiſter; ils nous ont donné leurs paroles, & desia quelques-vns ce font r'approchez en attēdant que le froid diſſipe le mauuais air que les malades ont apporté avec eux. I'espere que deuant que les vaiffeaux foient arriuez en France, que noſtre petit troupeau fe r'afſemblaſſera, & fe trouuera accreu de plus de personnes qu'il n'en eſt mort. Ainsi foit-il.

day, tells me that this good Neophyte has made his confession and received communion, and that they hope he will soon return to his house at Sillery; but that his wife has had a relapse, and is in danger of death. These are strange trials, but are a sure proof that Non est malum in Civitate, quod non fecerit Dominus, that God is the Author of these afflictions. For the faith of these new Christians, which we thought would be shaken by storms, has been like the trees which strike root more deeply, the more they have struggled with the winds. It has become so firm as to afford us much consolation in the very sources of our deepest sorrow.

Finally, we hope for calm after this storm. God demolishes only to rebuild better than before. One would say that these calamities [90] attract the Savages. I am already assured that we shall have twice and three times as many next year if we have the means of assisting them. They have given us their word, and some have already come nearer to us, waiting till the cold dispels the infection that the sick have brought with them. I hope that, before the ships reach France, our little flock will be gathered together again, and will be increased by a larger number of persons than have died. So may it be.

[91] CHAPT. VI.

DU BAPTESME D'VN IEUNE HOMME ALGONQUIN.

LE couchay bien amplement dans la Relation de l'an passé les grandes dispositions de ce ieune homme, lequel n'estant encor que cathecumene, ne paroiffoit defja réply des graces bien particulières que Dieu accorde à ceux qui font lauez dans le fang de son Fils. Je ne m'estonneray pas si apres auoir si souuent parlé des grandes simplicitez de ces peuples, ils se trouuent en France quelqu'un qui reuoque en doute les biens que nous en publions, puisque moy mesme qui voit les merueilles de mes yeux, ne les puis quasi croire qu'en faisant reflexion sur la grandeur de Dieu, Qui non est personarum acceptor, qui dvn berger en fait vn grand Roy & vn grand Prophete, dvn pecheur vn grand Apostre, & dvn Sauvage vn Ange de son Eglise. Ce ieune homme dont nous parlons voyant l'A'utomne passé que nous retardions son Baptesme, prit resolution de s'en aller avec [92] vne escoüade de ses gens chercher quelque prouision dans l'espaisseur de leurs grandes Forests; il ne fut pas bien loing, que son cœur transi de crainte, le fit rebrousser chemin: ie ne scaurois plus, nous fit il, m'esloigner de vous, que ie ne fois baptisé. Quand ie iette les yeux sur les pechez que i'ay commis depuis que ie suis au monde, & que ie me reprefente le Baptesme comme vn bain qui les doit lauer, ie ne scaurois quitter ceux qui me doiuent conferer vn si

OF THE BAPTISM OF A YOUNG ALGONQUIN MAN.

I DESCRIBED very fully in the Relation of last year the excellent inclinations of this young man, who, as yet only a catechumen, seems already furnished with the very special graces that God grants to those who are washed in the blood of his Son. I shall not be astonished, if, after having so often spoken of the great simplicity of these peoples, there be some one in France who calls in question the good things that we publish about them; since I myself, who see the wonders with my own eyes, can hardly believe them until I reflect upon the greatness of God, Qui non est personarum acceptor, who of a shepherd makes a great King and a great Prophet, of a fisher a great Apostle, and of a Savage an Angel of his Church. This young man of whom we speak, when he saw last Autumn that we delayed his Baptism, decided to go away with [92] a company of his people into the depths of their great Forests, to seek for provisions. He had not gone very far when his heart was chilled with fear, which caused him to retrace his steps. "I cannot leave you any more," he said to us, "until I am baptized. When I cast my eyes over the sins I have committed since I have been in the world, and when I represent to myself Baptism as a bath that shall wash them away, I cannot leave those who are to confer so great a blessing upon me; I have resolved to remain here until you grand bien, i'ay resolu de demeurer icy iufques à ce que vous m'ayez ouuert les portes de l'Eglise. Nous le remismes à la Feste de tous les Saincts. Dans cette attente comme il nous visitoit souuent, & que par fois nous le faisions manger en nostre maison, il nous tint vne fois ce discours. Mes compatriotes s'imagineroit peut estre que ie vous viens voir pour tirer de vous quelques commoditez temporelles, & peut estre encor vous autres pourriez vous auoir cette pensée, mais ie vous supplie de croire que ie ne vous demande rien, & que ie n'attēds de vous que la seule instruction de mon ame, si Dieu paroiffoit çà bas en terre, ie vous quitterois là pour l'aller trouuer, ou plustost ie [93] vous inuiterois de le venir recognoistre avec moy, car vous estes l'ouurage de ses mains, comme tout le reste des autres creatures: mais puisque Dieu ne se fait pas voir en terre, & que nous n'auons pas la cognissance de ses volontez, il faut de necessité que nous visitions & que nous importunions ceux qui nous la peuuent donner.

Vne autrefois il nous parla en ces termes: Mon cœur est fait d'vne autre façon qu'il n'estoit il y a quelque temps, car auparauant que ie vous eusse cogneu, i'employoys tout mon esprit a rechercher les commoditez de cette vie; à peine estois-ie en vn endroit, que ie penfois trouuer mieux en vn autre; maintenant en quelque lieu que ie transperte mon corps, mon ame demeure tousiours avec vous, elle n'a point de repos qu'en vos discours; iamais elle ne se lasse de vous oüir parler de Dieu, nos cabanes me semblent des maisons estranges; & encor que ie fçache que Dieu est par tout, neantmoins il me semble que ie suis plus près de luy quand ie ne suis pas esloigné have opened to me the doors of the Church." We put him off until all Saints' Day. While thus waiting, as he came to see us frequently, and as we sometimes had him eat in our house, he once made this speech to us: "My countrymen would imagine, perhaps, that I visit you for the sake of obtaining temporal benefits, and it may be that even you have this idea; but I beg you to believe that I ask nothing from you, and that all I expect from you is only the instruction of my soul. If God appeared down here on earth, I would leave you straightway to go and find him,—or rather, I [93] would invite you to come with me to acknowledge him, for you are the work of his hands, as are all other creatures; but as God does not appear upon earth, and as we have no knowledge of his wishes, we must of necessity visit and importune those who can give us this knowledge."

Another time, he spoke to us in these terms: "My heart is different now from what it was some time ago, for, before I knew you, I employed all my wits in seeking the comforts of this life; I had hardly reached one place, before I thought I would be better off in another. Now, wherever I remove my body, my soul remains always with you; it has no rest but in your conversation,—it never wearies of hearing you talk about God. Our cabins seem to me like houses of strangers; and although I know that God is everywhere, yet it seems to me that I am nearer him when I am not far from you. Some of my people cast upon me the reproach that I am becoming a Frenchman, that I am leaving my own nation; [94] and I answer them that I am neither Frenchman nor savage, but that I wish to be a child de vous. Quelques-vns de mes gens me reprochent que ie deuiens françois, que ie quitte ma nation [94] & ie leur respons, que ie ne suis ny françois, ny fauusage, mais que ie veux estre enfant de Dieu. Tous les François ny leur Capitaine ne sçauroient sauuer mon ame, ce n'est pas en eux que ie crois, mais en celuy qui les a fait eux mesmes. Il nous tint ces discours en meilleurs termes en fa langue, que ie ne les rapporte en la nostre.

Le voyant tres-mal couvert dans vn froid fort picquant, ie luy demanday s'il n'auoit point d'autre robbe que celle qu'il portoit: Ton frere, me fit-il, m'en a donné vne il y a desia long-temps, mais ie ne la porte point pour deux raifons. Premierement ie crains mon corps, si ie luy donne ses aifes, & que ie le couure chaudement, il me follicitera de luy procurer tousiours le mesme bien; & si ie ne le puis recouurer [sc. recourrir] par mon industrie, il m'induira doucemēt à vous frequenter plustost pour son bien particulier, que pour le salut de mon ame, c'est ce qui m'a fait refoudre de ne me point feruir de vos prefens.

Secondement si ie me montre affectionné à vos dons, ie feray incessamment importuné d'vne femme qui n'a guiere d'esprit, laquelle me pressera de tirer de vous tout ce qu'elle croira que vostre bonté me [95] pourra accorder. De là vient que i'ay pris resolution de mépriser mon corps pour mieux penfer aux biens de mon esprit.

Au commencement, disoit-il, que i'allois voir vos Peres qui sont aux trois Riuieres; ie penfois à part moy, peut-estre, que ces gens cy s'imaginent que ie les vient voir soubs esperance de quelque secours of God. All the French, including their Captain, could not save my soul; it is not in them that I believe, but in him who has made them themselves." He made this speech to us in better terms in his own language than I can report in ours.

Seeing him very thinly clad, in the piercing cold, I asked him if he had no other robe than that he wore. "Thy brother," he replied, "gave me one a long time ago; but I do not wear it, for two reasons. First, I fear that my body, if I supply it with comforts and cover it warmly, will be always urging me to procure for it the same good things; and if I cannot cover it by my own skill, it will gradually lead me to frequent your society for its own special benefit, rather than for the salvation of my soul. This has made me resolve not to make use of your presents.

"Secondly, if I show myself desirous of your gifts, I shall be continually importuned by a woman who has very little sense, who will urge me to get from you all that she will think your goodness [95] can grant me. Hence I have made a resolution to disregard my body, that I may better reflect upon the welfare of my soul.

"At first, when I went to see you Fathers at the three Rivers," he continued, "I thought to myself, 'Perhaps these people imagine that I come to see them in the hope of some temporal help; they are greatly mistaken,' said I in my heart; 'it is not my body that brings me here, but the desire of saving my soul.' I was thinking of the good things of the other life, and not of the comforts of this one that we lead here on earth." Let us speak of his Baptism.

temporel; ils se trompent bien, disois-ie en mon cœur, ce n'est pas mon corps qui m'ameine icy, mais le desir de sauuer mon ame, ie penfois aux biens de l'autre vie, & non pas aux commoditez de celle-cy que nous menons en terre. Parlons de son Baptefme.

Il s'y disposa de longue main par de grands desirs d'estre fait enfant de Dieu & de son Eglise, & par de grands regrets de ses offenses; il admirroit les effets de ce Sacrement que nous luy auions expliqué, il souhaittoit d'en auoir la ioüissance. En fin le iour destiné s'approchant, il ieufna la veille, nous le menasmes à Kebec pour y receuoir ce Sacrement en la prefence de nos François. Là il fut nommé Ignace par Monsieur Gand son Parrain. Sa modestie accompagnée d'une faincte liberté luy faisoit respondre avec grace & franchise [96] à toutes les interrogations qu'on luy fit. Il fut baptisé le Dimanche dernier iour d'Octobre, & le lendemain iour confacré à l'honneur de tous les faincts, il se communia publiquement en la Chappelle de Kebec, les occupations que nous auons en ce temps-là furent cause que ie ne pûs pas si-tost l'interroger des sentimens que Dieu luy auoit donné dans la reception de ces deux grands Sacremens. Je le fis deux iours apres par maniere de discours, luy demandant si son cœur n'auoit point ressenty de ioye dans son Baptefme: Sa face s'épanoüit à ceste demande, & son ame goustant vne autrefois les contêtemens qu'elle auoit receuë en ces mysteres sacrez, fit sortir ces paroles de sa bouche. Estant à la porte de l'Eglise où on fait demeurer les Cathecumènes devant leur Baptefme, il m'estoit à voir qu'on me tenoit là pour cognoistre ma dernière volonté, & pour fçauoir si ie croyois, & si en effect ie voulois estre Chrestien;

He had been long prepared for this through his strong desires to be made a child of God and of his Church, and through his deep regret for his offenses; he admired the effects of this Sacrament that we had explained to him, he wished to have the enjoyment of it. In fine, the appointed day drawing near, he fasted on the evening before; we took him down to Kebec, that he might there receive this Sacrament in the presence of our French people. He was then named Ignace by Monsieur Gand, his Godfather. His modesty, accompanied by a holy freedom, made him answer gracefully and frankly [96] all the questions that were put to him. He was baptized on Sunday, the last day of October; and the next day, a day consecrated in honor of all the saints, he took communion publicly in the Chapel of Kebec. On account of the occupations that we had at that time, I could not immediately question him upon the sentiments that God had imparted to him in the reception of these two great Sacraments. I did so two days afterwards, in a sort of talk I had with him, asking him if his heart had not experienced joy in his Baptism. His face brightened at this question; and his soul, tasting once more the delights it had experienced in these sacred mysteries, caused his lips to utter these words: "While at the door of the Church, where they have the Catechumens remain before their Baptism, I could see that they were keeping me there in order to learn my final wishes, and to know whether I believed, and whether I really wished to be a Christian. My heart felt a strong impulse to enter quickly into the house of God, as if some one forcibly incited me to do a thing to which all my inclinations prompted me."

mon cœur fentoit vne grande preffe d'entrer vistement dans la maison de Dieu, comme si quelqu'un m'eust incité viuement à faire vne chose à laquelle toute mon affection estoit portée.

[97] Je prenois vn singulier plaisir à toutes les interrogations qu'on me faisoit; Je difois en moy-mesme, en fin Dieu a eu pitié de moy, en fin la porte me fera ouverte, ie ferois bien-tost de la famille des croyās, & de la nation des enfans de Dieu: Quand on m'imprimoit le signe de la croix au front, il me fembloit que le diable s'enfuyoit, & qu'il n'auroit plus dorenauant de pouuoir fur moy. Comme on me fit entrer en l'Eglise, ie m'estonnois comme ie ne descendois point plustost dans les enfers, tous mes pechez se representans à ma memoire, mais ie prenois vn si grand plaisir qu'ils s'en alloient tous s'effacer en vn moment, que ie ne scaurois l'expliquer, ie m'estonnois comme Dieu m'auoit tant attendu pour me faire tant de biens tout en vn coup. Tout aussi-tost qu'on eut verfé les eaux Sacrées fur ma teste, mon cœur se sentit tout changé. En effect il est tout autre qu'il n'estoit, car depuis ce temps-là il me semble qu'il n'attend pas que le peché vienne iusques à luy dans les occasions de mal faire: mais vous diriez qu'il fort hors de moy pour aller au deuant des chofes mauuaises, pour les repousser & les esloigner avec vne telle [98] force, qu'il m'est aduis que ce n'est pas moy qui resiste. Il me semble aussi que ie suis deuenu comme sourd & aueugle, car ie ne prend point garde à ce qui se passe deuant moy. Hier il le fit vn grand bruit dans nostre cabane, les enfans faisoient vn tel tintamarre que tous mes gens s'en fascherent, & se mirent à crier & faire plus de bruit que les enfans mesmes, ie ne prenois

[97] “ I took a singular pleasure in all the questions that were asked me, saying to myself, ‘ At last God has had pity on me; at last the door will be open to me, and I shall soon be of the family of believers, and of the nation of the children of God! ’ When the sign of the cross was pressed upon my forehead, it seemed to me that the Devil fled, and that he would henceforward no longer have power over me. When they had me enter the Church, I was astonished that I did not rather descend into hell, all my sins again presenting themselves to my remembrance; but I took so much pleasure in this, that they all were to be blotted out in a moment, that I cannot explain it; I was astonished that God had waited so long to grant me so many blessings, all at one stroke. At once, as soon as they had poured the Sacred waters upon my head, my heart felt itself completely changed. In fact, it is altogether different from what it was; for since that time it seems to me that it does not wait for sin to come to it, on occasions for wrongdoing,—but you might say that it leaves me to go and meet evil things, to repulse and drive them away, with such [98] force that I am inclined to think it is not I who resist. It seems to me also that I have become deaf and blind, as it were, for I do not take any notice of what happens in my presence. Yesterday there was a great noise in our cabin,—the children made such a din that all my people were angry, and began to cry out and make more noise than the children themselves; I was not conscious of all this until they informed me of it. Indeed, I even began to wonder if I were not becoming deaf, until I perceived clearly that my heart was speaking to me so forcibly that I could not point garde à tout cela, si on ne m'en eut aduerty; si bien qu'il me vint vne pensée si ie ne deuenoys point fourd, mais ie m'apperceu bien que mon cœur me parloit si fort que ie n'escoutois point les creatures. Magnus Dominus & magnitudinis eius non est finis. O que Dieu est grand, & qu'il est bon; si les Sauuages pouuoient tirer ces pensées & ces sentimens d'un autre endroit que du Liure viuant, qui est Iefus-Christ, ie douterois s'ils difent vray, mais ils n'ont ny liure imprimé ny escrit à la main, & quand ils en auroient, ils n'y cognoissent rien, ils n'ont commercé avec aucun homme de la terre qui leur puissent donner ces penfées, c'est ce qui me fait dire que cette diuine source de lumiere & d'amour verfe par foy mesme, ou par le ministere des bons Anges, ces faintes [99] pensées, & ses doux sentimens dans des cœurs iadis remplis de barbarie, & maintenant possedez de Dieu.

Pour la Communion, comme on commença de l'instruire sur ce mystere vrayment adorable, il s'écria tout remply d'étonnement, ô Sauuages, ferez vous tousiours des chiens; n'aurez-vous iamais d'autre nourriture que celles des chiens: Et comme on luy recommandoit de ne point declarer cette doctrine à ses compatriotes, qui n'ont pas encor la Foy: Non, non, fit-il, ne craignez point, ie fçay bien qu'ils ne font pas tous capables de ce que vous m'enseignez: C'est pourquoy ie ne leur dy rien que ce qu'il faut dire à des fols pour les guerir de leur maladie: Cette responce non attendue nous fit rire, car il la donnoit avec affez de grace & de candeur. Comme il voulut s'approcher de cette table, Monsieur Gand le Parrain le conduisant, Dieu luy donna vn grand sentiment hear creatures." Magnus Dominus, et magnitudinis ejus non est finis. Oh, how great is God, and how good he is! If the Savages could derive these thoughts and these sentiments from any other source than from the living Book, which is Jesus Christ, I would doubt if they are speaking sincerely; but they have neither printed book nor writing in their possession,—and, if they had these, they would understand nothing therein, for they have no intercourse with any man on earth who could give them these ideas. It is this that makes me say that this divine fountain of light and of love pours, of itself, or rather through the ministry of good Angels, these holy [99] thoughts and these gentle sentiments into hearts heretofore filled with barbarism, and now possessed by God.

As for Communion, when they began to instruct him upon this truly adorable mystery, he cried out, in utter astonishment, "O Savages, will you always be dogs,—will you never have any other nourishment than that of dogs?" And as he was recommended not to declare this doctrine to his compatriots, who do not yet possess the Faith,—"No, no," he replied, "do not fear, I know very well that they are not all capable of understanding what you teach me. Hence I say nothing to them, except what must be said to madmen to cure them of their disease." This unexpected answer made us laugh, for he gave it with considerable grace and candor. As he was about to approach this table, led by Monsieur Gand, his Godfather, God imparted to him a deep sentiment of humility. "It seemed to me," said he, "that I was only a poor little flea, and I was surprised that so great a Captain consented to enter the heart of so insignificant a creature. I felt, neverd'humilité: Il me sembloit, disoit-il, que ie n'estoys qu'vne pauure petite puce, & ie m'estonnois qu'vn si grand Capitaine voulut entrer dans le cœur d'vn si petit animal, ie ressentois neantmoins vn si grand desir de m'approcher de luy, que ie ne le [100] scaurois declarer. Il apportoit cette comparaifon, si on retenoit long-temps vn homme dans vn païs estranger esloigné de ses parens & de ses amis, si apres auoir esté bien tourmenté, il trouuoit moyen d'euader & de retourner en sa patrie, avec quelle affection s'y porteroit-il, de quel doux plaisir ne ioüiroit-il pas à la veuë de ses parens & de ses amis? Voila comme estoit mon ame, il me sembloit qu'elle sortoit d'vne rude captiuité, & qu'elle courroit de toutes ses forces apres celuy qu'elle alloit receuoir, & nonobstant toute son ardeur, il luy sembloit qu'on la pressoit encor interieurement de s'approcher de luy quand elle l'eut receu, elle se trouua contente & satisfaite comme vne personne qui n'a plus rien à souhaitter. Regi sæculorum immortali soli Deo honor & gloria, amen. Quel le Dieu des Dieux soit à iamais beny. Ie ne m'attendois pas de voir le reste de mes iours des effets si puissans de sa grace dans le cœur d'vn barbare. Toutes les peines qu'on a prises, toutes les despences qu'on a faites pour le salut des Sauuages, font plus que suffisamment payez par la conuersion de ce feul homme. Passeons outre.

Depuis son Baptefme, il a mené vne [101] vie conforme à ces graces, en voicy quelques preuues. Les Algonquins de l'Isle qui font ses compatriotes, estans descendus en grand nombre aux trois Riuieres, il se mit à les instruire avec vne telle ardeur, que ses gens le tindrent suspect, si bien que quelques-vns le southeless, so great a desire to draw near to him, that I [100] cannot express it.' He made use of this comparison: "If a man were kept for a long time in a strange country, far from his relatives and friends; and if, after having been cruelly tormented, he found means of escaping and returning to his native land,—with what delight would he betake himself thither, what sweet pleasure would he not enjoy at the sight of his kindred and friends? Such was the condition of my soul; it seemed to me that it emerged from a harsh captivity, and that it was running with all its might after him whom it was going to receive; and, notwithstanding all its ardor, it seemed to it that it was still being urged from within to approach him. When it had received him, it became contented and satisfied, like a person who has nothing more to wish for." Regi sæculorum immortali soli Deo honor et gloria, amen. May the God of Gods be forever blessed. I did not expect to see, during the rest of my days, so powerful effects of his grace in the heart of a barbarian. All the trouble that has been taken, all the expenses that have been incurred for the salvation of the Savages, are more than sufficiently repaid by the conversion of this one man. Let us pass on.

Since his Baptism, he has led a [101] life conformable to these graces; of this, here are some proofs. The Algonquins of the Island, who are his fellow-countrymen, having come down in great numbers to the three Rivers, he began to instruct them with so much zeal, that his people looked upon him with suspicion,—so much, that some suspected him of allying himself with us to make them die. They spied out all his actions, and watched where he went, approaching him only with fear, as if he were a Necropçonneerent de s'allier avec nous pour les faire mourir. Ils espiaient toutes ses actions, prenoient garde où il alloit, ne l'abordant qu'en crainte, comme on feroit vn Negromantien. On ne l'inuitoit plus aux festins comme vn tres-meschant homme, dont ils se défioient, c'est vn déshonneur estans parmy eux que d'estre exclus de ces banquets, mais il ne s'en mettoit guiere en peine; bref ie cognoissois l'amour ou l'auersiō que qu'elqu'vn auoit de nostre creance par le bon ou mauuais visage qu'on luy portoit, ayant cette consolation la plus douce qu'un homme puisse auoir en ce monde de fe voir aymé ou hay pour Iefus-Christ. En fin les faux bruits que le Diable femoit contre la Doctrine de Iefus-Christ se dissipans, ceux qui auoient quelque desir de leur salut l'escoutoient volontiers. Il preschoit avec vne liberté vrayment apostolique, reprenoit hardiment [102] les vices deuant les plus apparens & les plus orgueilleux de sa nation.

Qui pensons nous estre, disoit-il vn iour, voulez-vous que ie vous declare qu'elle est vostre grandeur? Il prenoit vn pois chiche en sa main, & le tenant suspendu sur vn grand brasier, il s'escrioit; voila ce que nous sommes entre les mains de Dieu. Si ce pois que ie tiens de mes deux doigts s'en orgueillissoit, s'il estoit capable de receuoir mon commandement, & qu'il me refusast obeissance, s'il me disoit qu'il n'a que faire de moy qui le soustiens au deffus de ce feu, ne meriteroit-il pas que ie le laissaffe tomber dans ce brasier. Voila ce que nous deuons attendre de la main de Dieu qui nous soustient & qui nous conserue, si nous refusons d'embrasser la Foy & d'obeyr à ses volontez.

Il trauailloit iour & nuict pour la conuersion de ces mancer. They no longer invited him to the feasts,—as if he were a very wicked man, whom they mistrusted. It is a dishonor, when one is among them, to be excluded from these banquets; but he gave himself very little concern thereat. In short, I recognized the love or the aversion that people had for our belief, by the pleasant or evil looks they cast upon him,—he having this consolation, the sweetest that a man can have in this world, of seeing himself loved or hated for Jesus Christ. Finally,—the false reports that the Devil scattered against the Doctrine of Jesus Christ, having passed away,—those who felt some desire for their salvation listened willingly. He preached with a truly apostolic freedom, boldly rebuking [102] their vices before the most prominent and the proudest of his nation.

“Who do we think we are?” he said one day. “Do you wish me to proclaim what your greatness is?” He took a chick-pea in his hand, and, holding it suspended over a large brazier, he exclaimed, “Behold what we are in the hands of God! If this pea I hold with my two fingers should become full of pride,—if it were capable of receiving my commandments, and should refuse to obey me; if it told me that it had nothing to do with me, who am holding it over this fire,—would it not deserve that I should let it fall into this brazier? Now this is what we must expect from the hand of God who sustains and preserves us, if we refuse to embrace the Faith and to obey his wishes.”

He worked day and night for the conversion of these poor people, he strove with God, with us, and with them. He offered tearful prayers; he went into the depths of the woods, and there inflicted chaspauures gens, il agiffoit & aupres de Dieu, & aupres de nous, & aupres d'eux. Il faisoit des oraisons pleines de larmes, s'en alloit dans le fond du bois, & là prenoit vn chastiment sur son corps avec des ronces pour attirer la misericorde de Dieu, & appaiser sa colere contre son peuple.

[103] Il nous venoit auertir de ceux qui estoient mieux dispofez, & nous donnoit aduis comme il fe falloit comporter en leur endroit. Helas, leur disoit-il, par fois s'il ne tenoit qu'à donner ma vie pour vostre salut, que ie le ferois volontiers; Quand il veit que la necessité les contraignit de s'esloigner de nous, les Nauires tardans trop à venir, il s'escroioit avec vn grand sentiment: Il me semble qu'on marrache les entrailles, faut-il que tant d'ames se perdent faute de secours, le Diable qui ne les a pas creés fera-il touſiours leur maistre; Les Hiroquois leurs ennemis leur venans faire la guerre, il dit au Pere qui l'auoit particulierement instruit aux trois Riuieres, qu'il falloit faire paroistre que ceux qui estoient baptifez n'estoient point poltrons, que Dieu leur donnoit du courage. Il se confessa, puis alla recognoistre l'ennemy, l'approchant de ſi pres, qui luy eut peu parler. Iamais on ne le veit trouble, ny iamais faſi de crainte, il leur reprocha par apres que le peu de cōfiance qu'ils auoient eu en Dieu les auoit perdu.

Les Sauuages font fort liberaux les vns enuers les autres, mais ils font leurs prefens à leurs parens ou à leurs amis, ou à [104] ceux dont ils esperent le reciprocque. Nostre Neophyte ayant fait quelque bonne chaffe, ou quelque bonne pesche, partage les malades & les pauures neceſſiteux tous les premiers.

Il auoit vne ſœur qu'il aymoit vniquement, il taftisement upon his body with thorns, in order to draw down the mercy of God, and to appease his anger against his people.

[103] He came to inform us of those who were more favorably disposed, and to advise us as to how we should behave towards them. "Alas," he sometimes said to them, "if it were only a matter of giving my life for your salvation, how willingly I would do it!" When he saw that necessity constrained them to leave us, the Ships delaying their arrival too long, he exclaimed with deep feeling: "It seems as if my entrails were being torn out; must so many souls be lost for lack of help? Will the Devil, who did not create them, always be their master?" The Hiroquois, their enemies, coming to make war upon them, he said to the Father who had especially instructed him at the three Rivers, that he must show that those who were baptized were not cowards, that God gave them courage. He confessed, then went to reconnoitre the enemy, approaching so near them that he might have spoken to them. He was never seen to be disturbed, nor seized with fear; he reproached them afterwards, saying that the little confidence they had had in God had ruined them.

The Savages are very liberal to one another; but they make their presents to their relatives or their friends, or to [104] those from whom they expect reciprocal favors. Our Neophyte, when he is successful in hunting or fishing, shares, first of all, with the sick and needy poor.

He had a sister whom he singularly loved. He endeavored to procure Baptism for her; but, before this blessing could reach her, she died, having gone away from the place where she could receive this choit de luy procurer le Baptesme, mais deuant que ce bonheur luy arriuaſt elle mourut, ſ'eftant eſloignée du lieu où elle peut receuoir ce Sacrement; cela le troubla fort notamment de ce qu'elle eſtoit morte deuant que ſes pechez luy fuſſent pardonnez. Comme il eſtoit dans cette angoiffe, il s'approcha de la Communion, & fortant de la table, il eut cette penſée, ſi ma ſœur eſt damnée ce n'eſt pas la faute de Dieu, car il eſt tout bon, & n'a pas manqué de luy donner les moyens neceſſaires pour fe fauuer, c'eſt donc elle qui a failly de fon coſté: or puis qu'elle a refusé l'amitié de Dieu, ie ne la veux plus aymer, car ie ne veux point auoir d'autres amis que les amis de Dieu; ie ſuis de fon party. Depuis ce temps il perdit entièrement la memoire de cette ſœur qu'il auoit tant cherie.

Quelque iour apres cette mort, vn Sauuage fon beau frere l'abordant, luy fit beaucoup [105] de reproches de ce qu'à fon dire il ne luy faifoit point part des meubles de fa ſœur, dont il penſoit qu'il fut faifi: Tu dis, luy faifoit-il, que tu crois en Dieu, & cependant tu commets vne eſpece d'auarice ou de larcin, retenant pour toy feul ce qu'auoit ta ſœur, ſi tu croyois comme tu le dis, tu ne cōmettrois pas ces actions. Ignace entendant ce diſcours, & pluſieurs autres iniures & reproches que cét homme luy fit, repartit en cette forte fans fe troubler; Tu dis que ie croy en Dieu, tu le dis avec reproche, mais ie croy avec veſrité, & fi ie n'y croyois pas, ie te ferois bien reſſentir les iniures que tu me donne, mais ie t'affeure que mon cœur n'eſt point alteré, qu'il ne te veut aucun mal, & qu'il ſouffre avec plaisir tous ces reproches que tu m'as fait; il y a quelque temps que ie n'aurois pas enduré tes iniures, pour le prefent ie te donne Sacrament. This troubled him greatly, especially as she had died before her sins could be forgiven. While he was suffering this anguish, he approached the Communion; and upon leaving the table, this thought occurred to him, "If my sister is damned, it is not God's fault, for he is altogether good, and has not failed to give her the means necessary to save herself; it is, then, she who has failed on her part. Now, since she has refused the friendship of God, I will no longer love her, for I will have no other friends than the friends of God; I am on his side." Since that time, he is entirely losing the memory of this sister whom he had so greatly cherished.

A few days after this death, a Savage, his brother-in-law, addressed him, and bitterly [105] reproached him because, as he said, he did not share with him the belongings of his sister, of which he thought he had taken possession. "Thou sayest," he said to him, "that thou believest in God, and yet thou art guilty of a sort of avarice or theft, keeping for thyself alone what thy sister had; if thou didst believe as thou sayest, thou wouldest not do these things." Ignace, upon hearing this talk, and many other insults and reproaches that this man uttered against him, replied in this way, without any agitation: "Thou sayest that I believe in God, thou sayest it with reproaches; but I do truly believe, and, if I did not believe, I would make thee answer for the insults that thou offerest me. But I assure thee that my heart is not changed,—that it wishes thee no harm, and that it suffers with pleasure all these reproaches that thou hast uttered. There was a time when I would not have endured thy insults; for the present, I give thee my word that I not only do not wish thee parole, que non feulement ie ne te veux aucun mal, mais que ie prieray Dieu pour toy, & que dans les occasions ie te feray tout le plaisir qui me fera possible. Quand est du bagage de ma sœur, ie ne l'ay pas, fçache où elle l'a mis en depost, & l'emporte, i'aymerois mieux perdre tout ce que i'ay, que de te voir offenser [106] celuy qui à tout fait. Il disoit par fois au Pere qui l'a instruit plus particulierement; Mortifie moy en public deuant les autres, afin que ceux qui veulent estre baptifez fe persuadent qu'il faut exercer la vertu quand on est enfant de Dieu. Voila de grands effets de la grace. Que Dieu soit beny à iamais des hommes, & des Anges, des Schytes [sc. Scythes] & des Barbares, aussi bien que des Grecs. Ainsi soit-il.

any harm, but that I will pray to God for thee, and that, when there are opportunities, I will do thee all the good in my power. As to my sister's property, I have it not; find out where she deposited it, and take it away; I would rather lose all that I have, than to see thee offend [106] him who has made all." He said sometimes to the Father who has more particularly instructed him, " Mortify me in public before the others, so that those who wish to be baptized may persuade themselves that one must exercise virtue when one is a child of God." Behold the glorious effects of grace. May God be forever blessed by men and by Angels, by Scythians and Barbarians, as well as by Greeks. Amen.

DE LA CONUERSION D'VN CAPITAINE, & DE TOUTE
SA FAMILLE.

IL y a de deux sortes de Capitaines parmy les Sauvages, les vns le font par droit de naissance, les autres par eslection. Ces peuples ne font point si barbares qu'ils ne portent du respect aux descendants de leurs Chefs, si bien que si le fils d'un Capitaine a quelque conduite, sur tout s'il a quelque eloquence naturelle, il tiendra la place de son pere sans contredit. Celuy dont nous parlons, est Capitaine d'extraction, il est d'un bon sens, homme de courage; mais comme il n'a pas le babil en main, aussi n'est-il pas dans la souueraine gloire des Capitaines; ces barbares font bien souuent plus d'état d'un grand causeur que d'un homme de bon sens; ils honorent neantmoins celuy-cy, & l'ont en estime, luy deferant beaucoup en leurs conseils. Nous auons tâché vn fort long-temps de le gagner à Dieu, mais il nous faisoit toufiours [108] de la resistance. Un Sauvage voyant vn iour que nous pressions fort ce Capitaine d'embrasser la Foy, nous dit par apres en particulier, si celuy-là vous donne sa parole, tenez vous assurez qu'il croit, car il ne vous déguisera point sa pensée: en effect iamais il ne nous a donné grande esperance de sa conuersion, iusques à ce que Dieu l'a constraint de se rendre. Nous l'auions destiné pour estre le fondement & la base de la reduction de fainct Ioseph, [107] CHAPTER VII.

OF THE CONVERSION OF A CAPTAIN AND OF HIS ENTIRE FAMILY.

THERE are two kinds of Captains among the Savages,—those by right of birth, and those by election. These peoples are not so barbarous that they do not show respect to the descendants of their Chiefs,—so that, if the son of a Captain has some talent for leadership, above all, if he has natural eloquence, he will hold his father's place without opposition. The one of whom we speak is Captain by descent. He is a man of good sense, and courageous; but as he is not a ready speaker, he does not share in the sovereign glory of the Captains. These barbarians often place more value upon a great talker than upon a man of good sense. Nevertheless, they honor this one and hold him in esteem, deferring much to him in their councils. We have been trying a very long time to win him to God, but he has always offered us [108] resistance. A Savage, seeing us one day earnestly urging this Captain to embrace the Faith, said to us afterwards in private, “If that man gives you his word, rest assured that he believes, for he will not hide his sentiments from you.” In fact, he never gave us great hope for his conversion, until God constrained him to surrender himself. We had destined him to be the foundation and base of the reduction of saint Joseph, believing that he would stay in the house that was being built croyans qu'il s'arresteroit en la maison qu'on y faisoit bastir: Nous luy promettons du secours pour l'aider à defricher la terre; il nous prestoit assez l'oreille, escoutoit volontiers, notamment ce qui concerne l'autre vie, mais il n'auoit point de paroles pour nous répôdre: En fin nous luy auons demandé depuis son Baptefme d'où venoit qu'il faisoit tant le retif; peut-estre, luy disions-nous, que tu croyois que nous estions des menteurs; non pas cela, répondit-il, ie n'ay point douté de vos paroles ny de vos promeffes, mais ie vous diray franchement, que ie craignois que mes gens me tinsſent pour François; c'est pourquoi ie ne voulois point quitter les façons de faire de ma nation pour embrasser les vostres, quoy que [109] ie les iugeaffe meilleures. Ie ne laisſois point de croire dans mon ame ce que vous enseigniez de celuy qui a tout fait. Il faut auoier qu'il a donné souuent des preuves de fa foy. Deuant qu'il fust Chrestien, il apportoit luy-mefme ses enfans en la Chappelle pour estre baptifez; que s'ils estoient trop malades, il nous appelloit en fa cabane, il a procuré le mesme bien à l'vne de ses femmes, car il en auoit deux: Il a veu iusques à quatre de ses enfans mourir Chrestiens deuant ses yeux: Il entendoit les blasphemmes de ses Compatriotes contre ces eaux sacrées, leur attribuans la cause de leur mort: & nonobstant tout cela, pas vn des siens n'est paffé en l'autre vie fans estre laué du Sang de IESVS-CHRIST. Vne fiennne fille aagée d'enuiron dix-huiet à vingt ans, pressée d'vne forte maladie qui luy arrachoit la vie par violence, ne vouloit en aucune façon oùir parler du Baptefme, s'imaginant que ceste medecine sacrée de nos ames n'ayant point guery les corps de ses freres, luy feroit fatale & nuisible; son there. We promised him assistance in clearing the land; he lent ear to us and listened willingly enough, especially to what concerns the other life; but he had no words with which to answer us. In fine, we have asked him since his Baptism how it happened that he showed so much obstinacy. "Perhaps," we said to him, "thou didst think that we were liars." "No, not that," he answered, "I did not at all doubt your words nor your promises; but I will tell you frankly that I was afraid my people would look upon me as a Frenchman, hence I did not wish to give up the customs of my nation to embrace those of yours, although [109] I considered them better. I thoroughly believed in my soul what you taught about him who has made all." It must be confessed that he has often given proofs of his faith. Before he became a Christian, he himself brought his children to the Chapel to be baptized; if they were too sick, he summoned us to his cabin. He procured the same blessing for one of his wives, for he had two. He saw as many as four of his children die Christians before his eyes. He heard the blasphemies of his Countrymen against these sacred waters, attributing to these the cause of their death. And notwithstanding all this, not one of his family passed into the other life without being washed in the Blood of JESUS CHRIST. One of his daughters, about eighteen or twenty years old, attacked by a serious malady which violently wrested her life from her, was unwilling to hear about Baptism in any way whatever,—imagining that as this sacred medicine of our souls had not cured the bodies of her brothers, it would be fatal or injurious to her. Her poor father, seeing her in danger of death, strongly urged her to receive it, pauure pere la voyant en danger de mort, la pressoit fort de la receuoir, quoy qu'il ne la demandast point pour soy mesme: Ne crains point, ma fille, luy disoit-il, ce n'est [110] pas l'eau qu'on te versera sur la teste qui te fera mourir, en voila tant qui sont réchappez apres le Baptême; c'est pour le bien de ton ame qu'on te veut baptiser, & non pour abreger tes iours; & comme elle sembloit vn peu condescendre à ces paroles, il nous pressoit de la baptiser au plustost. En fin nous luy dismes que quand on la baptiseroit cent fois pour vn iour, ces eaux faintes ne luy feruiroient de rien, si elle ne croyoit en son cœur, & si elle n'auoit regret d'auoir offensé Dieu, qu'au reste elle n'en donnoit aucune marque. Ce pauure homme entendant cela, la preffa tant, & la catechisa si bien, qu'à la parfin elle nous donna de suffisans indices de sa bonne disposition, on la fit Chrestienne; & peu de temps apres, elle mourut. Or comme la maladie continuoit ses rauages, nous veimes toute la cabane de ce pauvre Capitaine dans l'affliction; nous baptizasmes pour vn iour treize personnes de ses parens & alliez; & comme il se trouuoit mal aussi bien que les autres, enfin il se resolut de prendre pour soy ce qu'il auoit procuré pour tant d'autres; il se nommoit en sa Langue Etinechka8at, & le nom de Iean Baptiste luy fut donné au Baptême. Ayant traistné fort long-temps [111] dans sa maladie, Nostre Seigneur luy rendit la santé; il l'en vint remercier dans la Chappelle de Kebec, si tost qu'il put marcher; mais il ne tarda pas long-temps fans estre esprouvé: Fili accedens ad seruitutem Dei sua in iustitia & timore, & prepara animam tuam ad temptationem: Ces paroles du Sage se verifient tous les iours devant nos yeux. Ce Neophyte n'auoit although he did not ask it for himself. “ Do not fear, my daughter,” he said to her; “ it is not [110] the water that they will pour over thy head that will make thee die,—see how many there are who have recovered after Baptism; it is for the good of thy soul that they wish to baptize thee, and not to shorten thy days;” and, as she seemed to yield a little to these words, he urged us to baptize her as soon as possible. In fine, we told her that if she were baptized a hundred times a day, these holy waters would be of no avail, if she did not believe in her heart, and if she did not regret having offended God, of which, moreover, she gave no evidence. The poor man, upon hearing this, urged her so strongly and catechized her so well that, at the very end, she gave us sufficient indications of her willingness; she was made a Christian; and, a little while afterward, she died. Now, as the sickness continued its ravages, we saw the whole cabin of this poor Captain plunged in affliction. We baptized in one day thirteen of his relatives and allies; and, when he became ill, as well as the others, he finally resolved to take for himself what he had procured for so many others. He was called Etinechkawat in his own Language, and the name Jean Baptiste was given to him in Baptism. Having been prostrated for a very long time [111] in his sickness, Our Lord restored him to health; he came to thank him for it in the Chapel of Kebec, as soon as he could walk. But it was not long before he was tried. Fili accedens ad servitutem Dei sta in justitia et timore, et præpara animam tuam ad tentationem. These words of the Sage are verified every day before our eyes. This Neophyte had only three children left, three daughters,—one married; one, plus que trois enfans, c'estoient trois filles; l'une mariée, l'autre aagée d'enuiron trois ans, & l'autre d'vn an: La plus âgée est morte fans enfans en la fleur de son aage; son pauure pere la voyant trespassée, nous a renuoyé son corps de quarâte lieues loing pour estre mis au cimetiere des Chrestiēs. Il nous donna celle qui n'auoit que trois ans pour estre élueée chez quelque Famille Frāçoise, & afin qu'elle ne s'ennuyaſt pas il luy donna pour compagne vne autre petite fille fa parente, dont Monsieur Gand, vray pere des pauures, prit le soin payant fa pension, comme nous faifons de ceux que nous tenons chez quelques Familles. Dieu a pris pour foy la fille de ce Capitaine, & a laifſé l'autre; si bien qu'il ne luy reste plus qu'vn enfant qui est encor à la mammelle d'vn grand nōbre que Dieu luy auoit donné: [112] Au bout du compte toutes ces afflictions ne l'ont point esbranlé. Le Pere qui residoit à Sillery, où s'est fait la Reduction des Sauuages, entrant vn iour dans fa cabane, le treuua tenant & baifant vn petit Crucifix qu'on luy auoit donné; voyant le Pere, il luy dit: Nikanis, i'ay recours en mes afflictions à celuy qui est mort pour moy; fois affeuré que ie croy en luy du fond de mon cœur; ie ne vous ay point menty quand ie vous ay donné parole que ie ne quitterois point la Foy.

Quelques Sauuages venus de Tadouffac logez dans fa cabane, n'auoient guiere d'inclination à nostre créâce, se gauffant quād on en vouloit parler, luy, pour leur imposer silence dit tout haut qu'il croyoit en Dieu, & qu'il le vouloit prier, inuitant le Pere qui fe trouua là de l'inſtruire, & de le venir voir tous les iours pour le même ſubiect; le Pere prenant donc la parole, demanabout three years old; and the other, one year old. The eldest died childless, in the flower of her youth; her poor father, seeing that she had passed away, sent her body to us from a distance of forty leagues, to be placed in the cemetery of the Christians. He gave us the one who was only three years old, to be raised in some French Family; and, that she might not be lonely, he gave her as a companion another little girl, a relative, of whom Monsieur Gand, true father of the poor, took charge, paying her board as we do for those whom we keep in Families. God took to himself this Captain's daughter, and left the other one; so there only remains to him one child, still at the breast, of a great many whom God had given him; [112] and yet, all these afflictions did not make him waver. The Father who resided at Silley, where the Reduction of the Savages has been formed, upon entering his cabin one day, found him holding and kissing a little Crucifix that had been given him. When he saw the Father, he said to him, "Nikanis, I have recourse in my afflictions to him who has died for me; rest assured that I believe in him from the bottom of my heart; I did not lie to you when I gave you my word that I would not abandon the Faith."

Some Savages who had come from Tadoussac, and who were staying in his cabin, were not very favorable to our belief, and jeered when one began to speak of it. He, to impose silence upon them, said boldly that he believed in God, and that he intended to pray to him,—inviting the Father who happened to be there to instruct him, and to come and see him every day for the same purpose. Accordingly, the Father began to speak, and asked his new guests why da à ses nouveaux hostes, pourquoy Dieu auoit créé le Soleil, pourquoy il auoit formé les animaux: Ces grands caufeurs, en matiere de badineries, n eurẽt point de responce à ces interrogations; nostre Neophyte les voyāt muets, prit la parole, & discourut fort bien de la Creation du monde, comme Dieu [113] auoit fait le Soleil pour nous éclairer, les animaux pour nous nourrir, pensant à nous comme vn bon pere pēse à ses enfans. Son discours nous fit co-gnoistre que la Foy s'ēracinoit tous les iours de plus en plus dedās son cœur. Il tient avec soy vne sienne parente baptisée à l'extremité. Ceste femme estant retournée en santé ne se foucioit guiere de son ame, quand on luy parloit des Sacrements elle se gauffoit, la Confession luy feruant de risée, Nostre Neophyte la reprit luy imposant silence pour vn temps, mais il ne luy changea pas le cœur; elle perfeueroit tousiours dans ses railleries, se riant notamment du Sacrement de Penitence: En fin elle fut surprise tout en vn coup dvn catarre qui luy ferma quasi le conduit de la respiration, & luy osta la parole; ayant perdu la langue, Dieu luy ouurit les oreilles. Le Pere qui l'instruifloit l'allant visiter, l'épouanta: En fin te voila prise à la gorge, c'est à ce coup que le Diable te veut empêcher tout de bon de te cōfesser, tu as refusé de le faire estant en santé, peut-estre ne le pourras-tu plus faire estant malade. Ceste pauure femme touchée de Dieu, fit signe qu'elle desiroit décharger sa conscience, & tout sur l'heure, [114] & dans sa cabane, le Pere luy donna les signes qu'elle deuoit faire aux interrogations qu'il luy feroit. Comme elle auoit fort bon iugement, non seulement elle les gardoit, mais elle s'efforça en telle forte qu'elle recourra vn petit la

God had created the Sun, why he had formed animals. These fluent talkers of nonsense had no answer to these questions. Our Neophyte, seeing them mute, began to speak, and discoursed very well upon the Creation of the world, how God [113] had made the Sun to give us light, the animals to furnish us with food, thinking of us as a good father thinks of his children. His speech showed us that the Faith was every day taking deeper root in his heart. He keeps with him one of his relatives, who was baptized at the point of death. This woman, having recovered her health, concerned herself very little about her soul. When one spoke to her about the Sacraments, she ridiculed them, the Confession exciting her laughter. Our Neophyte reproved her, imposing silence upon her for a time, but he did not change her heart; she persevered in her jesting, especially ridiculing the Sacrament of Penance. At last, she was smitten all at once with a catarrh which almost closed the respiratory passage, and deprived her of her speech; having lost her tongue, God opened her ears. The Father who instructed her, going to visit her, frightened her. "Now behold thyself seized by the throat; it is at this time that the Devil wishes to prevent thee in earnest from confessing; thou didst refuse to do it when thou wert in health,—perhaps thou wilt never be able to do it, now that thou art sick." This poor woman, touched by God, made a sign that she wished to unburden her conscience; and immediately, [114] and in her cabin, the Father indicated to her the signs she was to make to the questions he should ask her. As she was perfectly conscious, she not only observed these, but she made so strong an effort that she partly parole; bref, ayāt purifié son cœur, dieu l'a remit en fanté; elle se comporte maintenant comme vne personne qui croit en Dieu, & qui a volonté de luy obeir.

Le gēdre de nostre Neophyte auoit bien de plus grandes dispositions à la Foy que ceste femme: Ce bon homme retournant des bois pour se confesser, le Pere auquel il s'adreffa luy demandant s'il ne prioit pas Dieu en sa cabane: Non, dit-il, ie ne le prie pas, pource que ie ne fçay pas encore ce qu'il luy faut dire; mais ne pense-tu pas quelquefois en luy, repliqua le Pere: Ah, Nikanis, répondit-il, i'y pense incessamment, i'ay affez de regret de ce que ie ne fçay pas ce qu'il faut dire. En quelque lieu que i'aille, ie pense tousiours qu'il me voit, i'espere tousiours en luy, mon cœur veut tousiours parler à luy, mais il ne fçait pas ce qu'il luy faut dire. Le Pere fut bien consolé voyant que ce bon homme faisoit oraison fans le recognoistre.

[115] La dernière personne de la Famille de nostre Neophyte, qui a esté baptisée, c'est sa femme, laquelle est bonne & simple, se laissant conduire aisément au bien; plaise a nostre Seigneur répandre sur elle sa faincte benediction, & sur son mary, & sur tous ceux de sa cabane ou maifon.

Quelques Sauuages ont voulu persuader à ce braue Capitaine de prendre vne secōde femme, à quoy il fembloit quasi obligé felon les loix ou les coûtumes de sa Nation; la femme mesme l'en a sollicité, & cela luy est arriué par deux fois à l'occasion de deux femmes qu'on luy a voulu donner en diuers temps: mais il respondit en ces termes: Vous venez trop tard, i'ay donné ma parole à Dieu, ie ne fçaurois plus m'en recovered her speech. In short, having purified her heart, God restored her to health; she now behaves like a person who believes in God, and has the will to obey him.

The son-in-law of our Neophyte had much more inclination to the Faith than had this woman. This good man, returning from the woods to confess, was asked by the Father whom he addressed if he did not pray to God in his cabin. "No," said he, "I do not pray to him, because I do not yet know what I must say to him." "But dost thou not think of him sometimes?" replied the Father. "Ah, Nikanis," he answered, "I am thinking of him all the time, and I am quite sorry that I do not know what ought to be said to him. In whatever place I may go, I am always thinking that he sees me; I hope always in him. My heart always desires to speak to him, but it does not know what it ought to say." The Father was greatly consoled at seeing that this good man was offering prayers without knowing it.

[115] The last person in the Family of our Neophyte to be baptized was his wife, who is good and simple, allowing herself to be easily led to the right. May it please our Lord to bestow his holy benediction upon her, upon her husband, and upon all those of her cabin or home.

Some of the Savages have tried to persuade this worthy Captain to take a second wife, which he seemed almost obliged to do, according to the laws or customs of his Nation; the woman herself solicited him, and this happened twice, in regard to two women whom they wished to give him at different times. But he answered in these words: "You come too late; I have given my word to God, I cannot dédire: Ie luy veux obeir; ie luy ay dit; ie t'obeiray, ie le veux faire. Quiconque a cognoissance de la liberté des Sauuages, & le befoin qu'ils ont de plusieurs femmes pour leur ménage, dira que la grace est bien forte qui renuerse les coûtumes du païs, bride les loix de la chair, & combat le propre interest.

gainsay it. I will obey him; I have said to him, ‘I will obey thee,’ and I will do it.” Any one who is acquainted with the license of the Savages, and the need they have of several wives for their household, will say that the grace is very strong which overturns the customs of the country, bridles the laws of the flesh, and combats self-interest.

DE LA CONUERSION & DU BAPTESME D'VN SORCIER.

I'AY dit souuent qu'on dônoit icy le nom de forcier à certains Iõgleurs ou charlatans qui se mèlent de châter, & de souffler les malades, de consulter les Diables, & de tuer les hommes par leurs sorts. Je me perfuade qu'en effect il y en a quelqu'un entre eux qui a communication avec les Demôs; mais la pluspart ne font que des trôpeurs, exerçans leurs iongleries pour tirer quelques prefens des pauures malades, & pour se rendre recommandables, ou pour se faire craindre. Celuy dont ie vay parler estoit de ceste cathegorie, il estoit redouté de ses gens, & tenu pour vn méchant homme; i'en ay souuent parlé és Relations precedentes, car nous auons eu quelques prifes avec luy en la prefence de ses Compatriotes; mais comme son art estoit fondé sur le menfonge, & que nous estions appuyeuz [117] sur la verité, nous le batismes si rudement, qu'il se rendit. Il nous venoit trouuer en particulier pour se faire instruire; nous croyons au commencement qu'il n'auoit pas tant de desir de nous auoir pour amis, qu'il craignoit de nous auoir pour ennemis; mais Dieu qui est le Maistre des cœurs le touchoit interieurement, & le dispofoit à vn biẽ qui surpasse nôtre cognoissance: Nous quittant pour aller à la guerre, il nous asseura qu'il auroit recours à Dieu, & qu'il croyoit en luy fâs feintise; il cognut bien que nous prenions ses paroles côme vn compliment

OF THE CONVERSION AND BAPTISM OF A SORCERER.

I HAVE often said that the name "sorcerer" is given here to certain Jugglers or charlatans who engage in singing, blowing upon the sick, consulting Devils, and killing men by their charms. I am inclined to think that there are, really, some among them who have communication with the Demons; but the majority of them are only impostors, practicing their enchantments to obtain presents from the poor sick, to render themselves popular, or to make themselves feared. The one of whom I am about to speak was in the last category; he was dreaded by his people, and looked upon as a wicked man. I have often spoken of him in preceding Relations, for we had some disputes with him in the presence of his Compatriots; but as his art was founded upon falsehood, and as we were supported [117] by truth, we cudgled him so roughly that he surrendered. He came to see us privately, in order to be instructed; we believe that in the beginning he did not so much desire to have us for friends, as he feared to have us for enemies. But God, who is the Master of hearts, touched him inwardly, and disposed him to a goodness that surpasses our understanding. When he left us to go to war, he assured us that he would have recourse to God, and that he would believe in him, without pretense. He knew very well that we took his words as the compliment de Sauuage, qui ne fait pas difficulté de mētir; C'est pourquoy fe trouuant par apres dās les difficultez, & s'adreffant à Dieu, il luy disoit: Les Peres ne pensent pas que i'aye recours à toy, & que ie te prie, mais ils font trompez; ne laisse pas pourtant de me fecourir. Or comme plusieurs chofes luy font arriuées l'espace de deux ans qu'il a poursfuiuy son Baptefme i'en rapporteray succinētement vne partie: Voicy ce qu'il nous a raconté.

Comme nous vous eufmes quitté pour aller à la guerre, ie dy à mes camarades sur le foir qu'il falloit faire les prières qu'on [118] nous auoit enseigné; ils se mocquerent de moy; ce qui fut cause que ie ne priois Dieu qu'en mon cœur. Quand nous fusmes arriuez au pays de nos ennemis, nous estans iettez trop auant, nous nous vîmes en vn instant inuestis de tous costez; alors ie fis le signe de la Croix, & dis à Dieu: Tu es tout-puissant, fecoure moy, tu le peux faire: le combat s'anima tout à coup, les fleches voloient par l'air comme gresle tombe sur la terre, elles paſſoient à l'entour de moy cōme la foudre fans me toucher, ie voyois tōber mes camarades à mes pieds; les vns tuez, les autres bleffez, fans que ie receuſſe aucun dōmage: en fin trouuāt iour au trauers de l'ēnemy, ie me sauue avec quelques vns de mes gens, & cōme nous estiōs poursfuiuis, nous allions cōme la tempeſte; ceux qui m'accōpagnoient, me diſoient ſouuēt qu'ils n'en pouuoient plus; pour moy leuant ſouuēt mon cœur à Dieu, il me ſembla qu'il me fortifioit en forte, que ie ne fenty iamais aucune debilité, ny pour la faim, ny pour le trauail que nous endurions; estans arriuez au lieu où no^o auīōs laifſé nos canots, nous n'auions rien du tout à manger; ie dy of a Savage, who does not scruple to lie; hence, finding himself afterward in trouble, and addressing himself to God, he said to him, "The Fathers do not think that I have recourse to thee, and that I pray to thee, but they are mistaken; do not fail, however, to succor me." Now, as many events happened during the two years in which he sought for his Baptism, I will concisely report a part of them. See, then, what he related to us:

"When we left you to go to war, I told my comrades, towards evening, that we must offer the prayers that [118] had been taught us; they laughed at me, and this was the reason why I only prayed to God in my heart. When we reached the country of our enemies, having advanced too far, we found ourselves instantly surrounded on all sides; then I made the sign of the Cross, and said to God, 'Thou art all-powerful; help me,—thou canst do it.' The combat suddenly grew fierce; the arrows flew through the air as the hail falls to the ground,—they flashed around me like lightning, without touching me; I saw my comrades fall at my feet,—some killed, others wounded,—but I received no injury. At last, finding an opening through the enemy, I escaped with some of my people, and being pursued, we went like the wind. Those who accompanied me often told me that they could go no farther; for myself, I often lifted up my heart to God, and it seemed as if he so fortified me that I never felt any weakness,—either from hunger, or from the hardships that we endured. Having reached the place where we had left our canoes, we had nothing at all to eat; I said again to those who remained with me [119] that we must apply to God; but they did not give this any consideraderechef à ceux qui estoient restez avec moy, [119] qu'il se falloit addresfer à Dieu; mais ils n'en tindrent conte. Ie ne laiffay pas de l'inuoquer, luy presentant ceste priere: Toy qui as fait les oyfeaux, i'en ay befoin, tu m'en peus donner si tu veux; si tu ne veux pas, il n'importe; ie ne laisseray pas de croire en toy. Ayant dit cela, ie fay le signe de la Croix, & me iette dās vne Isle pour chasser, ie n'allay pas bien loing que ie rencontray vne vache fauuage; ie la fais faillir à l'eau où nous la tuaimes, la voyant morte, ie remerciay celuy qui nous l'auoit donnée; & mes gens furent contraints de confesser que ce prefent venoit de sa bonté.

Apres nous estre vn petit rafraichis, nous pourfuiuismes nostre chemin, arriuez que nous fusmes au grand fleuuue, nous descendismes dans les Isles du Lac, où nous trouuafmes quelques Sauuages pressez de la faim; nos gens leur dirent qu'ayant fait ma priere à Dieu, il nous auoit donné à manger, ils me preffèrent fort de le prier pour eux, voyans leur necessité & la nostre, car nous auions desia consomé ce qui nous restoit de chair de ceste vache fauuage. Ie luy dis ces paroles: Ces gens font à toy; car tu as fait tous les hommes; ils ont faim, [120] & nous aussi; donne nous à manger si tu veux, tu peus tout, si tu as de bonnes penfées pour nous, nous en trouuerons; finon, nous n'en trouuerons point, mais il n'importe, quand tu ne m'en voudrois point donner, ie ne laifferois pas de croire en toy: Ma priere finie, ie m'en vay chasser, ie ne trouuay rien, ie pensois à part moy, il ne m'en veut pas donner, mais il n'importe: C'est luy qui est le Maistre. Comme ie remontois dans mon canot, ie veis ie ne sçay quoy flotter sur la riuiere, ie pensois tion. I invoked him, nevertheless, offering him this prayer: ‘Thou who hast made the birds, I have need of them; thou canst give me some if thou wilt; if thou wilt not, it does not matter; I shall not cease to believe in thee.’ Having said this, I made the sign of the Cross and hastened to an Island, to do some hunting; I had not gone far when I encountered a wild cow, which I drove into the water, where we killed it. When I saw that it was dead, I thanked him who had given it to us, and my people were obliged to confess that this present came from his goodness.

“After we were somewhat refreshed, we continued on our way. Arrived at the great river, we went down to the Islands of the Lake, where we found some Savages suffering from hunger; our people told them that, when I had offered a prayer to God, he had given us something to eat. They strongly urged me to pray to him for them; seeing their need and ours, for we had already consumed what remained of the flesh of the wild cow, I said these words to him: ‘These people belong to thee, for thou hast made all men; they are hungry, [120] and so are we; give us something to eat, if thou wilt; thou canst do all. If thou hast kind thoughts toward us, we shall find something; if not, we shall find nothing. But it matters not,—if thou shouldst not give me anything, I would not abandon my belief in thee.’ My prayer finished, I went hunting, and found nothing; I thought to myself, ‘He does not wish to give me anything,—but it does not matter; it is he who is the Master.’ As I was reëntering my canoe, I saw something, I knew not what, floating upon the river; I thought at first it was a piece of wood, but seeing au commencement que ce fut vn bois, mais voyant qu'il couppoit le fil de l'eau, ie le pourfuiuy; ie trouuay que c'estoit vn cerf qui trauersoit d'vne Isle en vne autre: nous le mismes bien-tost à mort, avec l'estonnement de mes gens qui en firent curée avec moy.

Au partir de là, ie me retiray vers les Algonquins, où la contagion commençoit desia. Or comme ie vous auoies frequenté, on me demandoit souuent quelle estoit vostre creance, leur exposant ce que vous m'aiez enseigné de l'autre vie, ils se mocquoient de moy [121] s'estonnans que ie fusse si hebeté de croire des chofes si éloignées des fens. Si ces Peres nous disoient, faifoient-ils, croyez en Dieu, & vous viurez long-temps en terre; vous ne ferez point malades, vo⁹ aurez tous les cheueux gris deuāt que de mourir; cette doctrine feroit bonne, tout le monde les croiroit, mais ils parlent d'vne autre vie, & nous font perdre celle que nous viuons çà bas par leurs prieres. Voila ce qui ne vaut rien: Et toy-mesme, me disoient-ils, tu mourras bien-tost, puis que tu leur veux croire. Ie disois à part moy entendant ces discours, ie ne pense pas que Dieu qui est si bon, me tuë pour croire en luy, & pour luy vouloir obeyr: en effect il m'à conferué, & tous ceux qui parloient contre luy font morts. La maladie nous preffa si fort, qu'on laiffoit les corps des Trépassiez sans sepulture; on ne les osoit aborder, & moy ie les enseueliffois & enterrois sans rien craindre, priant Dieu qu'il me conseruast ce qu'il a fait. Voila ce que ce Ncophyte nous racontoit.

Quittant le pays des Algonquins, il s'en vint aux trois Riuières, se prefente à nos Peres pour estre instruit, ils le rebuterēt au commencement comme vn it cross the current, I pursued it. I found that it was a deer which was passing from one Island to another; we soon put it to death, to the astonishment of my people, who made a meal of it with me.

"Upon going thence, I retreated towards the Algonquins, where the contagion was already beginning. Now, as I had frequented your house, they often asked me what your belief was. When I explained to them what you had taught me about the other life, they mocked me, [121] showing surprise that I was so stupid as to believe things so opposed to reason. 'If these Fathers said to us,' they declared, "'Believe in God, and you will live a long time upon earth; you will not be sick, you will all have gray hair before you die,'" this doctrine would be a good one, everybody would believe it. But they speak of another life, and, through their prayers, make us lose this one that we live here below. Now this is worth nothing; and thou thyself,' they said to me, 'thou wilt soon die, since thou art willing to believe them.' I said to myself, when I heard this talk, 'I do not think that God, who is so good, will kill me for believing in him, and for trying to obey him;' in fact, he has preserved me, and all those who spoke against him have died. The disease pressed so hard upon us that the bodies of the Dead were left without burial; the others did not dare go near them, and I wrapped and buried them without fearing anything, praying God that he would preserve me, which he did." This is what this Neophyte related to us.

Leaving the Algonquin country, he went to the three Rivers and presented himself to our Fathers to be instructed. They refused him, at first, as a sorforcier qu'ils [122] croyoïêt trop attaché à ses badineries, mais sa perfeuerance l'emporta; on l'instruit en particulier, & Dieu l'éprouue en public; sa femme & ses enfans, & son frere, meurent de peste, il leur procure à tous le Baptefme fans s'ebranler.

Vn Capitaine le fait prier de souffler vn malade, luy offrât vn grand collier de porcelaine, il renouye le present, & dit tout haut en public que son art de forcier est vn art de t[r]ompeur, & qu'il ne le veut plus faire.

Comme il se voyoit molesté de ses gens aux trois Riuieres, il descendit à Kebec, où il fit des merueilles au commencement; mais en fin les femmes qui ont depraué le cœur de Salomon penserent perdre; il en voulut époufer vne à laquelle vne autre pretendoit, il se laisse emporter au ieu; bref il nous donna vn tel mécontentement, que nous le chaffasmes de la maison où nous l'auions logé, & luy fîmes quitter l'habit à la françoise qu'il portoit. Comme il se veit traité de la forte, il ouure les yeux & parle au Pere qui l'enuyoit en cette forte. En me chaffant de cette maison, me fermez vous la porte de l'Eglise; refusez-vous de m'instruire? [123] Le Pere luy repliquant qu'on ne laisseroit pas de l'enseigner s'il vouloit obeir: il s'escria; Voila qui va bien, ie ne craignois que ce poinct, pour vostre maison & vostre secours, & vos habits, c'est dequoy ie ne me mets pas en peine, dit-il, ie pourray viure fans cela; mais i'auois grand peur que vous refusassiez de m'enseigner le chemin du Ciel: Ie voy bien que ie fais mal, mais ie ne veux pas perfeuerer dans mon peché.

Comme nous crions certain iour contre leur façon de faire, il nous dit; Escoutez-moy à vostre tour, ie cerer whom they [122] considered too much attached to his foolish ideas, but his perseverance prevailed; he was privately instructed, and God publicly tried him; his wife, his children, and his brother died of the pest; he procured Baptism for them all, without being unsettled.

A Captain had some one ask him to blow upon a sick man, offering him a large porcelain collar. He sent back the present, and said boldly in public that his sorcerer's art was the art of a deceiver, and that he would follow it no more.

As he found himself molested by his people at the three Rivers, he went down to Kebec, where at first he did wonders; but finally the women who corrupted the heart of Solomon almost ruined him. He tried to marry one to whom another laid claim, he gave himself up to gambling; in short, he so displeased us that we drove him out of the house where we had been lodging him, and made him give up the French clothes he had been wearing. When he found himself treated thus, he opened his eyes, and spoke to the Father who sent him away, in this manner: "In driving me from this house, do you close the door of the Church against me? Do you refuse to instruct me?" [123] The Father replying to him that they would not cease to teach him if he would obey, he exclaimed, "Now that is good, it was the only point I feared; as to your house, your help, and your clothes," said he, "I give myself no concern about them,—I can live without these things. But I was very much afraid that you might refuse to teach me the way to Heaven. I see clearly that I am doing wrong, but I will not persevere in my sin."

One day, as we were inveighing against their habveux parler; si vous n'auiez non plus la cognoissance des Escriptures que nous autres, si Dieu ne vous auoit pas enseigné d'autant, si vos ancestres ne vous auoient laissez que le ventre & la guerre comme à nous, peut estre ne seriez vous pas plus gens de bien que nous.

Vne autrefois vn des Peres qui l'auoit enseigné passant auprés de luy sans luy rien dire, comme en le mesprisant pour auoir perdu sa ferueur, il l'arresta tout court, & luy dit d'vn voix haute; Qui pense-tu que soit Pigar8ich? (c'est ainsi qu'il se nommoit devant son bapteſme) c'est vn gros arbre fortement encriné dans la terre, crois-tu [124] le ietter à bas tout d'vn coup? Donne, donne de grands coups de hache, & continuë long-temps, & en fin tu le renuerferas; il a enuie de tōber, mais il ne peut, ses racines, c'est à dire, ses meschantes habitudes le retiennent malgré qu'il en ait; Ne perds pas courage, tu en viendras à bout.

Au mefme temps que nous le rebutions, il fut follicité de retourner à ses iongleries; on luy fit des preſents, on luy promit que le tout fe feroit en secret, cependant quoy il eut vne grande difette des chofes qu'on luy presentoit, iamais neantmoins on ne les vouluſt accepter, ny reprēdre ſon tambour. En fin nous n'auous pas reconnu qu'il ait perdu la foy nonobſtant ſes débauches ou ſes libertez: Il prioit Dieu tous les iours foir & matin en fa Cabane, & par tout où il fe trouuoit il publioit nostre creance fans craindre ſes compatriotes. Le refpect humain qui fait icy biē du mal, auſſi biē qu'en Frâce, ne l'empêche guiere de dire ce qu'il pense; C'eſt vn eſprit prompt, hardy, que la crainte de l'enfer a retenu dans quelque deuoir depuis its, he said to us, “ Now listen to me in your turn,—I wish to speak. If you had no more knowledge of the Scriptures than we, if God had not taught you any more, if your ancestors had left to you only eating and fighting, as they have to us, perhaps you would be no better people than we are.”

Another time, when one of our Fathers who had taught him passed near him without speaking to him, as if slighting him for having lost zeal, he stopped him short, and said in a loud voice, “ What dost thou think Pigarouich is?” (This was his name before his baptism.) “ He is a great tree, strongly rooted in the ground; dost thou think [124] to throw it down all at once? Strike, strike heavy blows of the axe, and continue a long time, and at last thou wilt overthrow it. It desires to fall, but it cannot,—its roots, that is, its bad habits, hold it down, in spite of itself. Do not lose courage, thou wilt succeed.”

At the same time that we rejected him, he was solicited to return to his sorceries; they made him presents, they promised him that everything should be done in secret; however, although he was in great need of the things they offered him, he would never accept them, or resume his drum. In fine, we did not discover that he had lost the faith, notwithstanding his debauches or his license. He prayed to God every day, morning and evening, in his Cabin; and, wherever he happened to be, he published our belief without fear of his countrymen. Respect for what others say, which does so much harm here, as well as in France, prevented him but little from saying what he thought. His is a bold and active mind, which the fear of hell restrained, to some extent, after the Faith took possession of his soul. Now, que la Foy s'est emparée de son ame. Or comme il voyoit que nous le renouyons de temps en temps pour son baptesme, il nous a fort pessé, & par [225 i.e., 125] de bonnes raisons. Puis que vous enseignez, disoit-il, que Dieu fait misericorde, & efface les pechez de ceux qui croïent en lui, & qui font baptisez, pourquoy me refusez-vous le Baptesme, moy qui tefmoigne publiquement regret que i'ay de l'auoir offensé? Si vous hayfiez mes malices, baptisez-moy, & elles feront effacées, & vous n'aurez plus de quoy haïr en moy. I'ay commis plusieurs pechez que ie n'aurois pas commis si vous m'euffiez baptisé, car i'ay tousiours eu cette resolution si iamais ie le pouuois estre, que ie respecterois mon baptesme, mais ne l'estant pas, ie suis comme vn chien, c'est pourquoy ie me laisse aller à mes passions, avec regret neantmoins. Nous le reprimes vne fois publiquement d'vne faute qu'il faisoit en nostre presence, luy fans s'estōner nous dit deuant tous ses gens. Ie ne croyois pas que cette action fut mauuaise, mais puis qu'elle l'est, i'ay regret de l'auoir commis, & iamais plus il ne m'aduendra de la commettre. Et puis il nous vint trouuer en particulier pour fçauoir la raison pourquoy nous condamnions cette action; luy ayant donné, il s'accusa foy mesme, s'estonnant de sa bestife.

[126] Le voyans vn certain iour tout pensif & affligé, nous luy demandasmes ce qu'il auoit; mon cœur est triste, respondit-il, car il me semble que Dieu ne nous ayme pas, puis qu'il nous commande des chofes que nous ne fçaurions garder: il y a bien des pechez que ie ne crains point, mais il y en a qui me font peur. Ie ne crains point l'yurongnerie, ny les festins à manger, ny la consulte des Demons, ny nos chanteries, when he saw that we refused him from time to time, in regard to his baptism, he urged us strongly and with [225 i.e., 125] good arguments. "Since you teach," said he, "that God is merciful, and blots out the sins of those who believe in him, and who are baptized, why do you refuse me Baptism?—me, who show publicly the regret I feel for having offended him? If you hate my wicked actions, baptize me, and they will be effaced, and you will have nothing more to hate in me. I have committed several sins that I would not have committed if you had baptized me. For I have always resolved that, if ever I should be baptized, I would respect my baptism; but as I have not been, I am like a dog, and hence I give myself up to my passions,—nevertheless, with regret." Once when we publicly rebuked him for a fault that he committed in our presence, he, without any embarrassment, said to us before all his people, "I did not think that this act was wrong; but, since it is, I am sorry to have committed it, and I shall never be guilty of it again." And then he came to see us privately to find the reason why we condemned this act; having given it to him, he accused himself, wondering at his own stupidity.

[126] Seeing him one day very thoughtful and downcast, we asked him what was the matter. "My heart is sad," he replied, "for it seems to me that God does not love us, since he gives us commandments that we cannot keep; there are many sins that I do not fear, but there are some that make me afraid. I do not fear drunkenness, nor eat-all feasts, nor the consultation of Demons, nor our songs, nor pride, nor theft, nor murder; but I do fear women. God commands us to marry but one wife, and, if she leaves ny l'orgueil, ny le larcin, ny le meurtre, mais ie crains les femmes: Dieu no[u]s commande de n'espoufer qu'vne feule femme, & si elle nous quitte, de n'en point prendre d'autre: me voila donc constraint d'estre feul, car nos femmes n'ont point d'esprit. De viure parmy nous fans femme, c'est viure fans fecours, sans mesnage, & touſiours vagabond. Nous luy demandasmes s'il ne penſoit pas auoir affez de force avec la grace de Dieu de ne point quitter fa femme au cas qu'il en eut espousé vne chrestienne: Ouy dea, repartit-il, car ie n'ay pas enuie de l'abandonner. Or luy fismes nous, si Dieu est affez puissant pour te donner la perſeuerance au mariage avec vne feule femme, pourquoi ne [127] pourra-il pas donner la mesme force à vne femme si elle est chrestienne? Vous avez raisõ, repliqua-il, ie ne perdray point courage, mon esperance est en luy; & quand mesme ie deurois estre seul le reſte de mes iours, la vie n'est pas longue.

Le temps destiné pour son Baptême s'approchant, nous le fondasmes plus particulierement, nous luy dismes certain iour que s'il tomboit malade eſtant Chrestien, qu'il s'imagineroit que nous luy auions caufé cette maladie; il est vray, dit-il, qu'on vous croit les autheurs de la contagion qui recommence, mais ie me ris de tout cela, vous n'eftes pas des Dieux pour disposer de la vie des hommes. Tes gens te diuertiront de la Foy, luy dismes-nous, tu es inconstant, tu ne tiendras point ferme. Il est bien vray que ie n'ay point d'esprit, respondit-il, mais quand tous les Sauages me diroient, nous te tuérons si tu te fais baptifer, ie leur dirois, tuez moy, il n'importe, ie veux eſtre baptisé; puis que le grand Capitaine du Ciel le veut ainsi, ie luy veux obeyr, & non pas à vous autres qui us, not to take another; behold me, then, obliged to remain single, for our women have no sense. To live among us without a wife is to live without help, without home, and to be always wandering." We asked him if he did not think he had enough strength, with the grace of God, not to leave his wife in case he should marry a Christian. "Yes, indeed," he replied, "for I have no desire to abandon her." "Well, then," we rejoined, "if God is powerful enough to give thee perseverance in marriage with only one woman, why [127] could he not give the same strength to a woman if she is a Christian?" "You are right," he replied, "I will not lose courage, my hope is in him; and, even if I were to remain single all the rest of my days, life is not long."

The time appointed for his Baptism drawing near, we sounded him more thoroughly. We told him one day that, if he fell sick when he became a Christian, he would imagine that we had caused this sickness. "It is true," said he, "that people believe you to be the authors of the contagion which is beginning afresh; but I laugh at all that,—you are not Gods, to dispose of the lives of men." "Thy people will divert thee from the Faith," we said to him, "thou art inconstant, thou wilt not hold firm." "It is very true that I have no mind," he replied; "but if all the Savages should say to me, 'We will kill thee if thou hast thyself baptized,' I would say to them, 'Kill me, it does not matter,—I intend to be baptized; since the great Captain of Heaven wishes it so, I intend to obey him, and not you, who have neither power nor influence over our souls.'" "But how does it happen," we asked him, "that thou art not liked by thy Captains?" [128] "I know only one n'auez ny force ny credit sur nos ames. Mais d'où vient, luy dismes-nous, que tu n'est pas aymé de tes Capitaines? [128] Ie n'en fçache qu'vn, respondit-il, qui me haiffe, & celuy là me décrie aupres des autres, il a depit de ce que ie veux aller au Ciel, voyant bien qu'il ira en enfer s'il ne quitte ses femmes, ce qu'il ne fera iamais; il dit qu'il veut estre baptisé, mais si vous ne le baptizez avec deux femmes, il ne le fera de long-temps: Or comme il void que ie suis pour estre baptisé deuant luy, quoy que vous ayez commencé de l'instruire deuant moy, il me porte enuie de ce que ie veux aller le premier en Paradis. Sa responce nous fit rire. Ce n'est pas neantmoins la raifon pourquoy il est moins aymé. Cela prouient de ce qu'estant libre, & d'vne humeur hardie il paroist altier. Or les Sauuages ne fçauroient supporter en aucune façon ceux qui paroissent vouloir prendre quelque ascendant fur les autres, ils mettent toute la vertu en vne certaine douceur ou apathie, ne recognoissant quasi point de peché plus enorme que la colere.

En fin ce bon homme apres auoir frappé long-temps à la porte, fut admis au Sacrement de Baptême, on luy fit porter le nom d'Estienne au sortit de ce bain Sacré, il nous dit; Il me femble que ie suis [129] autre que ie n'estois, que i'ay vne autre vie en moy, c'est tout de bon que ie veux obeïr à Dieu. Nous luy fismes entendre qu'il estoit à propos qu'il témoignast à ses Compatriotes ses bonnes resolutions. Ie l'ay desia fait, repliqua-il, i'ay publié par tout que ie voulois quitter mes méchantes habitudes, & qu'on m'auoit appris que les eaux du Baptême ne me feruiroient de rien, si ie ne voulois viure felon la Loy de Dieu, & de son Eglise: mais ie leur diray encor vne who hates me," he replied, "and that one brings me into disrepute with the others. He is vexed because I wish to go to Heaven,—seeing plainly that he will go to hell unless he gives up his wives, which he will never do; he says that he wishes to be baptized, but if you will not baptize him with two wives, he will not be baptized for a long time. Now, as he sees that I am going to be baptized before he is, although you began to instruct him before you did me, he is envious of me because I shall go first to Paradise." His answer made us smile. This is not the reason, however, why he is less liked; that arises from the fact, that, being of a free and bold disposition, he seems proud. Now the Savages cannot endure in the least those who seem desirous of assuming superiority over the others; they place all virtue in a certain gentleness or apathy, recognizing scarcely any sin more enormous than anger.

Finally this good man, after having knocked at the door for a long time, was admitted to the Sacrament of Baptism; he was given the name Estienne. On emerging from this Sacred bath, he said to us, "It seems to me that I am [129] different from what I was,—that I have another life in me; I am in earnest in intending to obey God." We gave him to understand that it was fitting for him to make known his good resolutions to his Countrymen. "I have already done so," he replied; "I have proclaimed everywhere that I mean to give up my bad habits, and that I had been taught that the waters of Baptism would be of no avail if I did not live according to the Law of God and of his Church. But I will tell them this again, since you desire it; I will make a feast, and will declare boldly that I am a child of fois puisque vous le desirez, ie leur feray festin, & declareray tout haut que ie suis enfant de Dieu, & que ie veux garder tout ce qui me fera commandé, renonçant à toutes nos fottises, & foulant aux pieds toutes nos vieilles façons de faire. Dieu luy en fasse la grace.

Quelque temps apres son baptesme, nous l'auons marié en face de l'Eglise à vne veufue chrestienne. Les fainctes ceremonies que nous gardons en l'administration des Sacrements, suiuant l'ordre ou le Rituel Romain, rauissent & touchent ces bonnes gens. Luy & sa femme frequentent maintenant les Sacrements, i'espere que Dieu leur donnera sa faincte benediction. Amen.

God, and intend to observe whatever I shall be commanded,—renouncing all our follies, and trampling under foot all our old customs.” May God give him the grace to do this.

Some time after his baptism, we married him, with the rites of the Church, to a Christian widow. The holy ceremonies that we observe in the administration of the Sacraments, following the Roman order or Ritual, charm and touch these simple people. He and his wife now frequent the Sacraments; I trust that God will give them his holy benediction. Amen.

DU SEMINAIRE DES SAUUVAGES.

NOUS auons tenu cette année dans nos Seminaires des Montagnets, des Algonquins, & des Hurons. Les Seminaristes font de conditions bien differentes aussi bien que d'aages; les vns nous font donnez pour tousiours, & nous les auons éleuez chez quelque familles, à cause de leur ieuneffe; les autres demeuroient avec nous afin d'estre instruicts en la Foy, & és vertus chrestiennes: les vns n'ont respiré que la liberté, les autres se font faits plainement instruire, & ont receu le faintc Baptesme. Bref, ie puis dire que le Seminaire s'est veu dans la bonace & dans la tempeste, dans la prosperité & dans l'aduersité: Mais pour descendre en particulier.

Celuy des Hurons qui a reüssi par excellence, estoit vn homme aagé d'enuiron cinquante ans, il n'y a point d'aage qui ne soit propre pour le Ciel, on a tant crié qu'il falloit auoir soin particulierement des ieunes plantes, qu'on ne deuoit esperer aucun [131] fruiet des vieilles souches, & Dieu nous fait souuent cognoistre le contraire; Ce bon homme ayant oüy parler de Dieu en son païs, prit resolution de descendre à Kebec, & d'y passer vn hyuer, afin d'apprendre à le cognoistre. En chemin il rencontra Ioseph Te8atirhon qui fortloit du Seminaire, qui le confirma fortement dans son dessein, luy donnant vn chappelet pour marque de son amitié: Estant arriué aux trois

OF THE SEMINARY FOR THE SAVAGES.

THIS year we have had Montagnais, Algonquins, and Hurons in our Seminaries. The Seminarists are here under very different conditions, and at very different ages. Some were given to us permanently, and these we have reared with certain families, on account of their youth; others lived with us, in order to be instructed in the Faith and in the Christian virtues; some have only thirsted for liberty, others have been fully instructed and have received holy Baptism. In short, I can say that the Seminary has found itself in calms and in tempests, in prosperity and in adversity. But let us come down to particulars.

The one among the Hurons who has preëminently succeeded was a man about fifty years old. There is no age which is not fit for Heaven. It has so often been declared that we must give peculiar care to the young plants, and that one should not expect [131] fruit from the old stocks,—and yet God often makes the contrary appear to us. This good man, having heard something about God in his own country, decided to go down to Kebec and pass the winter there, that he might learn to know him. On the way, he encountered Joseph Tewatirhon, who was leaving the Seminary, who solidly confirmed him in his purpose, and gave him a rosary as a token of his friendship. Having arrived at the three Rivers, he presented

Riuieres, il se prefente pour estre receu, le voyant si aagé nous le rebutafmes, les Sauuages ne se font pas éconduire trois fois, s'ils n'ont vne grande passion d'obtenir ce qu'ils demandent; nous refusafmes celuy-cy plus de quatre, & cependant iamais il ne perdit courage; il s'adreessoit à nos François afin d'auoir entrée chez nous par leur moyen, mais le Pere qui deuoit auoir charge de luy le voulant conduire entierement, luy dit qu'il étoit trop aagé, & qu'il auoit l'esprit trop pefant, pour retenir ce qu'on luy enseigneroit. De plus, qu'ayant cognoissance de la Riuiere, il s'en pourroit enfuir, & dérober ce qu'il pourroit attraper en nostre maison, cōme d'autres auoient fait, & par consequent qu'il s'en retournât en son pays pour fe faire [132] instruire par nos Peres qui estoient là. A tout cela il repartit avec iugement: il me semble, fit-il, que tu n'as pas raison de preferer des enfans à des hommes faits. Les ieunes gens ne sont point écoutez en nostre pays, quand ils diroient des merueilles, on ne les croiroit pas; mais les hommes parlent, ils ont l'esprit ferme, on croit ce qu'ils disent, c'est pourquoi ie feray mieux mon rapport de vostre doctrine état de retour au pays, que non pas les enfans que tu recherche. Pour la craint que tu as que ie ne m'enfuye, & que ie ne dérobbe, ie laisseray des gages entre les mains des François qui vaudront bien ce que ie pourrois emporter, si ie voulois estre méchant. Quand est de me faire instruire en nostre bourgade, c'est chose penible pour les diuertissemēts qui suruiennent, tant d'un costé des affaires, que de la diuersité des opinions, & des fentimēts de mes Compatriotes, qui n'ont pas la mesme volonté que moy: c'est ce qui m'a fait refoudre de venir çà bas pour himself for reception; but, seeing how old he was, we refused him. The Savages do not allow themselves to be thrice denied, unless they have a great longing to obtain what they demand; we refused this one more than four times, and still he never lost courage. He applied to our Frenchmen, in order to obtain admission to us through their agency; but the Father who had to take charge of him, wishing to get rid of him entirely, told him that he was too old, and that his mind was too dull to retain what would be taught him,—that, moreover, being familiar with the River, he would be able to escape, and to steal what he could get hold of in our house, as others had done; that, consequently, he should return to his own country to be [132] instructed by our Fathers who were there. To all this he replied shrewdly. “It seems to me,” he said, “that thou art not right to prefer children to grown men. Young people are not listened to in our country: if they should relate wonders, they would not be believed. But men speak,—they have solid understanding, and what they say is believed; hence I shall make a better report of your doctrine, when I return to my country, than will the children whom thou seekest. As for thy fear that I may run away, and that I may steal, I will leave as pledges in the hands of the French what will be worth fully as much as I could take away, if I were inclined to be wicked. As to obtaining instruction in our village, that is a difficult matter, on account of the distractions that arise,—both in regard to business, and to the diversity of opinions and sentiments among my Countrymen, who have not the same willingness that I have. This is what made me resolve to come down here to discuss traiter avec vous en paix, & hors du bruit d'vn chose de si grande importance; si bien que i'ay refolu quand vous m'éconduiriez de chercher quelque François qui me reçoiue en sa maison, du moins [133] pour vn hyuer, afin qu'on m'enseigne ce que ie ne puis sçauoir de moy-mefme. En effect, comme ce bon hōme veit que nonobstant ses responces nous ne le voulions pas admettre au Seminaire, il s'allie d'vn françois qui le loge en sa maison, avec dessein d'aller tous les iours apprendre quelque chose de nostre creance chez vn truchement françois. Cependant nous attendiōs de iour à autre qu'il s'en iroit, étant homme desia aagé, & qu'il s'embarqueroit avec quelques vns de ses compatriotes qu'il voyoit tous les iours arriuer, & s'en retourner en leur pays, ayans leurs traittes ou leurs marchandises. Mais en fin Dieu l'auoit choisi & écrit au Liure de ses Eleuz. Comme nous veîmes que ses gens ne l'ébranloient point, nous le receuimes, & fîmes descendre à Kebec, où sans mentir il a fait paroistre vn naturel bien éloigné de tout ce qu'on conçoit d'vn Sauuage: il a aussi donné des indices d'une grace si particuliere, qu'à peine l'aurions nous pû croire, si nous ne l'auions veu de nos yeux. Il estoit doux, courtois, facile, prompt à faire plaisir à qui que ce fut, iamais oisif, il admiroit la beauté de nostre Foy: & voyant nos veritez si conformes à la raison, il les [134] goûtoit avec plaisir, se voyant suffisamment instruit pour le Baptême, il le demandoit avec vne affection si cordiale, qu'on ne luy pût refuser. Nostre Seigneur nous donna vn beau suiet de reconnoistre sa constance. Quinze ou seize Hurons de ses compatriotes se trouuans engagez dans le commencement de l'hyuer parmy les François; & ne pouuant retour-

with you in peace, and away from quarreling, a matter of so great importance. So I have resolved that, if you turn me away, I will seek out some Frenchman who will receive me into his house, at least [133] for one winter, so that I may be taught what I cannot learn myself." In fact, when this good man saw that, notwithstanding his replies, we were unwilling to admit him to the Seminary, he allied himself with a Frenchman who lodged him in his house,—intending to go to a French interpreter every day, to learn something of our belief. Meanwhile, we were expecting from day to day that he would go away, as he was already an aged man, and that he would embark with some of his compatriots whom he saw arriving daily, and returning to their country, having completed their trading or made their purchases. But, in fine, God had chosen him and written him in the Book of his Elect. When we saw that his people did not make him waver, we received him, and had him go down to Kebec,—where, to tell the truth, he showed a disposition far different from all that one imagines of a Savage. He also gave indications of so singular a grace, that we could scarcely have believed it if we had not seen it with our own eyes. He was gentle, courteous, compliant, prompt to do a favor to any one whomsoever, never idle. He admired the beauty of our Faith, and, seeing our truths so in harmony with reason, he [134] gladly approved them. Finding himself sufficiently instructed for Baptism, he asked for it with so cordial interest that one could not refuse him. Our Lord gave us a fine opportunity for ascertaining his constancy. Fifteen or sixteen Hurons, his compatriots, finding themselves stranded among the French ner en leur pays, demeurerent assez long-temps proche du Seminaire, cōme la pluspart auoient plustost des pensées de guerre, où ils vouloient encor aller, & d'où ils venoient, que de la paix Euangelique. Ils se mocquoient de nostre Neophyte, lequel leur donnoit de bons confeils, avec vne prudence & vne dexterité fort remarquable: Mais voyant que ses paroles tomboient à terre, il s'éloignoit doucement de leur compagnie pour n'estre participant de leurs fottises. Ils luy reprochoient qu'il n'étoit plus Huron, qu'il auoit renoncé à son païs; mais ce bon Cathecumene ne se souciant guiere de leur blasme, leur répondroit doucement qu'il ne se dépouilloit pas de l'amour de sa nation, mais qu'il en quittoit les vices: Voicy comme en parle le Pere qui auoit soin du Seminaire Huron, il reprenoit ses compagnons [135] de leurs fautes avec autant de prudence qu'on auroit peu desirer. Vne fois entr'autres, il me demanda deuant vn ieune Seminariste son compagnon, si les enuieux & les menteurs n'alloient point en enfer; luy ayant répondu que Dieu punissoit ces crimes felon leur demerite; il ne fit que ietter les yeux sur ce ieune homme, lequel se fentit tellement repris de ce feul regard, qu'il ne parut point de tout le reste du iour dans la maison.

Ie l'ay souuent entendu repeter durant la nuict ce que ie luy auois enseigné pendant le iour. Il portoit vne telle affection à nostre Seigneur, que la pluspart de ses songes n'étoient que de luy, recherchant mesme en dormant les moyens de luy plaire. Il prenoit grand plaisir, dit le mesme Pere, d'affister au seruice Diuin, il ieufoit deux fois la sepmaine en Carefme, deuant qu'il fut baptisé: & comme on luy eut accordé le Baptefme pour la veille de Pasques, il in the beginning of winter, and not being able to return to their own country, remained for some time near the Seminary. As the greater part of them were thinking of war, where they still wished to go, and whence they had come, rather than of Gospel peace, they ridiculed our Neophyte, who gave them good advice, with a prudence and skill that were very remarkable. But, seeing that his words fell to the ground, he quietly withdrew from their society so as not to participate in their follies. They reproached him with being no longer a Huron, and with renouncing his own country. But this good Catechumen, caring little for their censure, mildly answered them that he was not casting off his love for his nation, but that he was giving up its vices. The Father who had charge of the Huron Seminary thus speaks of him: "He rebuked his companions [135] for their faults, with as much prudence as could have been desired. On one occasion, among others, he asked me before a young Seminarist, his companion, whether the envious and deceitful people would not go to hell; having been answered that God punished such offenses according to their demerit, he merely cast his eyes upon this young man, who felt himself so rebuked by this single look that he did not appear in the house again that day.

"I have often heard him repeating during the night what I had taught him during the day. He felt so much affection for our Lord, that most of his dreams were about him alone,—seeking even in his sleep some means of pleasing him. He took great pleasure," says the same Father, "in attending Divine service; he fasted twice a week during Lent, before he was baptized; and as they had granted him his voulut ieufner toute la sepmaine Saincte, ie ne le pouuois quasi contenter, tant il auoit desir que ie l'entre-tinssie des choses de son salut : En fin il fut fait chrestien, & nommé Pierre Ateïachias, & le iour d'apres son baptesme, il communia avec de grands reffentiments [136] de ces augustes mysteres. Comme ie luy eu parlé des œuures de misericorde, il se mit en deuoir de les pratiquer; si bien qu'il donnoit à quelques pauures le poisson mesme qu'on destinoit pour le disner de nos Seminaristes, & l'en ayant repris; ne m'auez-vous pas dit, faisoit-il, que c'estoit bien fait d'estre charitable; ne vous ay-ie pas veu vous mesmes faire de semblables aumofnes, pourquoy donc ne fe-ray-ie point ce qu'on m'enseigne? Il prenoit par fois vne hache, & s'en alloit coupper du bois de chaufage pour quelques personnes necessiteuses, il secouroit tous ceux qu'il pouuoit, & avec vne telle demonstration d'amour, que tout le monde l'aimoit.

Depuis son baptesme, il affistoit tous les iour à la faincte Messe, recitoit deux fois le iour son chappelet, visitoit souuent le S. Sacrement de l'Autel: bref, il estoit dans de grandes resolutions d'estre à iamais fidelle à nostre Seigneur quand il nous fut rauy, par vn miserable accidēt, felon les hōmes, & peut-estre par vn trait dvn grād amour, & d'vne douce prouidence felon Dieu. Se disposant pour s'en aller en son pays, & choisir ceux qu'il iugeroit propres pour amener au Seminaire, vn coup de vent [137] renuerfa son canot, dans lequel il estoit avec vn ieune Algonquin: Celuy-cy se fauua à la nage, quittant aisément sa robe qu'il portoit volante à la façon des Sauuages, mais nostre pauure Neophyte estant vestu à la françoise, ne pût resister à la tempeste, si bien qu'il fut Baptism for the vigil of Easter, he desired to fast during the entire Holy week. I could hardly satisfy him, so great was his desire that I should converse with him of what concerned his salvation. He was finally made a Christian, and named Pierre Ateachias; and, the day after his baptism, he took communion with a deep appreciation [136] of these august mysteries. As I had spoken to him of works of mercy, he set about practicing them,—going so far as to give to some poor people the very fish that was intended for our Seminarists' dinner; and, when we reproved him for it, 'Have you not told me,' said he, 'that it is a good deed to be charitable? Have I not seen you yourselves giving similar alms? Why, then, shall I not do as I am taught?' He sometimes took a hatchet and went to cut firewood for some needy persons; he helped all whom he could, and with such demonstrations of affection that every one loved him.

"After his baptism, he daily attended holy Mass, said his beads twice a day, often visited the Blessed Sacrament of the Altar; in short, he was living in a firm determination to be forever faithful to our Lord, when he was snatched from us—by a wretched accident, according to men; and perhaps by a stroke of great love and of a gentle providence, according to God. When he was preparing to go back to his own country and to choose those whom he should judge fit to bring to the Seminary, a gust of wind [137] overturned his canoe, containing himself and a young Algonquin. The latter saved himself by swimming, readily throwing off his robe, which he wore loosely, in the manner of the Savages; but our poor Neophyte, being clothed in the French way, could not withstand noyé dans le grand fleuve qui a feruy de sepulchre à son corps: Pour son ame, ie ne puis quasi douter qu'elle ne soit au Ciel; car outre qu'il estoit nouvellement baptisé, & encore tout remply du S. Esprit; vous euffiez dit que Dieu le dispofoit à ceste mort; car vn peu deuant que de s'embarquer, le Pere le voulant faire déjeuner pour ce qu'il auoit trauaillé, il le refusa; & comme le Pere le preffoit, il luy dit: I'ay pris resolution de ieufner aujour'd'huy pour communier demain; ce qu'il fit: & peu de temps apres Nostre Seigneur l'appella à foy.

Venons à nos ieunes Montagnets & Algonquins: Ces ieunes enfans aagez de douze à quinze ans pour la pluspart, nous ont appris deux belles veritez; l'une, que si les animaux font capables de discipline, beaucoup plus les ieunes enfās Sauuages: l'autre, que la seule education māque à ces pauures enfans, ayās l'esprit aussi bon que nos Europeans; [138] cōme on verra par ce que ie vay dire.

Vn petit asnon fauuage n'est pas né dans vne plus grande liberté qu'un petit Canadien; cependant quād ces enfans se voyent dans vn seminaire, ils se rangent doucemēt aux petits exercices qu'on exige d'eux: Ils font leurs prières à deux genouëils foir & matin; cinq d'entr'eux estant baptifez affistoient tous les iours à la Messe: Quand ils estoient au Seminaire deuant le Baptesme, ils ne l'entendent que iusques apres l'Evangile; ils feruent au Preftre à l'Autel avec autant de grace & de modestie, que s'ils auoient esté eleuez dans vne academie bien reglée. Ils se trouuent aux heures qu'on les instruis, s'entr'ayment les vns les autres; mais aussi leur faut-il donner la liberté de se recréer; & comme on ne les meine pas par la crainte, the tempest, so he was drowned in the great river, which served as a sepulchre for his body. As for his soul, I can hardly doubt that it went to Heaven; for, besides that he had been recently baptized, and was still thoroughly imbued with the Holy Ghost, you might have said that God was preparing him for this death,—for, a little while before embarking, when the Father wished to have him take some breakfast because he had been working, he refused it; and, when the Father urged him, he said to him, ‘I have resolved to fast to-day in order that I may take communion tomorrow,’ which he did; and a little while afterwards Our Lord called him to himself.’’

Let us come to our young Montagnais and Algonquins. These young lads, most of them between twelve and fifteen years of age, have taught us two admirable truths,—one is, that if animals are capable of discipline, the young Savage children are much more so; the other, that education alone is wanting to these poor children, whose minds are as good as those of our Europeans, [138] as will be seen by what I am about to say.

A little wild ass is not born into greater freedom than is a little Canadian; yet, when these children find themselves in a seminary, they proceed amiably to perform the little tasks that are exacted from them. They say their prayers on their knees, evening and morning; five of them, having been baptized, attended Mass every day. When they were in the Seminary, before Baptism, they only remained until after the Gospel. They wait upon the Priest at the Altar with as much grace and modesty as if they had been brought up in a well regulated academy; they are il faut prendre son temps pour les ranger par amour; à quoy ils font assez prompts, demandans humblement congé à leur maistre quand ils se veulent vn peu éloigner du logis. Cōme on fait le Catechisme aux petits Frāçois les iours de Dimâches, ou le matin, ou bien apres Vespres, ils ont voulu estre de la partie; si bien qu'on expliquoit la doctrine de IESVS-CHRIST en deux Langues; [139] & nos Seminaristes ialoux de l'honneur qu'on faisoit aux petits François, quand ils répondoient bien; leur voulurēt tenir teste, demandans mesme qu'on leur donnaſt par écrit quelque poinct du Catechisme, cōme ils voyoïet qu'on en donnoit aux autres pour l'apprendre pendant la fe-maine; & en tout cela ils reüſſoient avec autant de grace & de gentilleſſe qu'aucun François, répondans aux questions qu'on leur faisoit avec vne petit grauité, & vne modestie qui gagnoit le cœur, & attiroit l'affection des ſpectateurs. Ils fe confeffoient assez ſouuent, & ceux qu'on iugeoit capables de la faincte Communion s'en approchoient avec preparation & respect.

La crainte du peché entroit profondement dans leurs ames; deux ou trois d'entre eux eſtant allez voir ces Hurons dont i'ay parlé cy-deſſus, ils leur prefenterent ie ne fçay quel potage ou fagamite dans laquelle il y auoit de petits morceaux de chair. Or comme c'eſtoit vn iour auquel il n'étoit pas permis d'en manger, & que d'ailleurs c'eſt vne grande inciuité parmy eux, & vne marque d'orgueil ou d'ini-mitié de refuſer ce qu'on prefente; ils prirent le boüillon détournant doucement les petits [140] morceaux de viande qui eſtoient dedans: Neantmoins eſtans fortis de là, leur ame fut faſie d'un ſcrupule, ſi bien found ready for their lessons at the proper hours; they love one another. But also it is necessary to give them freedom for recreation, and, as they are not led by fear, one must seize the occasion to subdue them by love; to this they are very susceptible, humbly asking leave of their master when they wish to go a short distance from the house. As the Catechism is taught to the little French children on Sundays, either in the morning or after Vespers, they desired to participate therein. So the doctrine of JESUS CHRIST was explained in two Languages; [139] and our Seminarists,—jealous of the honor shown to the little French children when they answered well, and wishing to cope with them,—even asked that they should be given in writing a few points of the Catechism, as they saw these were given to the others to learn during the week. In all this they succeeded, with as much grace and docility as any of the French, answering the questions put to them with a little gravity, and a modesty that won the hearts and attracted the friendly feeling of the spectators. They made their confessions quite often, and those who were regarded as fit for the holy Communion approached it with preparation and respect.

The fear of sin entered deeply into their souls. Two or three of them, having gone to see those Hurons of whom I have spoken above, were offered I know not what kind of soup or sagamite, in which there were small pieces of meat. Now,—as it was a day upon which they were not permitted to eat meat; and as, besides, it is great impoliteness among them, and a sign of pride or enmity, to refuse what is offered,—they took the soup, and quietly removed the little [140] morsels of meat that were in it. Nev-qu'ils demanderent le foir au Pere qui auoit soin du Seminaire Montagnets & Algonquins, s'ils n'auoient pas offensé Dieu d'auoir mangé de ce boüillon; pour moy, disoit lvn, ie n'ay point mangé de chair; l'autre disoit qu'il en auoit auallé vn petit morceau par mégarde: bref, ils témoignerent que leur cœur n'étoit pas content de ceste action, & prirent resolution de ne plus frequenter ceux qui les pouuoient porter au mal.

Pour ce que ie disois de la bonté de leur esprit, i'en tire la preuve des interrogations qu'ils faisoient à leur maistre: En voicy quelques-vnes qu'il m'a donné par écrit. Je confesse que ces enfans font éueillez, & qu'ils font paroistre beaucoup d'esprit, mais ie n'eusse pas crû qu'ils eussent tant raisonné, notamment en matiere de nostre creance. Escoutons leurs demandes: Vous nous dites que le baptesme est abfolument necessaire pour aller au Ciel, s'il se trouuoit vn homme si bon, que iamais il n'eut offensé Dieu, & qui mourut fans Baptesme, iroit-il en Enfer, n'ayant donné aucune fascherie à Dieu, s'il va en Enfer, [141] Dieu n'ayme pas tous les gens de bien, puis qu'il iette celuy là dans le feu.

Vous nous enseignez que Dieu estoit auant la creation du ciel & de la terre; s'il estoit, où fe logeoit-il? puis qu'il n'étoit, ny au ciel, ny en la terre? Vous dites encore que les Anges ont esté crées au commencement du monde, & que ceux qui desobeïrent furent iettez en Enfer: d'ailleurs, vous mettez l'Enfer dans le fond de la terre; cela ne fe peut pas bien accorder, car si les Anges ont peché devant la creation de la terre, ils n'ont pû estre iettez en Enfer, ou l'Enfer n'est pas où vous le placez.

De plus, vous asseurez que ceux qui vont en Enfer ertheless, after they departed thence, their souls were assailed by scruples; so, that evening they asked the Father who had charge of the Montagnais and Algonquin Seminary if they had not offended God in having eaten this soup. "As for me," said one, "I did not eat any meat;" the other said he had swallowed a little piece unwittingly. In short, they showed that their hearts were not satisfied with this action, and they determined no more to associate with those who could do them harm.

In regard to what I said about the excellence of their minds, I get proof of it from the questions they asked their master; here are some that he has communicated to me in a letter. I confess that these children are wide-awake, and that they evince a great deal of intelligence, but I would not have believed that they could reason so well, especially in the matter of our belief. Let us hear their questions. "You tell us that baptism is absolutely necessary to go to Heaven; if there were a man so good that he had never offended God, and if he died without Baptism, would he go to Hell, never having given any offense to God? If he goes to Hell, [141] God does not love all good people, since he throws that one into the fire.

"You teach us that God existed before the creation of heaven and earth; if he did, where did he live, since there was neither heaven nor earth? You say also that the Angels were created in the beginning of the world, and that those who disobeyed were cast into Hell; elsewhere, you put Hell in the depths of the earth; these statements cannot agree very well, for, if the Angels sinned before the creation of the earth, they could not be thrown into Hell, or Hell is not where you place it.

n'en sortent point, & cependant vous nous racontez des Histoires de quelques damnez qui ont paru au monde, comment cela se peut-il entendre?

Ceux qui liront cecy en croiront ce qui leur plairra; mais il est vray que ces demandes ont esté faites par de ieunes Seminarist[es] Sauuages âgez de douze à quinze ans. Comme on leur expliquoit que les Diables n'auoient pas de corps, & que se voulant faire voir aux hōmes, ils se couroient de figures difformes; ils demanderent si quand [i]ls paroiffoient en forme d'hommes ou d'animal, [142] on ne les pouuoit point tuer: Ah! que ie les tuerois volontiers, disoit lvn d'eux, puis qu'ils font tant de mal! Mais quand ils font faits comme des hommes, disoient-ils, & qu'ils viennent parmy les hommes, sentent-ils encore le feu d'Enfer? D'où vient qu'ils ne se repentoient point d'auoir offendé Dieu? s'ils se repentoient, Dieu ne leur feroit-il pas misericorde? Si Nostre Seigneur a souffert pour tous les pecheurs, pourquoy ceux là ne trouuent-ils pas de pardon auprés de lui. Voila encore vne autre question bien remarquable pour des enfans. Vous dites que la Vierge Mere de I E S V S - C H R I S T , n'est pas Dieu, & qu'elle n'a iamais offendé Dieu, & que son Fils a rachepté tous les hommes, & payé pour tous; si elle n'a fait aucun mal, son Fils ne l'a pû rachepter, ny payer pour elle? En verité toutes ces demandes m'étonnent, quand ie les considere en la bouche d'un enfant qu'on appelle Sauuage & barbare. Ie ne fay point mention des réponses que leur dōnoit leur Directeur, tant pour n'estre trop long, que pour autant que ie ne pretends point parler icy directement de nos actions, mais de celles des Sauuages. Or comme nos Seminaristes

" Moreover, you declare that those who go to Hell do not come out of it, and yet you relate Stories of the damned who have appeared in the world; how is that to be understood?"

Those who read this may believe what they please, but it is true that these questions were asked by young Savage Seminarists between twelve and fifteen years old. When it was explained to them that Devils had no bodies, and that when they wished to make themselves visible to men, they assumed deformed bodies, they asked if, when these appeared in the form of men or of animals, [142] they could not be killed. " Ah, how I would like to kill them," said one, " since they do so much harm!" " But if they are made like men," they said, " and come among men, do they still feel the fire of Hell? Why is it that they do not repent of having offended God? If they did repent, would not God be merciful to them? If Our Lord has suffered for all sinners, why do not those receive pardon from him?" Here is still another question, and a very remarkable one for children: " You say that the Virgin, Mother of JESUS CHRIST, is not God, and that she has never offended God, and that her Son has redeemed all men, and atoned for all; if she has done nothing wrong, her Son could not redeem her nor atone for her." In truth, all these queries astonish me, when I think of them as coming from the mouth of a child who is called a Savage and a barbarian. I do not mention the answers given them by their Director, both to avoid being tedious, and inasmuch as I do not purpose to speak here directly of our own actions, but of those of the Savages. Now, while our Seminarists [145 i.e., 143] were living in a sweet tran-

[145 i.e., 143] viuoient dans vne douce tranquillité, s'auançans de iour à autre en la cognoissance de Dieu, & en l'exercice des vertus proportiōnées à leur aage, la maladie & la mort vindrent troubler nostre ioye; lvn deux traifna assez long-temps d'vne maladie fort languissante; ses compagnons l'auoient au commencement en auersion: mais comme on leur eut enseigné que Dieu prenoit plaisir aux actions de charité, ils le visitoient, luy portoient à manger, & si pour sa foibleffe il ne pouuoit pas faire la benediction deuant son repas, ils la faisoient pour luy; en fin la mort l'enleua le cinquième de Mars: il fallut pour le mettre au sepulchre chercher la terre sous six pieds de neige, tant il en est tombé ceste année.

Enuiron six sepmaines ou deux mois apres sa mort, lvn des plus gentils & des plus adroits enfans du mesme Seminaire, fut faisi d'vne fiéure lente qui ne l'a pas encore quitté; nous voyōs bien qu'elle le menera au tombeau aussi bien que son compagno. Quelque temps apres, le plus accomplly de tous, fut enleuē de ce monde par vne espece de pleuresie, & cela en moins de dix iours. Ces accidens nous firent refoudre de ne retenir avec nous que les cinq [144] ou six plus petits qui ont encor esté attaquez de catarthes & de rhumes, tant il est difficile de faire subsister ces pauures Seminaristes hors de la maison ou des cabanes de leurs parents. Le Diable voit bien le fruct qu'on en peut esperer, c'est pourquoy il fait ioüer tous les ressorts de sa malice pour renuerfer cette faincte entreprise, il n'y perdra que ses peines.

Outre ces enfans, nous secourons toufiours quelques Sauuages proches de nos habitations; ce pauure peuple est le vray obiect de la misericorde, il a besoin quillity, advancing from day to day in the knowledge of God, and in the exercise of the virtues suited to their age, sickness and death came to trouble our joy. One of them wasted away for some time with a lingering illness; his companions at first felt an aversion for him, but as they had been taught that God took pleasure in acts of charity, they visited him, carried him food, and, as he could not offer a blessing before his meal on account of his weakness, they offered it for him; death finally removed him, on the fifth of March. To bury him, it was necessary to reach the ground through six feet of snow, so abundantly did it fall this year.

About six weeks or two months after his death, one of the prettiest and cleverest children of the same Seminary was attacked by a slow fever which has not yet left him; we see clearly that it will lead him to the grave as well as his companion. Some time afterward, the most accomplished one of all was taken from this world by a sort of pleurisy, and that in less than ten days. These casualties made us resolve to keep with us only the five [144] or six younger boys, who also have been attacked by catarrh and colds,—so difficult is it to make these poor Seminarists exist out of the homes or cabins of their kindred. The Devil sees clearly the fruit that may be expected from them, hence he employs all the resources of his malice to overthrow this holy enterprise; he will only lose therein his own labor.

Besides these children, we always help some Savages near our settlements. These poor people are truly an object of pity, and need to be powerfully aided. Charity has strong arms; I will say only two words to all those who exercise it: Date, et dabitur d'estre puissamment aydé. La charité a des bras puissants, ie ne dy que deux mots à tous ceux qui s'en feruent: Date, & dabitur vobis, mensuram bonam & confertam, & coagitatam, & superfluentem dabunt in finum vestrum. Donnez d'vne main, & receuez de l'autre; IESVS-CHRIST y est engagé, il verifiera ses paroles: Quiconque fera fructifier sa Croix, & son Sang, fera payé à bonne mesure.

vobis, mensuram bonam et confertam, et coagitatam, et superfluentem dabunt in sinum vestrum. Give with one hand, and receive with the other. JESUS CHRIST is pledged to this; he will verify his words. Whoever will make his Cross and his Blood bear fruit, will be repaid in good measure.

DE LA CREANCE DES SUPERSTITIONS, & DE QUELQUES
COUSTUMES DES SAUUVAGES.

LES Relations des années precedentes estant remplies des façons de faire de nos Sauuages, ie ne pretends pas en parler icy plainement, mais bien coucher en peu de paroles ce que i'ay apris de nouveau sur ce fuiet: qui si i'vee de quelques redites, c'est que i'ay perdu la memoire de ce que i'ay récry par cy-deuant.

Premierement, pour ce qui touche leur creance, quelques-vns se figurent vn Paradis remplis de bluets; ce font petits fruits bleus, dont les grains font aussi gros que les plus gros grains de raisin. Ie n'en ay point veu en France, ils font dvn assez bon goust; c'est pourquoy les ames les aymēt fort d'autres disent que les ames ne font que dancer apres le depart de ceste vie; il y en a qui admettent la transmigratiō des esprits, comme faisoit Pythagore, & la plupart s'imaginēt que l'ame est stupide, ayant quitté le [146] corps; tous cr[o]yent pour l'ordinaire qu'elle est immortelle. Ils distinguent plusieurs ames dās vn même corps. Vn vieillard nous disoit il y a quelque temps que quelques Sauuages auoiēt iusqu'à deux & trois ames, que la sienne l'auoit quitté il y auoit plus de deux ans pour s'en aller avec ses parēts defuncts, qu'il n'auoit plus que l'ame de son corps qui deuoit décēdre au tombeau avec luy. On co-

OF THE BELIEF IN SUPERSTITIONS, AND OF SOME CUSTOMS OF THE SAVAGES.

AS the Relations of preceding years are filled with the customs of our Savages, I do not intend to speak of them fully here, but rather to set down in a few words what I have learned that is new upon this subject. If I indulge in some repetitions, it is because I have forgotten what I have before written thereon.

First, as to what concerns their belief. Some of them imagine a Paradise abounding in blueberries;¹³ these are little blue fruits, the berries of which are as large as the largest grapes. I have not seen any of them in France. They have a tolerably good flavor, and for this reason the souls like them very much. Others say that the souls do nothing but dance after their departure from this life; there are some who admit the transmigration of souls, as Pythagoras did; and the majority of them imagine that the soul is insensible after it has left the [146] body; as a general thing, all believe that it is immortal. They distinguish several souls in one and the same body. An old man told us some time ago that some Savages had as many as two or three souls; that his own had left him more than two years before, to go away with his dead relatives,—that he no longer had any but the soul of his own body, which would go down into the grave with him. One learns from this gnoist par là qu'ils s'imaginent que le corps a vne ame propre, que quelques-vns appellent l'ame de leur Nation, & qu'en outre il y en vient, d'autres qu'ils le quittent plustost ou plus tard felon leur fantaisie. En effet, i'en ay oiiy quelques-vns qui affeuroiēt n'auoir point d'ames, ils entendoient parler de ces formes affistentes, dont ils se persuadent par fois qu'ils font possedez, le Diable fe feruāt de leur fantaisie, & de leurs paſſiōs, ou de leur melāolie, pour operer quelques effects que leur paroiffent extraordinaires: Ils s'imaginēt que cela prouient de la diuersité de leurs ames, s'ils ceſſent de songer, ou d'estre pouffez de quelque paſſiō non cōmune, ou de quelque Demō, ils difent que leur ame les a quitté, si le Diable réueille leur fantaisie, leur ame est de retour. Je pense auoir desia remarqué [147] qu'ils fe representent l'ame comme vn ombre qui a des pieds & des mains, vn corps, vne teste, des dents; aussi croyent-ils qu'elle mange, ils ont trouué de la viande rongée par les ames, ils les ont oiiy ſifler, comme ces petits grillets qu'on entend quelquefois à la campagne; ils s'en trouuent qui ont des penſées encore plus raualées que tout cela touchant les ames; car ils difent que le Diable fe repaift de leur ceruelle, mettant au lieu des fueilles d'arbres feiches; c'est pourquoy ces pauures ames sōt folles & étourdies, n'ayās point de ceruelle. Voila les tenebres où fe perdent les hōmes qui ne font point éclairez du flābeau de la Foy. Ceux qui fe fouuiendront de la creance des anciens, tant Grecs que Romains, & de fottes opinions que ces Sages du monde ont eu touchant la Diuinité, & touchant nos ames, diront que toute la fageſſe des hommes n'est que folie: Sapientia huius mundi ſtultitia est apud De-

that they imagine the body has a soul of its own, which some call the soul of their Nation; and that, in addition to this, others come, which leave it sooner or later, according to their fancy. In fact, I have heard some of them assert that they have no souls; they hear people talk about these attendant forms, and sometimes persuade themselves that they possess them,—the Devil employing their imagination and their passions, or their melancholy, to bring about some results that appear to them extraordinary. They imagine that this arises from the diversity of their souls. If they cease to dream, or to be urged on by some unusual passion, or by some Demon, they say that their soul has left them; if the Devil arouses their fancy, their soul has returned. I think I have already remarked [147] that they represent the soul to themselves as a shadow which has feet and hands, a body, a head, and teeth; they also believe that it eats. They have found meat nibbled by the souls; they have heard them whistle like those little crickets that one hears sometimes in the country. There are some who have thoughts still more debasing than all these, regarding the soul; for they say that the Devil feeds upon their brains, and puts in place of them withered leaves of trees; hence these poor souls are foolish and heedless, having no brains. Behold the shadows in which men lose themselves who have not been enlightened by the torch of the Faith! Those who recall the belief of the ancients, both Greeks and Romans, and the foolish opinions that those Sages of the world had touching the Divinity, and regarding our souls, will say that all the wisdom of men is only folly. Sapientia hujus mundi stultitia

um. La Foy découure les veritez du Ciel & de la terre.

Il y a des superftitiōs en l'ancienne France aussi bien qu'en la nouuelle. Vne femme Françoise estant icy malade, vn autre femme luy dit qu'elle gueriroit, si on luy pendoit au col vn trouſſeau de clefs; voila [148] qui vient de vostre France, en voicy de la nostre.

Quelques Sauuages malades voulans recognoistre d'où procedoient leurs maladies, mirent des os de Castors bien fecs deffous vne couverture, puis lvn de la troupe fe glissant deffous, mist le feu à ces os avec des charbons bien allumez; cependans fes camarades chātoient & hurloient à leur mode: en fin ces os reduits en cendre, celuy qui s'estoit caché, fortit, leua la couverture, ietta les cendres, & le feu au vent, s'escriant qu'on prit bien garde d'où venoit la maladie; le Pere qui veit faire ceste superftition, demanda prou comment on pouuoit recognoistre par ceste badinerie d'où leur mal procedoit, mais on ne luy voulut pas apprendre ce secret.

Le mesme Pere voyant quelques Algonquins biē empeschez, frappās fur leurs cabanes avec des bastons, leur demanda ce qu'ils faisoient; ils respondirent qu'ils taschoient de chasser l'ame d'vne femme trespassée qui rodoit là autour. On dit qu'il y en a de si simples qu'ils tendent des rets à l'entour de leurs cabanes, afin que les ames de ceux qui trespassent chez [149] leurs voisins s'y prennent, si elles veulent entrer dans leurs demeures. Les autres brûlent quelque chose puāte pour diuertir les ames par ceste odeur, voire ils mettent sur leurs testes ce qui sent mal, afin que les ames ne les abordēt. Vn Iongleur brandilloit vn iour son épée dedas l'air, s'imagināt qu'il épouente-est apud Deum. Faith reveals the truths of Heaven and of earth.

There are superstitions in old France as well as in the new. A French woman being sick here, another woman told her that she would recover if she would hang a bunch of keys around her neck; there [148] is something that comes from your France, here is something from ours.

Some sick Savages, wishing to ascertain whence proceeded their diseases, put some well-dried bones of a Beaver under a blanket; then one of the crowd, crawling under, set fire to these bones with some glowing coals; meanwhile, his comrades sang and howled after their fashion. At last, when these bones were reduced to ashes, the one who had concealed himself came out, raised the blanket, threw the ashes and the fire to the wind, crying out that they should be on the watch to see whence came the sickness. The Father who saw this act of superstition performed asked repeatedly how one could find out through this nonsense whence came their sickness, but they would not teach him this secret.

The same Father, seeing some Algonquins busily engaged in striking upon their cabins with sticks, asked them what they were doing. They replied that they were trying to drive away the soul of a dead woman which was prowling around there. It is said that there are some so simple as to stretch nets around their cabins, so that the souls of those who pass away at the houses [149] of their neighbors may be caught therein, if they wish to enter their dwellings. Others burn some ill-smelling thing to turn away the souls by this odor,—they even put something with a bad odor upon their heads, so that the souls may roit vne ame nouuellemēt sortie de son corps. Ils ont grand peur que ces ames n'entrēt dans leurs cabanes, ou n'y fassēt quelque feiour, car elles emmene-roiēt quelqu'vn avec elles en leur païs. Vn certain ayāt veu'vne fusée en l'air, & ne scachāt pas d'où elle étoit partie, ne pouuāt croire d'ailleurs que les François pūffent lancer du feu si haut, asseuroit qu'il auoit veu vne ame qui s'égaroit dedās le iour; c'est ainsi qu'ils nōment l'air. Les femmes pendent au col de leurs petits enfans vn petit bout du nōbril qu'il apportēt en leur naissance; s'ils le perdoiēt, leurs enfans feroient tous hebetez & sans esprit, à ce qu'ils pēsent: Quād on marche dans les tenebres, on ne fait guiere de pas sans chopper. I'ay déja trop parlé de ce qu'ils font pour la guerisō de leurs malades, nous auons veu ceste année vn ieu solennel ou vn défy entre deux natiōs qui s'échaufferent fort & ferme pour guerir vn pauure [150] patient. Les ioüeurs & les patiens [sc. pariens] s'en allerent en fa cabane au son du tambour, & de l'écaille de tortuë, qu'ils accompagnerēt de cris & de chants à leur mode. Ceux qui paroient ou qui gageoient estoient assis de part & d'autre, regardās leurs ioüeurs, chacun fauorisāt sō party avec plusieurs gestes & plusieurs cris fuiuans leur passion & leur affection: La conclusion fut, que l'ame des deux nations perdit quātité de porcelaine, & d'autres chofes qu'ils auoient mis au ieu; car pour le malade il ne receut autre soulagement, sinon d'auoir la teste bien rompuë de tout ce grand tumulte. not come near them. A Juggler one day brandished his javelin in the air, imagining that he would frighten a soul which had recently left its own body. They greatly fear that these souls will enter their cabins, or will sojourn there; for, if they did, they would take some one away with them into their country. A certain man, seeing a rocket in the air, and not knowing whence it came,—not being able to believe, moreover, that the French could throw fire so high,—asserted that he had seen a soul wandering in the light; it is thus they call the air. The women hang to the necks of their little children a small piece of the navel that is attached to them when they are born; if they were to lose it, their children would all be dolts and lacking in sense, they think. When people walk in the darkness, they take few steps without stumbling. I have already said too much about what they do for the recovery of their sick. This year we have seen a solemn game or challenge between two nations, who had a fierce contest over the recovery of a poor [150] patient. The players and the betters went into his cabin at the sound of the drum and of the tortoise shell, which they accompanied with cries and shouts, in their fashion. Those who bet or wagered were seated on either side, watching their players, each favoring his own side with many gestures and many cries, according to their enthusiasm and their interest. The result was that the soul of the two nations lost a quantity of porcelain, and other things which had been staked; but, as for the sick man, he experienced no other relief than that of having his head well broken by all this great uproar. After these fine Physicians had left, he sent for one of our Fathers, who had begun to in-

Au reste la creance & les superstitions des Sauuages n'est pas bien profondement enracinée dans leur esprit; car comme toutes ces refueries ne sont fondées que sur le mensonge, elles tombent d'elles [151] mesmes, & se fondent, ou se dissipent aux rayons des veritez qu'on leur propose tres-côformes à la raifon. Je n'ay veu que quelques vieillards bien opiniaſtres, dont le cerueau déſeiché dans leurs vielles maximes, n'auoit plus d'humeur pour receuoir l'impreſſion de nostre doctrine, si quelques vns retombent par fois en leurs badineries, c'est plufloſt par habitude que par vne grande creance qu'ils ayent en leurs superstitions, notamment depuis qu'on les instruit.

Pour ce qui concerne leurs couſtumes, c'est vne affaire de plus grande haleine, il est plus aſé de bannir l'erreur de l'entendement, que d'ofter les mauuaises habitudes de la volonté: Il n'y a pas beaucoup de peines à recognoistre & approuuer le bien, mais on en trouue à le practiquer. Video meliora proboque deteriora sequor. Il est vray qu'il y a quelques couſtumes parmy les Sauuages qui s'aboliront ayférment, d'autres non. En voicy de diuerſes façons. La paſſion du ieu est violente, aussi bien en nostre France, qu'en la vostre. I'ay [veu] vne femme Sauuage ayant perdu tout ce qu'elle auoit, fe ioüier elle mesme: non pas [152] fon honneur, mais bien fon feruice, c'est à dire, qu'elle eut eſtē comme eſclauē ou feruante du vainqueur si elle eut perdu; ils difent qu'il arriue par fois qu'un homme ou vne femme struct him; he asked him for Baptism. The Father intended to chide and repulse him, upon seeing this foolish superstition; but the poor patient said to him, "It was not I who called them; my mother dreamed that I would recover if a solemn game were played; this is why she has caused me all this difficulty without my having anything to say about it."

For the rest, the belief and superstitions of the Savages are not very deeply rooted in their minds; for, as all these idle fancies are only founded upon lies, they fall of themselves, [151] and suddenly disappear, or are dissipated by the rays of the truths, entirely conformable to reason, that are proposed to them. The only quite obstinate ones I have seen were a few old men, whose brains, dried up in their old maxims, had no longer any fluid in which to receive the impression of our doctrine. If occasionally some of them fall back into their foolish practices, it is more through force of habit than through any profound belief they have in their own superstitions, especially since they are being instructed.

As for what relates to their customs, that is a longer story. It is easier to banish errors of the understanding, than to remove the bad habits of the will. There is not much difficulty in recognizing and approving the good, but one finds it very hard to practice it. Video meliora proboque deteriora sequor. True, there are some customs among the Savages which will be easily abolished, others not. Here are some, of different kinds: The passion for gambling is strong in our France, as well as in yours. I have seen a Savage woman who, having lost all she had, staked herself,—not [152] her honor, but indeed her services,—that is to say, she would have s'estans ioiez eux mesmes, celuy qui les gagne, les retient vn ou deux ans, & les emploie à la pêche, à la chasse, aux petites affaires domestiques; puis leur donne liberté. Les Sauuages ne sçauroient exercer de feuerité, ny exiger avec rudeesse aucun ferauice de leurs Compatriotes.

Vn Huron ayant ioüé toutes ses richeesses, mist sa perruque en jeu, l'ayant perduë, le vainqueur le raza iusques au cuir de la teste. On m'a dit qu'il y en a qui ioüent iusques à leur petit doigt de la main, & que l'ayant perdu, ils le donnent à coupper, sans montrer aucun signe de douleur. Je croirois bien qu'un Sauuage d'une Nation pourroit bien coupper le doigt à un Sauuage d'un autre; mais ie ne sçaurois me persuader qu'il exerce ceste cruauté envers aucun homme de son païs, ils se respectent ou se craignent trop les vns les autres, pour les estrangers, ils les méprisent fort.

Pour conclusion de ce point, ie puis dire [153] que les Sauuages, quoy que passionnez pour le ieu, l'emportent par dessus nos Europeans. Ils ne font quasi paroistre iamais, ny de ioye pour leur gain, ny de tristesse pour leur perte, ioüans avec une tranquilité exterieure tres remarquable, fideles au possible, sans se tromper les vns les autres. Je ne sçay si i'ay fait mention d'une coutume qu'ont les Sauuages, de refusciter ou faire reuiure leurs amis trespasséz, notamment s'ils estoient hommes de considération parmy eux. Ils font porter le nom du defunct à quelque autre; & voila le mort refuscité, & la tristesse des parens entierement passée. Remarquez que le nom se donne dans une grande assemblée ou festin, on adioûte vn present qui se fait de la part des parens ou been as a slave or servant of the winner, if she had lost. They say that it sometimes happens that when men or women stake themselves, he who wins them keeps them one or two years, and employs them in fishing, hunting, or in minor household duties; then he gives them their liberty. The Savages cannot exercise severity, nor harshly exact a service from their Countrymen.

A Huron, having played away all his wealth, staked his hair, and having lost it, the winner cut it off close to the scalp. I have been told that there are some who gamble even to the little finger of the hand, and who, having lost it, give it to be cut off, without showing any sign of pain. I would readily believe that a Savage of one Nation could easily cut off the finger of a Savage of another; but I cannot persuade myself that he exercises this cruelty towards any man of his own country,—they respect or fear one another too much. As for strangers, they have a great contempt for them.

To conclude this subject, I can say [153] that the Savages, although passionately fond of gambling, show themselves superior to our Europeans. They hardly ever evince either joy in winning or sadness in losing, playing with most remarkable external tranquillity,—as honorably as possible, never cheating one another. I do not know whether I have mentioned a custom the Savages have, of resuscitating or bringing to life again their departed friends, especially if they were men of influence among them. They transfer the name of the dead to some other man, and lo, the dead is raised to life, and the grief of the relatives is all past. Observe that the name is given in a great assembly or feast; a present is des amis de celuy qu'on fait reuiure, & celuy qui accepte le nom, & le prefent, s'oblige d'auoir soin de la famille du defunet, si bien que les pupils le nomment leur pere. Cette couftume semble fort loüable pour le bien des pauures orphelins.

Ils gardent les mesmes ceremonies quād quelque braue homme a esté massacré par leurs ennemis, s'il auoit quelque Collier de porcelaine, ou autre chose de valeur, fes [154] amis l'offrent à quelque bon guerrier, ou luy font quelque present de leurs propres moyens, si cét homme les accepte avec le nom du defunct qu'on luy donne publiquement, il s'oblige d'aller à la guerre, d'y mener ceux qu'il pourra, & de tuer quelques ennemis à la place du trespasse qui reuit en sa personne.

On me dit encor que les Sauuages changent souuent de noms. On leur en donne vn en leur naissance, ils le changent en l'aage viril, & en prēnent vn autre en leur vieillesse; voire mesme si quelqu'un est bien malade, s'il n'échappe de cette maladie, il quittera par fois son ancien, nom comme s'il luy portoit malheur pour en prendre vn autre de meilleur augure.

Si vn Sauuage se remarier deuant trois ans apres le decez de sa femme, il n'est pas bien voulu des parens de la defunte, ils tiennent cela comme vne espece de mespris, cét homme faisant voir qu'il n'aimoit point leur parenté, puis qu'il s'allie si tost d'une autre. Que si vne femme apres le decez de son mary en prend vn autre deuant ce terme sans le congé des parens du trépassé, non seulement ils luy fçauent mauuais gré, mais ils pillent son mary [155] s'ils le rencontrent, & cette couftume est tellement passée pour loy, que nous l'auons veu pratiquer deuant nos added, which is made on the part of the relatives or friends of him who has been brought back to life; and he who accepts the name and the present binds himself to take charge of the family of the deceased, so that his wards call him their father. This custom seems very commendable for the good of poor orphans.

They observe the same ceremonies when some brave man has been slain by their enemies. If he had a porcelain Collar, or something else of value, his [154] friends offer it to some good warrior, or make him some presents from their own means. If this man accepts them, together with the name of the dead man, which they publicly give him, he binds himself to go to the war, to take with him such men as he can, and to kill some of the enemy, in place of the deceased who lives again in his person.

I am told also that the Savages often change their names. A name is given to them at their birth,—they change it in manhood, and take another in their old age; indeed, if any one is very sick, and does not recover from this sickness, he will sometimes give up his old name, as if it brought him ill-luck, to take another of better omen.

If a Savage remarries within three years after the death of his wife, he is not kindly regarded by the relatives of the dead woman; they regard that as a sort of contempt,—this man making it apparent that he did not love their relative, since he allied himself so soon with another. And if a woman, after the decease of her husband, takes another before this length of time, without the permission of the dead man's relatives, they not only bear her ill-will, but they plunder her husband [155] if they meet him;

yeux: en forte que celuy qui s'estoit ainsi marié, veit prendre ses Colliers de Porcelaine, & tout ce qu'il auoit, sans dire autre chose finon que c'estoit luy qui fe faisoit ce tort, pour auoir enfrainct leur coustume.

Quand vne fille ou vne femme agrée quelqu'vn qui la recherche, elle se fait couper les cheueux à la facon que les portent les filles en France pendant dessus le front; ce qui a fort mauuaise grace, tant en l'vne qu'en l'autre France, S. Paul defendant aux femmes de faire paroistre leurs cheueux. Les femmes portent icy leurs cheueux en pacquets derriere la teste, en forme d'vne trouffe qu'ils ornent de Porcelaine quand elles en ont; Si se marians à quelqu'vn elles le quittent mal à propos, ou si s'estans promis, & ayans accepté quelque present, elles ne tiennent leur parolle, leur pretendu mary leur coupe par fois ces cheueux; ce qui les rend fort mesprifables, & les empesche de trouuer vne autre espoux. Cette coustume se garde plus estroittement chez les Algonquins, que parmy les Montagnets. Les [156] Sauuages ne s'allient pas aysément de leurs parens, ie ne fçay pas encore les degrez ausquels ils se peuuent marier sans reproche de leurs Compatriotes, mais il me semble qu'ils font bien plus reserues que nous en certain cas. Par exemple, si vn pere a deux enfans, ils s'appellent frere & fœur, comme parmy nous, mais leurs enfans se nommeront aussi freres & fœur, & les descendans de ceux-cy porteront le mesme nom de frere & de fœur, & iamais ne se mariront ensemble, s'ils gardent les bonnes coustumes de leur nation; que s'ils les enfraignent, on ne leur dit autre chose, finon qu'ils n'ont point d'esprit. Vn Sauuage ne fait point de difficulté d'espoufer deux fœurs à mesme temps, ou and this custom has so passed for law that we have seen it practiced before our eyes,—in such a way that the one who had thus married saw his Porcelain Collars and all he had, taken without saying anything else except that it was he who had injured himself by having infringed upon their custom.

When a girl or woman accepts some one who is wooing her, she has her hair cut after the fashion in which girls in France wear it, hanging over the forehead,—which is very ungraceful, in both the one and the other France, St. Paul prohibiting the women from making a show of their hair. The women here wear their hair fastened on the back of their heads in bunches, which they ornament with Porcelain when they have it. If after marriage, they leave their husbands without cause, or if, having promised and having accepted presents, they do not keep their word, their intended husbands sometimes cut off this hair,—this makes them very despicable, and prevents them from finding another husband. This custom is followed more closely among the Algonquins than among the Montagnais. The [156] Savages do not readily ally themselves with their relatives. I do not yet know the degrees in which they can marry without the reproach of their Compatriots, but it seems to me they are much more cautious than we are in certain cases. For example, if a father has two children, they are called brother and sister, as among us; but their children will also be called brothers and sisters, and the descendants of these will bear the same title of brothers and sisters, and will never intermarry, if they follow the good customs of their nation; but if they infringe upon them, nothing more is said to them than that they have no s'il en a desfa espousé vne, il peut prendre l'autre du viuant de sa premiere femme, car s'il attendoit apres sa mort, il la reputeroit comme sa niepce, & ne l'espouferoit pas sans blasme. Ils enterrent leurs morts en forte que la teste du trespasse regarde l'Occident, c'est afin que l'ame cognoisse le lieu où elle doit aller. Ils croyent, comme i'ay dit, qu'elle s'en va où le Soleil se couche; c'est là le pays des ames à leur dire. En effect estans priuez du flambeau de la Foy, [157] ils descendant, in regionem umbræ mortis, où le Soleil de Iustice est couché pour eux eternellement.

Ils font fort portez à croire les chofes extraordinaires. Vn Sauuage de l'Isle nous disoit, il n'y a pas long-temps que le bruit estoit par tous les pays plus hauts iusques dans les Nipisiriniens, qu'vn de nos Peres d'icy bas auoit vescu cinq aages d'hommes, que le poil luy estoit tōbé quatre fois, qu'il grisonnoit pour la cinquiesme: là deffus il luy demandoit combien de fois encor il retourneroit en l'aage viril devant que de mourir.

sense. A Savage has no scruples against marrying two sisters at once; or, if he has already married one, he can take the other during the lifetime of his first wife,—for if he waited until after her death he must reckon her as his niece, and could not marry her without reproach. They bury their dead in such a way that the head of the departed one faces the West, in order that the soul may know the place whither it is to go. They believe, as I have said, that it goes to the place where the Sun sets,—this being the country of souls, according to them. In fact, being deprived of the torch of Faith, [157] they descend in regionem umbræ mortis, where the Sun of Justice has set for them forever.

They are very prone to believe things out of the common order. A Savage of the Island told us not long ago that the report was current throughout all the upper countries, even among the Nipisiriniens, that one of our Fathers down here had lived five lives,—that his hair had fallen four times, and that he was growing gray for the fifth time; and then he asked how many more times the Father would return to manhood before dying.

QVOY que les remarques que ie vay faire n'ayent quasi point de liaison les vns avec les autres, elles donneront néāmoins tousiours quelque iour & quelque lumiere pour mieux recognoistre l'esprit des Sauuages. Vn Capitaine des Algonquins de l'Isle, homme d'esprit & bien eloquent pour vn Sauuage, ayant eu quelque different avec vn autre Algonquin, receut vn coup de hache à la teste qui luy pensa oster la vie. Et en effect il l'auroit perduë n'eust esté qu'vn Sauuage detournant le bras de l'agresseur empescha la violence du coup. Cet homme se voyant tout baigné dans son fang, ne se troubla point, il s'affit froidement dans la cabane de celuy qui l'auoit frappé, sans faire paroistre aucun mouuement, ny de crainte, ny de vengeance, celuy qui auoit [159] fait le coup s'affit vn peu plus loing, ne paroissant nullement alteré. Vn de nos Peres aduerty de cette dispute, s'en court droit à la cabane, entre dedans, trouue tout le monde dans le silence aussi paisible & aussi froid que marbre, il n'eut pas creu qu'il y eut eu aucune querelle entre des gens si froids, & si paisibles en apparence, s'il n'eut veu le sang ruisseler de la teste de ce pauure miserable; il luy demande qui luy a fait cette playe, point de responce, l'agresseur prit la parole, & luy dit; c'est moy qui l'ait fait, parce

A COLLECTION OF VARIOUS MATTERS WHICH COULD NOT BE RELATED IN THE PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

ALTHOUGH the remarks I am about to make have almost no connection with one another, they will give, nevertheless, some light and some information for the better understanding of the minds of the Savages. A Captain of the Algonquins of the Island,—a man of intelligence, and very eloquent for a Savage,—having had some quarrel with another Algonquin, received a hatchet blow upon his head that almost cost him his life,—and, in fact, he would have lost it, had not a Savage, by turning away the arm of the aggressor, lessened the violence of the blow. This man, seeing himself all covered with his own blood, did not trouble himself about it, but coolly sat down in the cabin of him who had struck him,—showing no emotion, either of fear or of revenge. The man who had [159] given the blow sat down not far away, appearing in no wise concerned. One of our Fathers, being informed of this dispute, ran straightway to the cabin, entered, and found all its people in silence, as calm and as cold as marble. He would not have believed that there was any quarrel between people apparently so calm and peaceable, if he had not seen the blood trickling from the head of this poor wretch. He asked him who had given him this wound; no answer. The aggressor began to speak, and said, “It was I who did it, bequ'il m'a fasché. Cela dit, il se teut. Le Pere tascha de les reconcilier, en fin ce Capitaine fortant, tint ce discours à ses gens. Mes nepueux, ne tirez aucune vengeance de l'iniure qui m'a esté faicté, c'est assez que la terre ait tremblé du coup qui m'a esté donné, ne la renuersez point par vostre colere. Quelque temps apres, cét homme superbe au possible estant guery, & voyant que les François vouloient tirer quelque satisfaction du Sauuage qui auoit mis l'an passé la corde au col du Pere Hierosme Lallement; cét homme rehaussant sa voix, harangua en cette forte: Ie m'estonne que ceux qui font estat de prier Dieu, & qu'ils [160] disent qu'il faut pardonner les offences, puisque Dieu les pardonne, vueillent tirer vengeance d'vne iniure qu'on leur a fait il y a desfa long temps, on cognoist assez qui ie suis, on fçait bien que c'est moy qui tient la terre affermie de mes bras, & cependant ayant receu il n'y a pas long temps vn coup qui me penfa diuifer la teste en deux pieces, ie ne m'esmeu point, ie ne conçeu aucun desir de vengeance, pourquoi n'imiterez-vous pas cet exemple? Que si le loup eut fait sortir mon ame de son corps, ma bouche eut prononcé ces dernieres paroles. Mes nepueux, ne troublez point la terre à l'occasion de vostre oncle qui l'a touſiours maintenuë: ie dy dauantage, si i'eufse fenty la terre ébranlée, ie ma fusse efforcé de l'arreſter, & de la mettre en fon repos, avec les deux bras de mon ame; & si ie n'eufse peu en venir à bout, ie me fusse escrié tout est perdu, le monde est renuersé. Ie ne me mesle plus d'affaires, ie me suis acquitté de mon deuoir, i'ay pardonné l'iniure qu'on m'a faite, i'ay donné confeil, on n'a pas voulu estre sage, la faute n'est point de mon costé. Voila, disoit cét cause he made me angry." This said, he relapsed into silence. The Father tried to reconcile them. Finally, as this Captain went out, he made the following speech to his people: "My nephews, do not take any revenge for the injury that has been done me; it is enough that the earth trembled at the blow that was given me,—do not overturn it by your wrath." Some time afterwards this man, as proud as possible,—having recovered, and seeing that the French were trying to get some satisfaction from the Savage who last year had put the rope around the neck of Father Hierosme Lallemant,—this man, raising his voice, harangued thus: "I am astonished that those who boast of praying to God, and who [160] say that it is necessary to pardon offenses, since God pardons them, wish to obtain revenge for an injury that was done them a long time ago. It is well enough known who I am,—it is well known that it is I who hold the earth firmly in my arms; and yet not long ago, when I received a blow that almost cleft my head in twain, I was not agitated, I conceived no desire for revenge; why will you not imitate this example? But if the wolf had caused my soul to issue from its body, my mouth would have pronounced these last words: 'My nephews, do not trouble the earth on account of your uncle, who has always held it up.' I say more, if I had felt the earth tremble, I would have tried to stop it, to restore it to its usual peacefulness with the two arms of my soul; and if I could not have succeeded in this, I would have cried out, 'All is lost, the world is turned upside down. I have nothing more to do with it,—I have discharged my duty, I have pardoned the injury that was done me; I have given homme plein de faste, comme les hommes [161] d'esprit se comportent, ô que l'orgueil a d'instruire, il arreste la colere, il semble donner de la patience; & au bout du conte, il ne fait rien qui vaille, iettant les hommes dans des tenebres plus sombres que la nuit; & leur faisant proferer des impertinences qui n'appartiennent qu'à des fols, & à des éceruelez. Changeons de discours

Les Hiroquois ayant emmené vne pauure vieille femme aagée de plus de foixante & dix ans, luy arracherent les ongles des pieds & des mains, luy appliquèrent des flambeaux de feu en plusieurs endroits de son corps, ils la menoient avec d'autres prisonniers en leur païs; comme ils vindrent à passer vn fault ou vne cheute d'eau où tout le monde met pied à terre; ceste pauure femme sans faire semblant de rien, ramassa vne coquille qu'elle rencontra sur la greue, la ferre sans mot dire; & la nuit tout le monde estant couché, elle coupe doucement ses liens avec ceste coquille, & s'enfuit à la dérobbe dans le bois; elle fit si bien, que ses ennemis ne la pûrent retrouuer, elle arriua aux trois Riuieres le sixiéme iour apres auoir quitté les Hiroquois ayant en partie cheminé [162] tout ce temps-là, en partie nauigé toute feule dans vn méchant canot d'Hiroquois qu'elle trouua, & cela sans manger: En verité c'est vne chose bien étonnante qu'vne femme agée près de quarante-vingt ans, trauerse quasi toute nuë tant de brossailles, ayant les pieds pleins de douleur, & les orteils sans ongles, estant toute brûlée par les costez, affaillie de mille esquadrons de mousquilles, dont ces païs sont infestez, & passer cinq ou six iours dans ces trauaux sans prendre aucune nourriture.

Quelque temps apres son arriuée, nous assemblâmes counsel, they would not be wise,—the fault is not mine.' Behold,' said this man, pompously, " how men [161] of intelligence behave." Oh, how much pride needs to be instructed! It checks anger, it seems to give patience; and in the end it does nothing that avails, casting men into a darkness more sombre than night, and making them utter impertinences which belong only to fools and to lunatics. Let us change the subject.

The Hiroquois, having carried away a poor old woman more than seventy years old, tore out her toe-nails and finger-nails, and applied burning torches to several parts of her body; they took her away with other prisoners to their country. When they came to pass a rapid or waterfall where every one went on shore, this poor woman, without seeming to take any notice, picked up a shell that she found on the strand, and held it tight, not uttering a word. That night, when all were asleep, she quietly cut her cords with this shell, and fled stealthily into the woods. She succeeded so well that her enemies could not find her again; and she reached the three Rivers on the sixth day after having left the Hiroquois, having traveled—partly on foot, [162] and partly by water, in a wretched Hiroquois canoe that she found—during all that time, and this without eating. In truth, it is really astonishing that a woman nearly eighty years old could traverse so many thickets,—almost entirely naked, her feet throbbing with pain, her toes without nails, her sides all burned, assailed by armies of thousands of mosquitoes, with which these countries are infested,—and endure these hardships for five or six days without taking any food.

vne vingtaine de vieilles femmes, dōt la plus ieune auoit près de foixante & dix ans pour les instruire en la Foy, sur le declin de leur aage; celle-cy estoit du nombre, comme on luy vint à décrire les feux d'Enfer, encor vaudroit-il biē mieux, disoit-elle, estre brûlé des Hiroquois, que des Diables. Pour conclusion, elle fut baptisée avec quelques autres, & nous fit dire que tous les Demons & tous les hommes ne sçau-roient détourner la bonté de Dieu, quand il plaist à sa Diuine Prouidence de mettre vne ame au nombre de ses éluez. Vne autre femme vn peu moins aagée que celle-cy, courut aussi grand risque de sa vie, [163] en la defaite de ses gens. Comme elle veit que les Hiroquois estoient aux prises avec eux, elle se iette dans l'épaisseur d'une groffe sapiniere, d'où elle entendoit les cris & les coups des combattants; & de peur que ses pas ou ses vestiges ne parussent, elle se cache dedans des eaux fangeuses & croupissantes qu'elle rencontra; comme elle n'étoit pas loin du Fort des Hiroquois, elle n'osoit partir de cette triste demeure: En fin l'ennemy estant party, elle en fort deux iours apres le combat pour tirer vers l'habitation de nos François, elle n'étoit pas bien loin, qu'elle entend vn grand cry, elle crût que c'estoient encore les Hiroquois, se va ietter dans sa taniere, où elle passe encor vn iour entier; le lendemain pensant que tout estoit en paix, elle quitte ces eaux froides & bourbeuses; mais comme elle approchoit des François, elle entendit tirer de grands coups de canons; Ceste pauure creature s'imagina que les Hiroquois attaquoient le Fort, & qu'on se battoit fort & ferme, elle se va replonger vne autrefois dans la fange, & y passer deux autres iours fuiuans: Bref, la misere la contraignant de sortir, elle s'en reuint doucement, tâchant

Some time after her arrival, we called a score of old women, the youngest of whom was nearly seventy years old, to instruct them in the Faith in their declining years; this one was among them. When we came to describe the fires of Hell, "It were a great deal better," said she, "to be burned by the Hiroquois than by the Devils." As a result, she was baptized with some others, which caused us to say that all the Demons and all human creatures could not turn away the goodness of God when it pleased his Divine Providence to place a soul among the number of his elect. Another woman, not quite as old as this one, seriously endangered her life [163] in the defeat of her people. When she saw that the Hiroquois were fighting with them, she ran into the depths of a great clump of firs, where she heard the cries and the blows of the combatants; and, lest her footsteps or tracks should appear, she concealed herself in some muddy and stagnant water that she found there. As she was not far from the Hiroquois Fort, she dared not leave this gloomy abode. At last, the enemy having departed, she emerged from it, two days after the fight, to repair to our French settlement. She had not gone far when she heard a loud cry; thinking that it was still the Hiroquois, she ran back into her den, where she passed another whole day. The next day, thinking that all was at peace, she left these cold and miry waters; but, as she approached the French, she heard some loud cannon-shots. This poor creature imagined that the Hiroquois were attacking the Fort, and that they were having a fierce fight. She again plunged into the mud, and passed there the two following days. In brief, her misery compelling her to emerge there-

de décourir à la dérobbée [164] si elle ne verroit pas l'ennemy; elle fut bien étonnée quand approchant de nostre demeure, elle veit ses gens cabanez en asseurance, elle les aborde, & leur conte son defastre; & eux luy declarent comme les cris qu'elle auoit entendu estoient des gens de fa Nation, & non des Hiroquois; & que le canon qu'elle auoit oyï fe tiroit pour honorer la venuë de Monsieur nostre Gouuerneur aux trois Riuières. Cét erreur eut esté capable de faire mourir vn homme bien robuste, & ceste femme n'en receut autre mal, que celuy qu'elle endura dans sa triste solitude. Il faut que ie touche icy en passant vn trait de simplicité de quelque Sauuage: Comme on leur faisoit voir dans la Chapelle vn tableau où Nostre Seigneur est representé au milieu des Docteurs de la Loy; ils consideroïent sa ieuneffe, & la vieilleffe de ces Docteurs; & comme ils estoient tous peints avec vn liure en main, & nostre Seigneur aussi; ils prindrent garde que les Docteurs regardoient tous dās leurs liures, & les tenoient ouuerts, & que Nostre Seigneur ne regardoit point dans le sien; cela leur fit dire ces paroles: Le Pere a raison de dire que ce ieune enfāt fçauoit tout; tenez, prenez garde, faisoient-ils, comme il ne iette [165] point les yeux sur son liure, & ces vieillards regardent les leur fort attentiuement. La naïfueté de ces bonnes gens est par fois agreable. Il est temps de finir. La flotte nous laisse dans la tristesse, & dans la ioye; L'Hosptial est chargé de tant de malades, qu'on est constraint d'en loger dehors sous des cabanes d'écorces. Les Sauuages font grandement affligez, on dit qu'ils meurent en tel nombre es pays plus hauts, que les chiens mangent les corps morts qu'on ne peut enterrer. Les Religieuses from, she returned cautiously, trying to discover by stealth [164] whether the enemy were visible. She was greatly astonished, when, upon approaching our dwelling, she saw her people encamped in safety. She accosted them, and related her misfortune; and they explained to her how the cries she had heard were those of the people of her own Nation, and not of the Hiroquois; and that the cannon she had heard was discharged in honor of the coming of Monsieur our Governor to the three Rivers. This wandering would have been enough to kill a strong and healthy man; and this woman experienced no other harm from it than what she endured in her gloomy solitude. I must here note, in passing, a trait of simplicity in certain Savages. As they were being shown in the Chapel a picture where Our Lord is represented in the midst of the Doctors of the Law, they noticed his youth, and the old age of the Doctors; and—as they were depicted each with a book in his hand, and our Lord also—they observed that the Doctors were all looking into their books, and were holding them open, and that Our Lord did not look into his; this caused them to utter these comments: "The Father is right in saying that this young lad knows everything. Look," said they, "observe that he does not cast [165] his eyes upon his book, and those old men look at theirs very attentively." The innocence of these simple people is sometimes amusing. It is time to end. The fleet leaves us in sadness, and in joy. The Hospital is burdened with so many sick people, that they are obliged to lodge some of them outside in bark cabins. The Savages are sorely afflicted; it is said that they are dying in such numbers, in the countries farther

Hospitalieres se font portées avec vne telle ferueur dans ces pressantes neceffitez qu'elles en ont alteré leur santé. Ceux de nos Peres qui visitent & qui assistent ces pauures gens empestez, ne se portent pas mieux; ceste contagiō feule se vouloit glisser parmy nos François. Quelques ieunes femmes nées sur le païs en font attaquées. Tout cela peut donner de la tristesse. La resignation de nos pauures Sauuages, le recours qu'ils ont au Baptefme, le desir qu'ont quelques-vns d'aller au Ciel, le mépris de la vie, la perfeuerance en la Foy dans ces tempestes, font capables d'effuyer nostre douleur. La croix porte des fruicts agreables en tout temps. Si iamais ces pauures gens ont besoin [116 i.e., 166] d'estre secourus de bonnes ames qui s'interessent & se liguent fainctement pour leur salut, c'est en ce temps de calamité. Il faut que la Foy se prouigne à la façon qu'elle a esté plantée, c'est à dire, dans les calamitez; & pource qu'on ne voit point icy de Tyrans qui maffacent nos Neophytes; Dieu y pouruoit d'ailleurs, tirant des preuves de leur constance par des afflictions biē fensibles, qu'il soit beny à iamais. Nous supplions tous V. R. & tous nos Peres, & nos Freres de sa Prouince, voire de toute la France, & tant d'ames faincetes, dans l'affociation desquelles nous sommes entrez, de prier pour ces pauures peuples, & pour nous, & en particulier, pour celuy qui est de toute son affection, up, that the dogs eat the corpses that cannot be buried. The Hospital Nuns perform their duties with so much zeal, in these pressing needs, that they have impaired their own health. Those of our Fathers who visit and assist these poor infected people are in no better condition; this contagion alone will slip in among our French; some young women born in this country have been attacked by it. All this may cause us sadness. The resignation of our poor Savages, the recourse they have to Baptism, the desire of some of them to go to Heaven, their contempt for this life, their perseverance in the Faith during these tempests, are capable of lightening our afflictions. The cross bears pleasant fruits at all seasons. If ever these poor people have need [116 i.e., 166] of being succored by good souls who interest themselves and form a holy league for their salvation, it is in this time of calamity. The Faith must propagate itself as it has been planted,—namely, in calamities. And because there are here no Tyrants who massacre our Neophytes, God provides for them otherwise, deriving proofs of their constancy from their afflictions, sore indeed. May he be forever blessed! We all supplicate Your Reverence, and all our Fathers and Brethren of your Province, yea, of all France, and the many saintly souls with whom we have associated ourselves, to pray for these poor peoples, and for us, particularly for him who is with all his heart,

Your Reverence's

Very humble and very obedient servant in God,

Missions of the Society of JESUS, in New France.*

MY REVEREND FATHER,
It is I who must render Your Reverence an account of the occupations of the Religious of our Society in these countries. I [2] shall be all the more willing to make it a little longer this time,—inasmuch as, being still, for the present, incapable of doing anything else, it will give me no little comfort to be useful, at least, in publishing the good that the divine mercy is beginning to accomplish for these peoples among whom we live, through the instrumentality of our other Fathers who are here. I believe your Reverence will find some cause herein to bless God, and to devote yourself more and more affectionately to assisting us with your atten-

Sacrifices and prayers,—which I ask of you very humbly, and of all our Fathers and Brethren down him who has the most need of them, namely,

[3] CHAPITRE PREMIER,

DE LA SITUATION DU PAIS, & DU NOM DE HURON.

MON dessein n'est pas de redire icy, ce qui se peut trouuer dans les precedentes Relations, ou dans les autres Liures qui ont desja traicté de ce sujet: mais seulement de suppleer au defaut de certaines circonstances sur lesquelles i'ay reconnu qu'on desiroit quelque satisfaction.

Par le mot du païs des Hurons, se doit entendre à proprement pa[r]ler, vne certaine petite portion de terre dans l'Amerique Septentrionale, qui en long[u]eur d'Orient à l'Occident, n'a pas plus de 20. ou 25. lieuës, & en largeur de Septentrion au Midy, n'est pas en plusieurs endroicts considerable, & en pas vn ne paffe sept ou huit lieuës. Son esleuation dans le cœur du païs, s'est trouuée de quarante-cinq & demy. Que si quelques-vns par le passé luy ont donné quelque peu moins; pour accorder les deux, il faut dire que ceux qui la mettent à quarante quatre & demy ou [4] environ, l'ont prise à quelque nations voisine plus Meridionale, censée du nombre des Huronnes, comme nous dirons cy-après.

Quant à la longitude, on ne l'a pû encore establir, selon le Regles de Geographie pour ne s'estre appliqué par accord en France, & icy, à l'exakte obseruation des eclypses. On attend la responce des obseruations qui en ont esté faites l'année dernière, &

OF THE SITUATION OF THE COUNTRY, AND OF THE NAME HURON.

IT is not my intention to repeat here what can be found in the preceding Relations, or in other Books which have already treated of this subject, but only to supply the lack of certain particulars, regarding which I have discovered that some information is desired.

By the term "country of the Hurons" must be understood, properly speaking, a certain small portion of land in North America, which is no longer than 20 or 25 leagues from East to West,—its width from North to South in many places being very slight, and nowhere exceeding seven or eight leagues. Its latitude, in the central part of the country, is found to be forty-five and a half [degrees]; if some in the past have made it a little less, to make these two statements agree, it must be said that those who put it at forty-four and a half, or [4] thereabout, took it in some of the more Southerly neighboring nations, reputed among the number of the Hurons, as we shall relate hereafter.

As for the longitude, it has been, as yet, impossible to establish it according to the Rules of Geography, as they have not been applied similarly in France, and here, to the exact observation of eclipses. The results of the observations made last year are now awaited; and meanwhile we suppose ourselves to be cependant nous nous figurons estre esloignez de France d'enuiron treize cens lieuës, tirant de la France à nous en droite ligne vers l'Occident, sous vn mesme parellelle d'esleuation; & de Quebec, la principale demeure de nos François en la Nouuelle France, de deux cent lieües, quoy qu'on en fasse d'ordinaire plus de trois cêt pour arriuer de là icy, à raison des détours qu'il faut prendre, pour euiter la rencontre des ennemis de ces peuples.

Dans cette petite estendue de terre, située à l'Est quart de Suest d'un grand lac, appellé par quelques-vns Mer douce, se trouue quatre Nations, ou plustost quatre diuers amas ou assemblages de quelques souches de familles par ensemble, qui toutes ayant communauté de langue, d'ennemis, [5] & de quelques autres interests, ne sont presque distingüées que par diuerses sources d'ayeuls & bisayeuls, dont ils conseruent cherement les noms & la memoire, elles s'augmentent toutesfois ou diminuent par l'adoption de quelques autres familles, qui se ioignent tantoft avec les vnes, & tantoft avec les autres, & qui s'en separent aussi quelquefois pour faire bande & nation à part.

Le nom general & commun à ces quatre Nations, selon la lâgue du païs est (8endat) les noms particuliers fon[t] Attigna8antan, Attigeneenongnahac, Aren-dahronons, & Tohontaenrat. Les deux premiers sont les deux plus considerables, comme ayant receu en leur païs & adopté les autres. L'vne depuis cinquante ans en ça; & l'autre depuis trente. Ces deux premiers parlent avec assurance des demeures de leurs Ancestres, & des diuerxes, assiettes de leurs bourgades au delà de deux cens ans, car comme il se peut remarquer dans le precedentes Relations, ils sont contraints about thirteen hundred leagues from France,—measuring from France to us in a straight line towards the West, under the same parallel of latitude,—and from Quebec, the principal settlement of our French people in New France, two hundred leagues,—although people generally travel more than three hundred to arrive here from that place, on account of the detours that must be made, to avoid an encounter with the enemies of these tribes.

In this small extent of country—situated to the East-Southeast of a great lake, called by some “fresh-water Sea”—are to be found four Nations, or rather four different collections or assemblages of grouped family stocks,—all of whom, having a community of language, of enemies, [5] and of other interests, are hardly distinguishable except by their different progenitors, grandfathers and great-grandfathers, whose names and memories they cherish tenderly. They increase or diminish their numbers, however, by the adoption of other families, who join themselves now to some, now to others, and who also sometimes withdraw to form a band and a nation by themselves.

The general name, and that which is common to these four Nations, in the language of the country is Wendat; the individual names are Attignawantan, Attigeneenongnahac, Arendahronons, and Tohontaenrat. The first two are the two most important, having received the others into their country, as it were, and adopted them,—the one fifty years ago, and the other thirty. These first two speak with certainty of the settlements of their Ancestors, and of the different sites of their villages, for more than two hundred years back; for, as may have been remarked in previous Relations, they are obliged to change their de changer de place au moins de dix ans en dix ans. Ces deux nations s'entrequalifient dans les conseils & assenbleés, des noms de frere & de sœur. Elles font les [6] plus peuplées pour auoir dans le cours du temps adopté plus de familles, & ces familles adoptées retenant tousiours les noms, & la memoire de leurs souchees, font encore diuerces petites Nations dans celles où elles ont esté adoptées, s'y conferuant vn nom general, & la communauté de quelques petits interests particuliers avec dependance à leurs deux Capitaines particuliers, lvn de guerre, l'autre de conseil, aufquels fe rapportent les affaires publiques de leur communauté.

Mais venons au nom de Huron, attribué originairement à ces nations principales dont nous venons de parler.

Il y a enuiron quarante ans que ces peuples pour la premiere fois se resolurent de chercher quelque route assurée pour venir traiter eux-mesmes avec les François dont ils auoiët eu quelque cognoisâce, particulierement par le rapport de quelques-vns d'entr'eux, qui allans à la guerre contre leurs ennemis, auoient donné par occasion iusques au lieu où pour lors les François tenoient la traite avec les autres barbares de ces contrées. Arriuez qu'il furent aux François, quelque Matelot ou Soldat voyant pour la premiere fois cette [7] forte de barbares, dont les vns portoient les cheueux fillônez; en forte que sur le milieu de la teste paroiffoit vne raye de cheueux large dvn ou deux doigts, puis de part & d'autre autât de razé; en ensuite vn autre raye de cheueux & d'autres qui auoient vn costé de la teste tout razé, & l'autre garny de cheueux pendants iusques sur l'espaule, locations at least every ten years. These two nations term each other "brother" and "sister," in the councils and assemblies. They are the [6] most populous, through having, in the course of time, adopted more families; and as these adopted families always retain the names and memories of their founders, they are still distinct little Nations in those where they have been adopted,—preserving thereof the general name, and community of some minor special interests, together with a dependence upon their two special Captains, one of war and the other of council, to whom the public affairs of their community are reported.

But let us come to the name "Huron," applied originally to these principal nations of whom we have just spoken.

It is about forty years since these peoples for the first time resolved to seek some safe route by which to come themselves, and trade with the French, of whom they had some knowledge,—particularly through the reports of some of their number, who, going to engage in war against their enemies, had occasionally been at the place where the French were at that time trading with the other barbarians of these countries. Arriving at the French settlement, some Sailor or Soldier seeing for the first time this [7] species of barbarians, some of whom wore their hair in ridges,—a ridge of hair one or two fingers wide appearing upon the middle of their heads, and on either side the same amount being shaved off, then another ridge of hair; others having one side of the head shaved clean, and the other side adorned with hair hanging to their shoulders,—this fashion of wearing the hair making their heads look to him cette façon de cheueux luy semblant des hures, cela le porta à appeller ces barbares Hurons: & c'est le nom qui depuis leur est demeuré. Quelques-vns le rapportent à quelque autre semblable fource, mais ce que nous en venons de dire semble le plus asseuré.

Ce n'est donc pas merueille si dans les Autheurs anciens il ne se trouue rien du nom de ces peuples; car pour ce nom François, ils ne l'ont que depuis le commencement de ce siecle. Pour leurs noms en leur langue, comme leur demeure est bien auant dans les terres, y ayant plus de vingt iournées de leurs païs aux endroits de Mer les plus proches, dōt presque les feuls riuages iusques icy ont esté conneus à nos Europeans. Leurs noms propres aussi bien que leurs personnes & leurs païs ont esté par le passé inconneus, particulierement [8] estant si peu considerables en l'estēduë de leur terre, & façon de viure toute dans le commun des Sauuage & Barbares de cette partie Septentrionale de l'Amerique. Ces Sauuages continuans de venir tous les ans à la traite, on s'appriuoifa biē-toſt avec eux, & prist-on en fuite resolution d'enuoyer quelques François pour hyuerner dans leur païs, & prendre de plus particulières cognoissances de ces peuples, & de leur langue, laquelle ayant esté reconnuë conuenir encore à d'autres nations voisines, de là vint que dans la suite des années, le nom de Hurons s'estendit dauantage, & s'appliqua encore aux peuples voisins qui auoient communauté de langage avec les fusdites nations, quoy qu'elles fussent sep-�ées d'intereſts.

Mais ce nom dans les idées des Religieux de nostre Compagnie s'estēd encore bien plus auant, car y ayant deux fortes de Barbares dans ce tiers du noulike those of boars [hures], led him to call these barbarians “ Hurons;” and this is the name that has clung to them ever since. Others attribute it to some other, though similar origin; but what we have just related seems the most authentic.

It is, then, not to be wondered at if in the old Authors nothing is to be found about the name of these peoples,—for, as for this French name, they have only had it since the beginning of this century. As for their names in their own language,—since their abode is far inland, it being more than twenty days’ journey from their country to the regions nearest the Sea, of which almost nothing but the coasts have thus far been known to our Europeans,—their proper names, as well as their persons and their country, have been unknown in the past,—especially [8] as they are of so little importance, on account of the extent of their territory, and because of the fashion of living all in common, followed by the Savages and Barbarians of this Northern part of America. As these Savages continued to come every year to trade, our people soon became acquainted with them, and then determined to send some Frenchmen to winter in their country, and obtain more thorough information about these tribes and their language. This procedure being recognized as expedient also in the case of other neighboring nations, it thence happened that in the course of years the name Huron extended farther, and was applied also to the neighboring tribes who had a common language with the above-mentioned nations, although they had separate interests.

But this name, in the minds of the Religious of our Society, extends yet much farther. For as there veau monde, compris sous le nom de Nouuelle France, fçauoir les Errās & les Sdentaires, nostre Compagnie s'estant proposé la conuerſion des vns & des autres, elle y a deux miffions principales, l'vne pour les Barbares Errans & vagabonds, que l'on tasche ensemble de [9] reduire & de faire Chreſtiens; l'autre pour les peuples plus Sdentaires. La premiere, comprend tous les païs qui font depuis l'emboucheure du fleue de fainct Laurēs dans la Mer Oceane iufques à nous, ce qui faict vn espace de plus de trois ou quatre cent lieuës d'Orient en Occident; fans parler de la latitude, particulieremēt du costé du Septentrion. Et la feconde, qui porte le nom de Miffion des Hurons, comprend en fuite tous les autres peuples qui font particulierement vers l'Occident & le Midy, tant que la terre se peut eſtēdre, & au delà, s'il s'y trouue des Iſles habitées de creatures racheptées du Sang de Iefus Christ, capables du Paradis.

Cela presupposé, ie laisse à iuger, si nous auons raifon d'eſleuer les yeux & les mains au Ciel, pour prier le Maistre de la moiffon d'enuoyer des Ouuriers à fon champ, & si nous n'auons pas en fuite fujet de nous eſcrier à qui il appartient fur terre, mēſis quidem multa, operarij autem pauci.

Que ſi on demande, quand eſt-ce que nous ferons venus à bout de ce grand deſsein, veu qu'à peine auons nous encore fait vne démarche, & auancé d'un pas dans ce païs depuis que nous y fommes, [10] A cela ie responſ premieremēt, que quand bien cela ne deût eſtre accompli, qu'un peu deuant la fin du monde, ſi faut-il touūours commencer deuant que de finir. En ſecond lieu ie dis, que ſ'il plaift à Dieu, donner autant de benediction à ce ſecond ſiecle de are two kinds of Barbarians in this third of the new world comprised under the name of New France,—namely, the Wandering and the Sedentary,—and as our Society has undertaken the conversion of both, there are two principal missions,—one for the Wandering and nomadic Barbarians, whom we are trying at the same time to [9] communalize and to make Christians; the other for the more Sedentary tribes. The first comprehends all the country from the opening of the saint Lawrence river into the Ocean Sea, up to us, which is a space of more than three or four hundred leagues from East to West, without speaking of its breadth, especially on the North. And the second, which bears the name of "Mission to the Hurons," consequently includes all the other peoples who dwell, especially towards the West and South, as far as the land may extend,—and beyond, if Islands are discovered there, inhabited by creatures redeemed by the Blood of Jesus Christ, and qualified for Paradise.

That being presupposed, I leave you to judge whether we have reason to raise our eyes and hands to Heaven, to entreat the Master of the harvest to send Laborers to his field; and if we have not therefore cause to cry out to those to whom it pertains on earth, messis quidem multa, operarii autem pauci.

But if some one asks when we shall execute this great plan,—seeing that hardly have we yet made a beginning, or advanced one step in these countries since we have been here,—[10] my answer to this question is, first, that even if this is not to be accomplished until shortly before the end of the world, yet it is always necessary to begin before ending. In the second place, I say that if it please God to give as l'aage de nostre Compagnie, dans lequel nous allons entrer, qu'il en a donné au premier; tel est maintenant en vie, qui pourra voir le tout & l'accomplissement de ce dessein. Je dis en outre, pour le temps du progrez & aduancement, qu'il fera quand il plaira à Dieu, de qui feul depend le tout, puifque neque qui plantat, neque qui rigat est aliquid, sed qui incrementum dat Deus: & qui veut que tous ceux qui trauaillent & contribuent à l'establiffement de fa gloire, eſperent de la forte en lui, qu'ils foient dans vne entiere resignation à fon bon plaisir, & dans vne genereufe attente des temps & des moments arreſtez par fa sainte prouidence, fans bransler dans cette diſpoſition, ny fe laſſer pour quelque retardement ou difficulté qui arriue,

Je croy toutefois pouuoir dire avec verité, qu'en ces 4. ou cinq ans que l'on s'est appliqué affiduëment à se rendre capable de contribuer à la conuerſion de ces Peuples, [11] plutoſt qu'à y trauailler effectiue-ment, on a plus fait encore cependant pour leur falut, qu'en quelques autres endroicts, où on a paſſé les 20. & trente ans deuant que d'en faire autant: quand il n'y auroit que quelques centaines d'enfans, qu'on y a baptisé, & qui incontinent apres le Baptefme s'en font enuolez au Ciel.

Au reſte ie ne pense pas qu'il fe rencontre icy moins de difficultez capables d'arreſter le cours de l'Euangile, qu'en aucun autre lieu du monde. Comme on pourra facilement reconoistre par ce qui en à eſté dit dans les precedentes Relations: là où on pourra voir, que nous auons affaire à des Barbares, à qui on n'a encore iamais prefché l'Euangile; Barbares fem-blables à ceux de la Floride, & autres de l'Amerique dont plusieurs histoires font mention, avec presque many blessings to this second century of the existence of our Society, on which we are about to enter, as he has given to the first, there are those now living who may see the entirety and the accomplishment of this plan. I say besides that, as for the time for its progress and advancement, that will be when it shall please God, upon whom alone all depends,—since neque qui plantat, neque qui rigat est ali- quid, sed qui incrementum dat Deus,—and who wishes all those who labor and contribute to the establishment of his glory so to hope in him, as to be entirely resigned to his good pleasure, generously awaiting the time and moment fixed upon by his holy providence, without being shaken in this frame of mind, nor becoming weary on account of any delay or difficulty that may occur.

I believe I can say truthfully, however, that,—in the 4 or five years that we have assiduously studied how to render ourselves capable of contributing to the conversion of these Peoples, [11] rather than to work effectively among them,—even more has been done for their salvation than in certain other places, where 20 or thirty years were spent before accomplishing as much, in which time only a few hundred children were baptized, who immediately after Baptism flew away to Heaven.

For the rest, I only think that one encounters here fewer difficulties capable of arresting the progress of the Gospel, than in any other part of the world. This can readily be understood from what has been said thereon in previous Relations, where it can be seen that we have to deal with Barbarians to whom the Gospel has never yet been preached,—Barbarians like those of Florida, and others in America, vn general dese[f]poir de pouuoir iamais rien profiter aupres d'eux en faict de Christianisme, finon avec des affistances & des procedures du tout extraordinaires qui font souuent douter de la solidité de leur conuerstion; & cependant pour en venir à bout, nous n'auōs ny le secours extraordinaire du Ciel par le don des langues & des miracles; ny ne pouuons auoir, au [12] defaut de ce moyen, celuy de l'esclat, puissance, & Majesté de l'Eglise & de nostre France, pour la grande & infurmontable difficulté des chemins, non pas mesme pour cette mesme raifon, vn secours & assistance mediocre pour subfifter dans cette barbarie, ou nous sommes à tous coups menacez de mort, ou au moins de bannissement: de forte qu'ayant les mesmes difficultez que les autres, nous sommes destituez des secours & affistances ordinaires & extraordinaires pour les furmonter.

Apres tout ie ne fçay ce que c'est, ny ce que Dieu veut faire, ny par quel moyen? mais nous sommes tous pleins d'esperâce, qu'avec patience & courage celuy à qui rien n'est impossible, & qui de rien faict tout ce qu'il veut, fera plus que nous n'oferions dire. Ce qui s'est passé cette année nous donne plus de sujet que iamais de le penfer de la sorte.

who are mentioned in several histories, with an almost general despair of ever being able to gain anything from them in the matter of Christianity, except with aids and methods altogether extraordinary, which often call in doubt the soundness of their conversion. And yet, in order to win success, we have neither the extraordinary help of Heaven in the gift of languages and of miracles, nor can we have, in [12] default of this intervention, that of the splendor, power, and Majesty of the Church and of our France, on account of the great and insurmountable difficulties of the roads; nor even, for this same reason, a moderate degree of succor and assistance that we may live in this barbarism, where we are every moment threatened with death, or at least with banishment. Therefore, having the same difficulties as the others, we are destitute of the ordinary and extraordinary help and assistance to surmount them.

After all I do not know what it means, nor what God intends to do, nor in what way; but we are all full of hope that, with patience and courage, he to whom nothing is impossible, and who from nothing produces whatever he wills, will do more than we would dare to say. What has taken place this year gives us more reason than ever to think so.

DE L'EMPLOY EN GENERAL DES RELIGIEUX DE NOSTRE
COMPAGNIE EN CES QUARTIERS.

ARRIUANT icy le 26. d'Aoust de l'an paffé 1638. i'y trouuay sept Religieux Prestres de nostre Compagnie distribuez en deux maisons ou Residences establies aux deux Bourgs les plus confiderables des deux principales Nations, des quatre qui composent les vrays Hurons, ainsi que nous auons déduit au Chap. precedent. Le fis donc le huitiesme: & enuiron vn mois apres arriuerent le P. Simon le Moyne, & le P. François du Peron, qui accomplirent le nombre de dix. Six ont la plufpart du temps demeuré en la Residence de la Conception au Bourg d'Offofane, le P. Francois le Mercier, furnommé par my les Sauuages Chaüose. Le P. Antoine Daniel, furnommé An8ennen. Le P. Pierre Chastelain furnommé Arioo. Le P. Charles Garnier, furnommé 8racha. Le P. Francois du Perron, furnommé Anonchiara: Et moy à qui on a donné le nom d'Achien-daffé. [14] Et quatre en la Residence de S. Ioseph au bourg, de Teanaustaiaé. Le P. Iean de Brebeuf, furnommé Echon. Le P. Ifaac Iogues, furnommé Ondeffone, Le P. Paul Ragueneau, furnommé Aondecheté, & le P. Simon le Moyne, furnommé 8ane.

La raison de ces furnoms vient, de ce que les Sauuages ne pouuant ordinairement prononcer ny nos noms, ny nos furnoms, pour n'auoir en leur langue

[13] CHAP. II.

OF THE GENERAL OCCUPATION OF THE RELIGIOUS OF OUR SOCIETY IN THESE QUARTERS.

UPON my arrival here, on the 26th of August of last year, 1638, I found seven Religious, Priests of our Society, distributed in two houses or Residences, established in the two most important Villages of the two principal Nations of the four which compose the real Hurons, as we have explained in the preceding Chapter. I made, then, the eighth; and about a month afterwards there arrived Father Simon le Moyne and Father François du Peron, who increased the number to ten. Six have remained, most of the time, in the Residence of la Conception in the Village of Ossosane,—Father François le Mercier, surnamed among the Savages Chauose; Father Antoine Daniel, surnamed Anwennen; Father Pierre Chastelain, surnamed Arioo; Father Charles Garnier, surnamed Ouracha; Father François du Perron, surnamed Anonchiara; and I, to whom they have given the name Achiedassé. [14] And four are in the Residence of St. Joseph, in the village of Teanaustaiaé,—Father Jean de Brebeuf, surnamed Echon; Father Isaac Jogues, surnamed Ondessonne; Father Paul Ragueneau, surnamed Aondecheté; and Father Simon le Moyne, surnamed Wane.

The reason for these surnames arises from the fact that the Savages, not being ordinarily able to prol'vfage de plusieurs confonantes qui s'y rencontrent, ils font le possible pour en approcher, que si ils n'en peuvent venir à bout, ils cherchent en la place des mots vſitez; dans le païs qu'ils puissent facilement prononcer, & qui ayent quelque rapport où à nos noms, ou à leur signification. Mais d'autant qu'il arriue quelquefois qu'il rencontrent assez mal à propos, la confirmation ou le changement des noms qu'ils ont donné pendant le voyage, fe faict dans le païs. Mais c'est assez de ce fuiet; venons à nos occupations ordinaires en ces contrées.

Depuis les quatres heures iufques aux huit du matin, le temps est employé aux Meffes & autres deuotions particulières. Sur les huit heures la porte de la Maifon [15] s'ouure aux Sauuages qui par le paffé ne fe fermoit plus iufques aux quatre heures du foir, tant pour fe redimer de la vexation, que autrement on apprehendoit, les Sauuages ne semblant pas capables d'vn refus d'entrer, au moins de iour, dans les cabanes qui font dans leur païs, qui ne font pour lors ordinairement fermées à personne, que pour prendre occasion de profiter de cette couftume, car autant de barbares qui vous viennent voir, ce font autant de Maiftres & d'escoliers qui nous viennent trouuer, & vous deliurent de la peine de les aller chercher. Maiftres, dis-ie, pour l'vfage de la langue; Escoliers, pour les affaires de leur falut & du Christianisme.

Toutesfois l'importunité de ces Barbares faineants au dernier point, deuenant insupportable, & presque d'orefnauant inutile, depuis qu'on a trouué le secret de leur langue, on a pris vne honneste liberté de n'y plus admettre que ceux avec lesquels on espere pronounce either our names or our surnames,—as they do not have in their language several consonants that are found therein,—get as near to them as they can; but, if they cannot succeed, they seek instead words used in their own country, which they can readily pronounce, and which have some connection either with our names or with their meaning. But inasmuch as it sometimes happens that they make rather unsuitable guesses, the confirmation or change of names that they have given during the voyage is made when they reach home. But enough of this subject; let us come to our usual occupations in these countries.

From four o'clock until eight in the morning, the time is passed in Masses and other special devotions. About eight o'clock the door of the House [15] is opened to the Savages; in the past, this was not closed again until four o'clock in the evening,—as much to save themselves the annoyance that was otherwise apprehended,—the Savages not seeming able to understand a refusal to enter, at least in the daytime, the cabins that are in their country, which are not usually closed then to any one,—as to take opportunity to profit by this custom. For, whatever the number of barbarians that come to see you, they are so many Masters and pupils visiting you, and saving you the trouble of going to them,—Masters, I say, in the use of the language; Pupils, as regards their salvation and Christianity.

However,—the importunity of these Barbarians, lazy to the last degree, becoming unbearable, and henceforward almost profitless, since we have found the secret of their language,—we have taken the reasonable liberty of no longer admitting any except fiter. On a eu vn peu de peine d'arriuer à ce point, mais Dieu luy-mesme semble auoir conduit cette affaire, de forte que nous en sommes heureusement en posseffion, avec vne consolation grande du dedans & dehors de nos maifons, excepté [16] peut-efstre de quelques-vns entre ces Barbares qui ont l'esprit plus mal fait.

Ceux de nos Peres qui font de garde, fe tiennent à leur tour à la cabane, & particulierement celuy qui tient la petite escole des enfans, des Chrestiens & Cathecumenes: les autres s'en vont au Bourg, faire la ronde & les visites de leur quartier, le Bourg estant diuisé en autant de parties qu'il y a de personnes intelligentes à la langue, & par consequent capables de trauailler. Mais pour le peu d'ouuriers, qu'il y a pour maintenant, tel fe trouue qui est chargé de quarante cabanes, dans plusieurs desquelles fe trouuent quatre & cinq feux; c'est à dire, huict ou dix familles, ce qui leur tailleroit beaucoup plus de besongne qu'ils n'en pourroient expedier; si leur courage ne leur donnoit des forces pour cela, & au delà.

Ces visites consistent premierement à voir, & à faire que pas vn, foit enfant, foit plus aagé, malade ne meurent fans Baptefme, ou fans instruction; pour à quoy arriuer plus facilement, on les fecoure & affiste temporellement de tout ce que l'on peut, & particulièremenr de remedes, & saignées, qui ont de fort bons effects. En 2. [17] lieu, on veille à prendre les occasions d'instruire ceux qui se portent bien, & leur inculquer fur tout, les matieres des dernieres Catechismes, ou confeils à parler felon l'air du païs; & les disposer à l'intelligence des fuiuants. Mais fur tout on s'applique à recognoistre les terres ou per-those by whom we hope to profit. It was somewhat difficult to bring this about; but God himself seems to have guided the affair so that we have fortunately come out victorious, with great comfort inside and outside our houses,—except [16] perhaps, in the case of a few of these Barbarians, whose minds are more perverted.

Those of our Fathers who remain upon guard take turns in staying in the cabin, and especially the one who keeps the little school for children, Christians, and Catechumens; the others go to the Village to make the rounds and visits in their quarters, the Village being divided into as many districts as there are persons familiar with the language and consequently capable of working. But on account of the few laborers there are now for this purpose, some of us are charged with forty cabins,—in several of which there are four or five fires, that is, eight or ten families,—which would lay out for them much more work than they could execute, if their courage did not give them strength for that, and even more.

These visits consist, first, in seeing the sick, and taking care that not one of them, child or adult, dies without Baptism or without instruction,—to attain which more easily, we give them all the temporal relief and assistance possible, and especially remedies and bleedings, which have very good effects. In the 2nd [17] place, we watch to seize opportunities to instruct those who are well, and to inculcate in them especially the instruction at the last Catechisms,—or councils, to speak according to the manner of the country,—and to prepare them for an intelligent understanding of the next ones. But, above all, we apply ourselves to discovering the soil or sonnes dans lesquelles le grain & la semence de la parole de Dieu aura pris racine, pour en suite les considerer & cultiuer comme Catechumenes.

A quatre ou cinq heures, felon la saison, on se retire, & les Sauuages qui sont en nostre cabane s'en vont; en suite de quoy on entre en conference, tantoft des empeschemens & des moyens d'auancer la conuerſion de ces peuples; tantoft des cas qui regardent l'establissement d'une nouvelle Eglise, & le plus ordinairement des preceptes de la langue, & des mots & façons de parler qu'on a entendu de nouveau; dans lesquels exercices, & autres qui regardent le Spirituel & le deuoir particulier d'un chacun, le temps se trouue si court, qu'encore qu'il soit veritable, qu'il y ait icy difette de toutes les douceurs qui sont en France, n'y ayant que les quatre elemens; & du reste pas plus [18] de nourriture ordinaire, & de couuert que ce qu'il en faut pour ne pas mourir de faim & de froid; ie n'y entens toutesfois qu'une feule plainte. Qu'il n'y a point de temps; & en effet il n'y en a pas à demy.

Les Catechismes publics se font plusieurs fois la semaine en ceste maniere, Premierement, les iours de Dimanche & de Feste, estant destinez pour l'inſtruction propre & particuliere de nos Neophytes & nouueaux Chrestiens, le matin pendant le temps de la Messe, on leur donne vne inſtruction en façon de profne, ou on à esgard à les inſtruire de ce qu'ils doiuent ſçauoir, & tout enſemble former leur esprit à la pieté & deuotion Chrestienne. L'apresdiné, apres des Vespres on les nourrit à ce commencement de la pure parole de Dieu, leur racomptant vn Dimanche les histoires & la fuite de l'ancien Testament; avec reflexion fur le profit qu'ils en doiuent tirer, & le persons where the seed and the germ of the word of God may have taken root, in order to give our attention to them afterwards and cultivate them as Catechumens.

At four or five o'clock, according to the season, we withdraw, and the Savages who are in our cabin go away; then we have a conference, sometimes on the obstacles against, and means for advancing the conversion of these peoples; sometimes on matters incident to the establishment of a new Church; but generally upon the rules of the language, and the new words and idioms that we have heard. In these exercises, and in others that regard the Spiritual and the individual duties of each one, the time passes so quickly, that although it may be true that there is here a dearth of all the comforts that are found in France,—as we have only the four elements, and, besides, no more [18] of ordinary food and covering than that necessary to keep us from dying with hunger and cold,—yet I have only heard one complaint, namely, that there is not time enough. And in fact there is not enough, by half.

Public Catechisms are held several times a week in this way: First, Sundays and Feast days are set aside for the suitable and individual instruction of our Neophytes and new Christians. In the morning, during the Mass, they are given instruction in the form of a sermon, in which we are careful to instruct them in what they ought to know, and at the same time train their minds to piety and Christian devotion. In the afternoon, after Vespers, we feed them in these beginnings with the pure word of God,—relating to them one Sunday the histories and the connection of the old Testament, with reflections Dimanche suiuant on en fait autant du Nouveau, le tout pour se conformer à ce qui est escrit, Hæc est vita æterna, vt cognoscant te Deum, & quem misisti Iesum Christum.

On prend vn iour ouurier de la femaine, pour faire vn autre instruction publique [19] à tous indifferemment, soit fidelles, soit infidelles: ce qui se passe en ceste maniere. Sur l'heure du Midy on s'en va crier par le bourg, ou avec la clochette inuiter, dans les ruës & carrefours, au conseil, mais au conseil des conseils, qui concerne l'affaire importante du salut. Au lieu où il n'a point de Chappelle, & ou nostre cabane est trop petite, on le fa[i]ct le plus que l'on peut au dehors, & lors que le temps & la faison ne le permettent, on le fait au dedans; mais pour lors on n'admet que les hommes referuant les femmes & les enfans au lendemain. Le monde estant assemblé, apres l'inuocation du faint Esprit, on dit ou l'on chante vne Oraison propre à cét exercice en langue Huronne. Apres quoy on commence l'instruction, qui est quelquefois interrompuë par l'approbation ou obiections des Sauuages: à la fin de laquelle on leur fait faire quelques prières, & entr'autres vne petite, où est enfermé l'acte de contrition. A l'issuë de cela, on se met à chanter le Credo, les Commandemens, le Pater, l'Aue, & autres prières, tant & si peu qu'on voit les Sauuages attentifs, & en estat d'en faire leur profit.

[20] Outre ceste instruction commune, on en fait quelqu'autre iour de la femaine vne moins generale, où sont inuitées nommement les personnes qu'on desire y assister, qui sont les Capitaines & les plus notables du Bourg qui ont esté recogneus auoir quelupon the profit they ought to derive from them; and, the next Sunday, doing the same thing from the New,—all, that it may conform to what is written, Hæc est vita æterna, ut cognoscant te Deum, et quem misisti Iesum Christum.

We take one working-day of the week to give another public lesson [19] to all alike,—be they believers or unbelievers,—which takes place thus: At the hour of Noon, a man goes calling aloud through the village, or with the bell, in the streets and public places, inviting to the council, but to the council of councils, which concerns the important matter of salvation. In a place where there is no Chapel, and where our cabin is too small, we do this as well as we can outdoors; and when the weather and season do not permit it, it is done indoors,—but then we admit only the men, reserving the women and children for the next day. The people having assembled, after the invocation of the holy Ghost we say or chant a Prayer suitable to this service, in the Huron language. After this we begin the instruction, which is sometimes interrupted by the approbation or objections of the Savages; at the end of this, we have them say a few prayers, and, among others, a little one in which is included the act of contrition. After that, we engage in singing the Credo, the Commandments, the Pater, the Ave, and other prayers,—many or few, as we see the Savages attentive and in a condition to profit by them.

[20] Besides this public instruction, on another day in the week we give a less general one, to which are especially invited the people that we wish to have present,—the Captains and most notable men of the Village who have been recognized as having pious que pieuse affection & inclination au Christianisme, & ausquels il importe particulierement de faire bien entendre les mysteres de nostre foy, & qu'ils soient deuëment informez de ce que nous pretendons en ce païs, par toutes ces sortes d'assemblées & d'appareil.

Outre tout ce que deffus, au lieu où les Catechumenes ne peuuent estre suffisamment instruicts par des conferences particulières de ceux qui ont font [sc. foin] de leurs cabanes, on les assemble tous les iours le foir, où en commun on leur donne l'instruction que l'on iuge le plus à propos, touchant ce qu'ils doiument sçauoir deuant que d'estre baptifez.

On ne s'est pas contenté de trauailler dans les Bourgs où nous auons des résidences; mais nous sentans vn peu plus forts, que par le passé, d'ouuriers intelligens en la langue, on a entrepris des Missions par les Bourgs & villages du païs; particulierement [21] pendant l'Hyuer, qui est le feul temps propre à cela. Les Hurons en ceste feule faison faisant demeure en leurs cabanes, en tout autre temps estants ou à la guerre, ou en traite, ou à la chasse, ou à la pesche. On parcourra premierement tout le païs qui le premier nous a receu, puis on pouffera plus auant; & toufiours de plus en plus, iusques à ce que nostre tasche soit accomplie, qui comme nous auons desia dit, n'est bornée que des limites du Soleil couchant.

Ie ne parle point icy du soin du Seminaire erigé à Quebec en faueur de ces peuples; cét article estant esloigné de nous de 300. lieuës. C'est vn ouurage qui vn iour fera vn plus grand effect pour le seruice de Dieu en ces contrées, que ne se perfuadent ceux que Dieu inspire d'y contribuer; quoy que peut estre ce ne soit pas de la façon qu'ils l'ont pensé.

tendencies and a leaning towards Christianity, and whom it is particularly important to make well understand the mysteries of our faith, and to have them duly informed of our intentions in this country through all these various meetings and preparations.

In addition to all the above, in a place where the Catechumens cannot be sufficiently instructed through private talks with those who have charge of their cabins, they are assembled every evening and are together given the instruction considered most suitable, touching the things they should know before being baptized.

We are not satisfied with working in the Villages where we have residences; but feeling ourselves a little stronger, than in the past, in workers familiar with the language, we have undertaken Missions in the Villages, large and small, of the country,—especially [21] during the Winter, which is the only time suitable for this. The Hurons take up their abode in their cabins at this season only; at all other times, they are either at war, or engaged in trading, hunting, or fishing. We shall first go all over the country which was the first to receive us, then push farther on,—and always on and on,—until we have accomplished our task, which, as we have already said, is only bounded by the setting Sun.

I say nothing here of the care of the Seminary erected at Quebec for the benefit of these peoples, that affair being 300 leagues away from us. It is a work that some day will cause greater results for the service of God in these countries than those whom God inspires to contribute thereto imagine,—although it will not be, perhaps, in the way they have expected it.

Le libertinage des enfans en ces pays est si grand, & ils se trouuent si incapables de reglement & de discipline, Que tant s'en faut que nous puissions esperer la conuersion du pays par l'instruction des enfans; qu'il faut defesperer leur instruction, sans la conuer-sion des parens. Et par consequent, [22] tout bien consideré, la premiere chose à laquelle nous deuons veiller, c'est à la stabilité des mariages de nos Chrestiens, qui nous donnent des enfants, qui de bonne heure soient esleuez à la crainte de Dieu, & de leurs parents. Voila le feul moyen de fournir les Seminaires de ieunes plantes, pour à quoy arriuer; quelques charitez feroient merueilleusement bien employées, par lesquelles on pourroit obuier aux difficultez qui se rencontrent à l'execution de la stabilité des mariages, contre la coustume immémoriale du païs, vne trentaine de personnes donnant vne fois pour toutes, chacune vne douzaine d'escus l'vne portant l'autre, donneroient icy cinquante mariages stables, qui feroient, dans quelque temps, vn monde ou plu-stoſt vn Paradis tout nouueau. Que s'il y auoit quelque fondation pour cela; encore mieux: il en fera ce qu'il plaira à Dieu.

Cependant le Seminaire de Quebec pourra seruir, pour y retirer les enfans de nos Chrestiens qui se trouueront de bon naturel: il seruira en outre pour des personnes aagées, qui desireront tout de bon estre à loisir & plus en repos instruites: & [23] pour ce se veulent esloigner du païs pour quelque temps. Auffi bien si ceux qui retournent du seminaire, ne sont promptement liez par le mariage, le torrent des mau-uaifez coustumes & compagnies est si grand, qu'il fau-droit du miracle pour y resister. L'aage en outre de

The freedom of the children in these countries is so great, and they prove so incapable of government and discipline, that, far from being able to hope for the conversion of the country through the instruction of the children, we must even despair of their instruction without the conversion of the parents. And consequently, [22] all well considered, the first matter to which we should attend is the stability of the marriages of our Christians, who give us children that may in good time be reared in the fear of God and of their parents. Behold the only means of furnishing the Seminaries with young plants. To attain this, some charitable gifts would be wonderfully useful, by means of which we could obviate the difficulties that are encountered in bringing about, contrary to the immemorial custom of the country, the stability of marriages. Some thirty persons giving, once for all, an average of a dozen écus each, would insure fifty stable marriages here, which would after some time form a world, or rather a Paradise, entirely new,—and still more if only there were some endowment for it. That will be as God shall please.

Meanwhile, the Seminary at Quebec may serve as a place to receive the children of our Christians who shall prove to be of good dispositions; it will serve, besides, for adults who shall desire in earnest to be instructed at leisure and more quietly, and [23] for this purpose may wish to be absent from their country for a time. Indeed, if those who return from the seminary are not promptly bound in marriage, the torrent of bad customs and bad company is so strong, that some miracle would be needed to enable them to resist it. The age, besides, of certain seminarists will give weight and authority to their words, and to tels seminaristes donnera du poids & de l'autorité à leurs paroles, & au rapport de ce qu'ils auront veu de bien parmy la Chrestienté de Quebec.

Nous auons aussi pensé d'appliquer quelques-vns à la connoissance de nouuelles langues. Nous iettions les yeux sur trois autres des Peuples plus voisins; sur celles des Algonquains espars de tous costez, & au Midy; & au Septentrion de nostre grand Lac: Sur celle de la Nation neutre qui est vne maistresse porte pour les païs Meridionaux; sur celle de la Nation des Puants, qui est vn paassage des plus considerables pour les païs Occidentaux, vn peu plus Septentrionaux: Mais nous ne nous sommes pas trouuez encore assez forts pour conferuer l'acquis, & songer ensemble à tant de nouvelles conquestes; de forte que nous auons iugé plus à propos de differer l'execution de ce dessein encore [24] pour quelque temps, & de nous contenter cependant de prendre l'occasion que Dieu nous enuoyoit à nostre porte, d'entrer en quelque nation de la langue des Neutres, par l'arriuée en ce païs des 8eanohronons, qui s'y font refugiez, comme nous dirons cy-apres; lesquels faisoient vne des Nations associées à la Nation neutre.

Nous auons d'autant plus facilement quitté la penfée de nous appliquer pour le prefent, à la langue des Algonquains, que nos Peres de Quebec & des trois riuieres s'y appliquent fortement. Nous esperons de là, quelque braue ouurier, qui vienne icy rompre la glace, & nous donner entrée & ouverture parmy ces peuples qui font autour de nous, & n'ont l'vsage d'autre langue, que de l'Algonquine. Plaife à la diuine Majesté donner benediction à toutes ces penfées & entreprises.

the report of the good they will have seen among the Christian people of Quebec.

We have also thought of setting apart some for the study of new languages. We were considering three other languages, of Peoples that are nearest to us,—that of the Algonquains, scattered on all sides, both to the South and to the North of our great Lake; that of the neutral Nation, which is a main gateway for the Southern tribes; that of the Nation of the Stinkards,¹⁴ which is one of the most important openings for the Western tribes, and somewhat more for the Northern. But we have not yet found ourselves strong enough to keep our acquisitions, and at the same time to dream of so many new conquests; so we have judged it wiser to defer the execution of this plan for [24] some time longer, and to content ourselves, meanwhile, with seizing the opportunity that God has sent to our doors,—that of entering a nation of the Neutral language through the arrival in this country of the Weanohronons,¹⁵ who have taken refuge here, as we shall relate hereafter, and who formed one of the Nations allied with the neutral Nation.

We have the more readily given up the idea of applying ourselves to the Algonquin language, that our Fathers at Quebec and the three rivers are studying it diligently. We hope to get some brave worker from that quarter, who will come here to break the ice and give us entrance and opportunity among these tribes who are around us, who are familiar with no other language but the Algonquin. May it please his divine Majesty to give his blessing to all these ideas and enterprises.

NOTES TO VOL. XVI

(Figures in parentheses, following number of note, refer to pages of English text.)

1 (p. 9).—For sketch of the duchess d'Aiguillon, see vol. viii., note 62.

2 (p. 9).—This order of Hospital Nuns (vol. viii., note 64) was one of the oldest of the hospital orders in France. Laroche-Héron, in Servantes de Dieu en Canada (Montreal, 1855), p. 17, says: "The mother-house in Dieppe existed in France before the year 1250." De Launay states that the order was reformed and re-established in 1609, receiving its revised constitution in 1636.—Religieuses Hospitalières de Saint-Joseph (Paris, 1887), p. 79. Le Jeune says (vol. vii. of this series, pp. 287, 289) that the Dieppe hospital was "one of the best regulated in Europe;" and he quotes a letter from its superior, describing the character and death of a little Indian girl placed under her care by Le Jeune in 1634. The nuns who founded the hospital at Quebec, as related in our text, were the following: Marie Guenet de St. Ignace (superior), aged 29; Anne le Cointre de St. Bernard, aged 28; and Marie Forestier de St. Bonaventure, aged 22. The duchess d'Aiguillon gave (Aug. 16, 1637), to establish the Quebec Hotel-Dieu, the sum of 22,400 livres; and again (Jan. 31, 1640), for its enlargement, 40,500 livres. For historical sketch of this hospital, see Laroche-Héron, ut supra.

3 (p. 11).—According to Littré, the term "election" was in olden times applied to the courts of first instance in which were decided all matters pertaining to taxes, levies, and excise; also to the district under the jurisdiction of each court. The judges of such court were termed "the elect," because they were originally chosen by election, for the duty of imposing taxes.

4 (p. 13).—Marie Guyard was born at Tours, France, Oct. 28, 1599; her father was either a dealer in or a manufacturer of silk, her mother the descendant of a noble family. At the age of eighteen, she married (though only in obedience to her parents) Claude Martin, a silk manufacturer of Tours, who died Oct. 19, 1619,—leaving to his widow a son (born in the preceding April), and but the fragments of his fortune, which had been, shortly before his death, swept away by unexpected reverses. Inclined to the religious life from her earliest childhood, she now not only refused to marry again, but resolved to become a nun. Love for her child long hindered her from this step; but finally (1632) she placed him in her sister's charge, and entered the Ursuline convent at Tours, where she made profession Jan. 25, 1633, under the name of Marie of the Incarnation. Some time during the following year, it would seem, she had a vision of a strange and distant country, in which the Virgin and Christ appointed her to labor; this was fulfilled, as she thought, when Madame de la Peltre (vol. xi., note 4) invited her to take charge of the Ursuline house that she was about to establish in Canada. Another nun was appointed from the convent at Tours,—Marie de Savonnière de St. Joseph, aged 23; a third, Cécile Richer de la Croix, aged 30, was obtained from the Ursulines of Dieppe; and a young girl of nineteen, Charlotte Barré, accompanied them, who after her arrival in Canada took the veil, under the name of Mother St. Ignace. All these Ursulines, with the Hospital Nuns (note 2, ante) and several Jesuit missionaries, arrived at Quebec Aug. 1, 1639. The Ursulines were temporarily lodged in a small house near the river-bank; but in 1641 they removed to their own convent, built upon the site still occupied by them. These nuns have maintained, since their foundation, a school for girls, not only for French and Canadians, but for Indians—these last being for many years the especial objects of their care. For historical sketches of this convent, see Baunard's Vie de Marie de l'Incarnation, pp. 499–506; and Laroche-Héron's Servantes de Dieu. Marie of the Incarnation remained superior of this house until her death (Apr. 30, 1672), ruling it, amid many financial and other embarrassments, with great energy and wisdom, and winning the admiration and regard of all. Parkman says of her (Jesuits, p. 186): “She carried on a vast correspondence, embracing every one in France who could aid her infant community with money or influence; she harmonized and regulated it with excellent skill; and, in the midst of relentless austerities, she was loved as a mother by her pupils and dependents.” Though a woman of ardent zeal and enthusiasm, she possessed great resolution, fortitude, and perseverance, and was gifted with unusual executive ability. She had also a talent for languages, and is said to have left an Algonkin dictionary, and numerous other MSS. in that tongue; these have disappeared, and it is supposed that they were destroyed with the convent, in the fire of 1686. Her correspondence, however, furnished material for Lettres spirituelles et historiques, collected by her son, and published in 1681; a new and enlarged edition has been published by Richaudeau (Tournai, 1876). A catechism (in French), written by her, was published by her son, in 1684; a third edition appeared at Tournai in 1878.

This son, Claude Martin, became a Benedictine priest, making his profession Feb. 3, 1642. He was a man of great talent and piety, and occupied many important and responsible positions in his order, being finally appointed (1668) an assistant to the Father General. He died at Marmoutiers, Aug. 9, 1696, leaving numerous religious works (mostly in MS.), notable among which is a biography of his mother (Paris, 1677). Other lives of this noted woman are those of Charlevoix (Paris, 1724), Casgrain (Quebec, 1864), Richaudeau (Paris, 1873; Tournai, 1874), Chapot (Paris, 1892), and Baunard (Paris, 1893). Marie was characterized by Bossuet as the "Theresa of her century and of the New World." She received beatification, by papal decree, in 1877.

5 (p. 17).—Roy says (Canada-Français, vol. ii., p. 448): "The country of Canada, considered as a prolongation of France on the other side of the Atlantic, was in some sort annexed to the province of Normandy. It was to the parliament of Rouen that belonged jurisdiction in the earlier legal matters concerning the colony; and it was from the archbishop of Rouen that the missionaries requested their credentials before embarkation. That prelate, regarding this land as a natural extension of his ecclesiastical domain, named its grand vicars."—Cf. Biard's argument as to ownership by France of lands across the sea (vol. iv. of this series, p. 109); also, concerning the appointment of grand vicars, Journ. des Jésuites, pp. 185–187.

There were many other ties between New France and Normandy. From the latter province had come the majority of Canada's early settlers; and it was the merchants of Rouen and Dieppe who had the most important commercial interests in New France. The offices of the Hundred Associates were established at Rouen; and the parliament of that city was, for a time, charged by the king with jurisdiction over the colonies. As for religious affairs, they were at first ordered directly from Rome; later, the archbishop of Rouen practically became the spiritual head of the Canadian colony,—the missionaries (many of whom came from his diocese), and probably the secular priests as well, applying to him for grant or confirmation of their spiritual authority therein. Rochemonteix says (Jésuites, vol. ii., p. 203): "Thus the archbishop of Rouen, Primate of Normandy, became accustomed, little by little, to regard Canada as an integral part of his domain. It was Mgr. de Harlay, who exercised the first act of authority over New France; and his successor went so far as to maintain that the mere fact that he had sent to Canada priests of his diocese, placed that country under his authority." This claim was the beginning (1647) of a conflict for ecclesiastical supremacy in Canada, which was finally ended only by the peremptory recall to France (1659), by a royal lettre du cachet, of Abbé de Queylus, "the last ecclesiastical dignitary from Rouen whom we had in this country" (Roy, ut supra). He was succeeded by Mgr. Laval, the first bishop of Canada.

6 (p. 19).—Reference is here made to Jean de Bernières-Louvigny, who greatly aided Madame de la Peltrie in her Canadian enterprise (vol. xi., note 4), and administered her affairs during her residence in Canada. He was also a counselor and friend of Marie of the Incarnation, and of Laval; and founded the Hermitage of Caen, a religious school and retreat of ascetic and mystical tendencies. A sketch of Bernières and his work is given by Gosselin in Henri de Bernières (Evreux, 1897), pp. 6-19. Cf. Chapot's Marie de l'Incarnation, t. i., pp. 433-440; and Parkman's Old Régime, pp. 88-95.

8 (p. 23).—The Hospital Nuns, upon their arrival at Quebec, were lodged for a time in a new house belonging to the Hundred Associates, near Fort St. Louis. In June, 1640, they removed to the dwelling of Pierre de Puyseaux, at St. Michel de Sillery, while awaiting the completion of their convent there, which they entered in the spring of 1641.

10 (p. 83).—Desert: The French Canadians apply this term to an open piece of arable land, on which no trees are growing, to distinguish it from timbered land. These deserts, or natural meadows, would in all probability be the first places selected for cultivation by the savages, who were but ill provided with tools for cutting down trees. About twelve miles from Quebec, between Ancienne Lorette and La Jeune Lorette, there is a large plain called Le Grand Désert; it occupies a depression between the hills, apparently the bed of a former lake, and is very fertile.—CRAWFORD LINDSAY.

The Wisconsin River has its rise in Lac Vieux Désert, so named from an island in the lake, which was long cultivated by Indians.

12 (p. 107).—Cf. vol. iii., note 19.

13 (p. 191).—Bluets: the Canada blueberry, Vaccinium Canadense; described and figured by Charlevoix (Amer. Plantes, p. 52), who ascribes to it various medicinal properties. It is abundant throughout Canada, and, according to Clapin, "most of all in the Saguenay region, where every season it is gathered in enormous quantities." Champlain (Voyage of 1615) mentions this berry, with raspberries and other small fruits, as growing in marvelous abundance along the river-banks in Western Canada, and as dried for winter use by the natives. Josselyn (New Eng. Rarities, Tucker-man's ed., p. 197) says of blueberries (called by him "sky-coloured bill-berries") and whortleberries: "The Indians dry them in the sun, and sell them to the English by the bushell; who make use of them instead of currence—putting of them into puddens, both boyled and baked, and into water-gruel." Roger Williams (Key to Amer. Lang., Narrag. Club ed., p. 122) makes a similar statement: "Sau-taash are these currants dried by the Natives, and so preserved all the yeare, which they beat to powder, and mingle it with their parcht meale, and make a delicate dish which they cal Sautaughig; which is as sweet to them as plum or spice cake to the English." The Abnakis styled July "the berry-month," as the time when the blueberries ripened.

14 (p. 253).—Nation des Puants: the Winnebago tribe (vol. xv., note 7).

15 (p. 253).—Weanoхronons (Wenrôhronons, Ahouenrochronons): see vol. viii., note 34. This is apparently a part of the tribe mentioned in Relation of 1641, as kindly receiving the missionaries at Khioetoa (St. Michel). The village is shown on Sanson's map (1656), a little east of the present site of Sandwich. In this case the "more than 80 leagues distance" to Ossossané would refer to the distance of the latter from St. Michel, rather than from the first location of the tribe "on the borders of the Iroquois."—A.
